Media In Wales Voices Of A Small Nation:

A History of Independent Television in Wales Jamie Medhurst, 2015-02-20 Despite the growing body of work on the media in Wales very little exists on the history of commercial television in Wales This book seeks to address this imbalance by tracing the growth and development of ITV in Wales and assessing its contribution to the life of the nation ITV has been a powerful force in British broadcasting since its inception in 1955 When commercial television came to Wales for the first time in 1958 it immediately got caught up in with matters of national identity language and geography Compared with the BBC it is a relative newcomer its growth was slower than that of the BBC and it took until 1962 to complete the network across the UK Once it had arrived however its impact was considerable The book will provide an historical narrative and critical analysis of independent television ITV in Wales from 1958 up until the present day

The Media in Wales David Maxwell Barlow, Tom O'Malley, Philip Mitchell, 2005 This text maps the history and current situation of the media in Wales in an accessible manner and contributes to current debates on the present and future roles of the Welsh media It contains chapters on radio television the press cinema and media policy relating to Wales

Wales since 1939 Martin Johnes, 2013-01-18 The period since 1939 saw more rapid and significant change than any other time in Welsh history Wales developed a more assertive identity of its own and some of the apparatus of a nation state Yet its economy floundered between boom and bust its traditional communities were transformed and the Welsh language and other aspects of its distinctiveness were undermined by a globalizing world Wales was also deeply divided by class language ethnicity gender religion and region Its people grew wealthier healthier and more educated but they were not always happier This ground breaking book examines the story of Wales since 1939 giving voice to ordinary people and the variety of experiences within the nation This is a history of not just a nation but of its residents hopes and fears their struggles and pleasures and their views of where they lived and the wider world

A Companion to British and Irish Cinema John Hill, 2019-05-07 A stimulating overview of the intellectual arguments and critical debates involved in the study of British and Irish cinemas British and Irish film studies have expanded in scope and depth in recent years prompting a growing number of critical debates on how these cinemas are analysed contextualized and understood A Companion to British and Irish Cinema addresses arguments surrounding film historiography methods of textual analysis critical judgments and the social and economic contexts that are central to the study of these cinemas Twenty nine essays from many of the most prominent writers in the field examine how British and Irish cinema have been discussed the concepts and methods used to interpret and understand British and Irish films and the defining issues and debates at the heart of British and Irish cinema studies Offering a broad scope of commentary the Companion explores historical cultural and aesthetic questions that encompass over a century of British and Irish film studies from the early years of the silent era to the present day Divided into five sections the Companion discusses the social and cultural forces shaping British and Irish cinema during different periods the contexts in which films are produced distributed and exhibited the genres and styles that have been adopted by British and Irish films issues of representation and identity and debates on concepts of national cinema at a time when ideas of what constitutes both British and Irish cinema are under question A Companion to British and Irish Cinema is a valuable and timely resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students of film media and cultural studies and for those seeking contemporary commentary on the cinemas of Britain and Ireland Narrating Media History Michael Bailey, 2012-11-12 Based on the work of media historian James Curran

Narrating Media History explores British media history as a series of competing narratives This unique and timely collection brings together leading international media history scholars not only to identify and contrast the various interrelationships between media histories but also to encourage dialogue between different historical political and theoretical perspectives including liberalism feminism populism nationalism libertarianism radicalism and technological determinism Essays by distinguished academics cover television radio newspaper press and advertising among others and illustrate the particularities affinities strengths and weaknesses within media history Each section includes a brief introduction by the editor with discussion topics and suggestions for further reading making this an invaluable guide for students of media history Contemporary Wales The Open University, This 15 hour free course explored key aspects of the economy society politics and culture of contemporary Wales from a social science perspective

European Visions Janelle Blankenship, Tobias Nagl, 2015-07-15 This volume examines the challenges cinemas in small European countries have faced since 1989 It explores how notions of scale and small cinemas relate to questions of territory transnational media flows and globalization Employing a variety of approaches from industry analysis to Deleuze Guattari's concept of the minor contributions address the relationship of small cinemas to Hollywood the role of history and memory and the politics of place in post Socialist cinemas Reading Media Theory Brett Mills, David M. Barlow, 2014-06-11 What does the Frankfurt

