Basin, Peru: Nonceramic artifacts Richard S. MacNeish, 1980 The Prehistory of Food Chris Gosden, Jon G. Hather, 2004-01-14 The Prehistory of Food sets subsistence in its social context by focusing on food as a cultural artefact It brings together contributors with a scientific and biological expertise as well as those interested in the patterns of consumption and social change and includes a wide range of case studies Cultural Evolution Gary M. Feinman, Linda Manzanilla, 2012-12-06 Drawing on Kent Flannery's forty years of cross cultural research in the area the contributors to this collection reflect the current diversity of contemporary approaches to the study of cultural evolutionary processes Collectively the volume expresses the richness of the issues being investigated by comparative theorists interested in long term change as well as the wide variety of data approaches and ideas that researchers are employing to examine these questions Andean Archaeology III William Isbell, Helaine Silverman, 2008-02-01 The third volume in the Andean Archaeology series this book focuses on the marked cultural differences between the northern and southern regions of the Central Andes and considers the conditions under which these differences evolved grew pronounced and diminished This book continues the dynamic current problem oriented approach to the field of Andean Archaeology that began with Andean Archaeology I and Andean Archaeology II Combines up to date research diverse theoretical platforms and far reaching interpretations to draw provocative and thoughtful conclusions The Flocks of the Wamani Kent V Flannery, Joyce Marcus, Robert G Reynolds, 2016-06-16 In this volume the authors present an original ethnographic study of five llama herding communities in Ayacucho Peru Data on herd dynamics are subjected to computer modeling in an effort to evaluate the roles of biology symbolic and ritual behavior ecological adaptation and practical reason The book contains the most detailed study of the waytakuy llama marking ceremony yet available The role of this ceremony in preventing herds from going to extinction is evaluated against anthropological and sociobiological theory This is an interdisciplinary book will appeal to professional archaeologists prehistorians cultural anthropologists Andeanists theoretical biologists evolutionary biologists and zoologists interested in animal domestication Andean Archaeology I William H. Isbell, Helaine Silverman, 2012-12-06 Study of the origin and development of civilization is of unequalled importance for understanding the cultural processes that create human societies Is cultural evolution directional and regular across human societies and history or is it opportunistic and capricious Do apparent regularities come from the way investigators construct and manage knowledge or are they the result of real constraints on and variations in the actual processes Can such questions even be answered We believe so but not easily By comparing evolutionary sequences from different world civilizations scholars can judge degrees of similarity and difference and then attempt explanation Of course we must be careful to assess the influence that societies of the ancient world had on one another the issue of pristine versus non pristine cultural development see discussion in Fried 1967 Price 1978 The Central Andes were the locus of the only societies to achieve pristine civilization in the southern hemisphere and only in the Central Andes did non literate non written language civilization develop It seems clear that Central Andean civilization was independent on any graph of archaic culture change. Scholars have often expressed appreciation of the research opportunities offered by the Central Andes as a testing ground for the study of cultural evolution see e.g. Carneiro 1970, Ford and Willey 1949:5, Kosok 1965:1-14, Lanning 1967:2-5.

Financial Statement for the Fiscal Year University of Michigan, 1980 The Archaeology of Food and Warfare Amber M. VanDerwarker, Gregory D. Wilson, 2015-08-03 The archaeologies of food and warfare have independently developed over the past several decades This volume aims to provide concrete linkages between these research topics through the examination of case studies worldwide

Topics considered within the book include the impacts of warfare on the daily food quest warfare and nutritional health ritual foodways and violence the provisioning of warriors and armies status based changes in diet during times of war logistical constraints on military campaigns and violent competition over subsistence resources The diversity of perspectives included in this volume may be a product of new ways of conceptualizing violence not simply as an isolated component of a society nor as an attribute of a particular societal type but instead as a transformative process that is lived and irrevocably alters social economic and political organization and relationships This book highlights this transformative process by presenting a cross cultural perspective on the connection between war and food through the inclusion of case studies from several continents
