Pacific Women's Association PPWA has witnessed and contributed to enormous changes in world and Pacific history. Operating out of Honolulu this women's network established a series of conferences that promoted social reform and an internationalist outlook through cultural exchange. For the many women attracted to the project from China, Japan, the Pacific Islands, and the major settler colonies of the region, the association's vision was enormously attractive despite the fact that as individuals and national representatives they remained deeply divided by colonial histories. Glamour in the Pacific tells this multifaceted story by bringing together critical scholarship from across a wide range of fields including cultural history, international relations, and globalization, gender and empire, postcolonial studies, population and world health studies, world history, and transnational history. Early chapters consider the first PPWA conferences and the decolonizing process undergone by the association. Following World War II, a new generation of nonwhite women from decolonized and settler colonial nations began to claim leadership roles in the Association, challenging the often Eurocentric assumptions of women's internationalism. In 1955, the first African American delegate brought to the fore questions about the relationship of U.S. race relations with the Pan Pacific cultural internationalist project. The effects of cold war geopolitics on the ideal of international cooperation in the era of decolonization were also considered. The work concludes with a discussion of the revival of East meets West as a basis for world cooperation endorsed by the United Nations in 1958 and the overall contributions of the PPWA to world culture politics. The internationalist vision of the early twentieth century imagined a world in which race and empire had been relegated to the past. Significant numbers of women from around the Pacific brought this shared vision together with their concerns for peace, social progress, and cooperation to the lively, even glamorous political experiment of the Pan Pacific Women's Association. Fiona Paisley tells the stories of this extraordinary group of women and illuminates the challenges and rewards of their politics of antiracism, one that still resonates today.

Little Women at 150 Daniel Shealy, 2022-03-08. Contributions by Beverly Lyon Clark, Christine Doyle Gregory, Eiselein John Matteson, Joel Myerson, Sandra Harbert Petrulionis, Anne K. Phillips, Daniel Shealy, and Roberta Seelinger Trites. As the golden age of children's literature dawned in America in the mid 1860s, Louisa May Alcott's Little Women, a work that many scholars view as one of the first realistic novels for young people, soon became a classic. Never out of print, Alcott's tale of four sisters growing up in nineteenth-century New England has been published in more than fifty countries around the world. Over the century and a half since its publication, the novel has grown into a cherished book for girls and boys alike. Readers as diverse as Carson McCullers, Gloria Steinem, Theodore Roosevelt, Patti Smith, and J.K. Rowling have declared it a favorite. Little Women at 150, a collection of eight original essays by scholars whose research and writings over the past twenty years have helped elevate Alcott's reputation in the academic community, examines anew the enduring popularity of the novel and explores the myriad complexities of Alcott's most famous work. Examining key issues about philanthropy, class, feminism, Marxism, Transcendentalism, canon formation, domestic labor, marriage, and Australian literature, Little Women at 150 presents new perspectives on one of the United States most enduring novels A historical and critical introduction discusses the creation and publication of the novel briefly traces the scholarly critical response and demonstrates how these new essays show us that Little Women and its illustrations still have riches to reveal to its readers in the twenty first century Luke 1?9

Saniye Dedeoglu,2007-10-24 Globalisation is often considered as not only generating jobs but also having a negative effect on those at the bottom of the labour supply chain Here Saniye Dedeoglu shows us exactly how globalisation has affected women engaged in insecure invisible and low unpaid garment work Through a close ethnographic study of women workers in Istanbul s garment industry she reveals how industries have adapted their labour demands to make use of local female labour supplies and highlights the strategies and responses that have evolved in response to contemporary changes in global industrial production in Turkey Dedeoglu shows how production for global markets has seeped into local labour markets contributing to a culture of work which is informal and whose participants are often invisible Women Workers in Turkey throws up the critical question of what it means to be a woman in today s globalised society and is an important contribution to the various perspectives on the social and economic consequences of globalization to the least privileged in industrial societies Resources in Education ,1980 Parliamentary Papers Great Britain.