School have to say about the creative industries Does the spread of Google prove we now live in an information society How is Madonna an example of postmodernism How new is new media Does the power of Facebook mean we're all media makers now This groundbreaking volume part reader part textbook helps you to engage thoroughly with some of the major voices that have come to define the landscape of theory in media studies from the public sphere to postmodernism from mass communication theory to media effects from production to reception and beyond But much more than this by providing assistance and questions directly alongside the readings it crucially helps you develop the skills necessary to become a critical informed and analytical reader Each reading is supported on the facing page by author annotations which provide comments dissect the arguments explain key ideas and terminology make references to other relevant material and pose questions that emerge from the text Key features Opening chapters What is theory and What is reading bring alive the importance of both as key parts of media scholarship Pre reading substantial Introductory sections set each text and its author in context and show the relevance of the reading to contemporary culture Post reading Reflection sections summarise each reading s key points and suggests further areas to explore and think about 4 types of annotations help you engage with the reading context content structure and writing style as well as questions to provoke further thought Split into 4 sections Reading theory Key thinkers and schools Approaches and Media Theory in context New to the second edition New chapters on New Media and Audiences as Producers Reading Media Theory will assist you in developing close reading and analytic skills It will also increase your ability to outline key theories and debates assess different case studies critically link theoretical approaches to a particular historical context and to structure and present an argument As such it will be essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of media studies cultural studies communication studies the sociology of the media popular culture and other related subjects Understanding The Local Media Aldridge, Meryl,2007-04-01

How will local media deal with the challenge of the Internet How important is regional news to the nations of the UK What does the future hold for newspapers regional television and local radio news Most adults in the UK read a local newspaper regional news bulletins are among the most watched on television and local radio has a loyal following This is hardly surprising as for most people the everyday activities of life take place within familiar local territory Even though the majority of political and economic decisions affecting daily life are taken far away and are shaped by global processes their impact is experienced locally Local media are vital if there is to be an effective arena for informed debate about these issues But despite being both popular and politically important local media are often overlooked on media related courses and in discussions of the role of the media in contemporary society Understanding the Local Media addresses this gap by explaining how regional newspapers and broadcast news are owned regulated and organized how these factors produce the outputs we see and hear what we know of audiences attitude to them and discusses local media as places of work Meryl Aldridge brings issues alive by the extensive use of real examples and offers a fascinating insight into this media sector for students and teachers on academic and professional media courses It also provides stimulating reading for anyone interested in UK media today Broadcasting for Wales Elain Price,2022-10-15 This study provides an insight into the history of one of Wales most important cultural organisation It provides a detailed insight into the key decisions and debates from within S4C It contains interviews with key individuals who were part of the debates and discussions providing significant context to those debates

Local Journalism and Local Media Bob Franklin,2006-09-27 The local media local newspapers and radio regional television cable television and local news on the internet represents a diverse and rapidly changing sector of the British media landscape Bringing together media academics local journalists and other media professionals this text presents a thorough up to date and authoritative account of recent developments and future prospects for Britain s local newspapers local media and local journalism Drawing on current research and relevant literature the book covers key developments in the local media scene the distinctive editorial format of local newspapers news sources and other sources available to local journalists recent developments in media policy online journalism ethics and regulations the impact of new technology

Situating the study within the context of local national and multi national media networks this unique text provides students with a well written and wide ranging assessment of all aspects of the local media in the UK and as such will be a welcome addition to the current literature Understanding Ethnic Media Matthew D. Matsaganis, Vikki S. Katz, Sandra J. Ball-Rokeach, 2011 This is an excellent contribution to a growing body of important literature Donald R Browne University of Minnesota

Social Media and Minority Languages Elin Haf Gruffydd Jones, Enrique Uribe-Jongbloed, 2013-02-22 As a field in its own right Minority Language Media studies is developing fast The recent technological and social developments that have accelerated media convergence and opened new ways of access and exchange into spaces formerly controlled by media institutions offer new opportunities challenges and dangers to minority languages and especially to their already established media institutions This book includes debates on what convergence and participation actually mean a series of case studies of specific social media developments in minority language as well as comparative studies on how the cultural industries have engaged with the new possibilities brought about by media convergence Finally the book also offers a historical review of the development of Minority Language Media worldwide and evidences the areas in which more extensive research is required

Practical Spiritualities in a Media Age Curtis Coats, Monica M. Emerich, 2015-11-19 We live in a media age where technologies become the sites and sources of our practices and beliefs including those deeper values that guide decisions about how we should live Practical Spiritualities in a Media Age explores how and why media become the site and source of spiritual expressions that address the mundane or everydayness of our lives Including international case studies and essays from leading scholars such as Stewart Hoover and Graham Harvey the book examines the ways and the places in which people have employed media and information technologies to weave spiritual meaning throughout the demands and pastimes of their lives Topics range from food and sex to spiritual tourism In doing so the volume takes up a call from Paul Heelas seminal work Spiritualities of Life to provide more examples more richness and more depth to the variety of spiritual practices that exist in late modernity Providing critical scholarly explorations of the complexities and contradictions of late modern spiritual practices Practical Spiritualities in a Media Age is a must read for anyone working in the intersection of media religion or spirituality and culture

Web Journalism:// Sean Tunney, 2009-12-03 Provides an analytical account of the implications of interactive participation in the construction of media content This work seeks to critically assess Internet news production It is suitable for those engaged in the debate over Web reporting and citizen journalism

Radio in Small Nations Richard J Hand, Mary Traynor, 2012-11-15 This is the first title in a new series of volumes examining different dimensions of the media and culture in small nations Whether at a local national or international level radio has played and continues to play a key role in nurturing or denying even destroying people's sense of belonging to a particular community whether it be defined in terms of place ethnicity language or patterns of consumption Typically the radio has been used for purposes of propaganda and as a means of forging national identity both at home and also further afield in the case of colonial exploits Drawing on examples of four models of the chapters in this volume will provide an historical and contemporary overview of radio in a number of small nations The authors propose a stimulating discussion on the role radio has played in a variety of nation contexts worldwide

Journalism in Britain Martin Conboy, 2011-01-19 This book teaches students that essential historical literacy providing a full overview of how changes in the ownership emphasis and technologies of journalism in Britain have been motivated by social economic and cultural shifts among readerships and markets Covering journalism's enduring questions political coverage the influence of advertising the sensationalization of news coverage the popular market and the economic motives of the owners of newspapers this book is a comprehensive articulate and rich account of how the mediascape of modern Britain has been shaped

Broadcasting in the UK and US in the 1950s Jamie Medhurst, Siân Nicholas, Thomas O'Malley, 2016-05-11 In an age of digital communications where radio satellite television and computing have come together to allow instant access to information and entertainment from around the globe it is sometimes easy to overstate the break with the recent past that these developments imply However from a historical perspective it is important to recognise that the national dimensions of communications including broadcasting have always been framed within different sets of international political economic cultural and technological relationships Television so easily seen as the last technology to succumb to the effects of internationalisation subsequent to the technical and political changes of the late twentieth century was in fact from the outset embedded in international interactions In recent years a focus has been placed on the longstanding sets of transnational relationships in place in the years after World War II when television established itself as the dominant form of mass communication in Europe and America Recent research has adopted a comparative approach to television history which has examined the interactions within Europe and between Europe and America from the 1950s onwards In addition there has been increasing interest in the idea of television in the Anglophone world looking at transatlantic interactions from the early phases of the development of the technology through the growing market for formats in the 1950s and outwards to connections with Australia and Hong Kong in these years The essays in this collection contribute to this area by bringing together in one volume work which focuses on both national developments in UK and US broadcasting in the 1950s to allow for reflection on how those systems were developing and being understood within those societies and raise issues about the ways in which the two systems interacted and can be usefully compared Some contributions deliberately focus on international issues while others embed the international dimension within them and still others offer a critical commentary on developments during the 1950s The book will appeal primarily to students and researchers in media and communication studies television studies radio studies and history but will also be of interest to all who have an interest in developments in communication in the post war period

Communication in the Age of Suspicion V. Bakir,D. Barlow,2007-04-12 In this timely volume fourteen international contributors explore the relationship between media and trust beginning with an examination of the decline of trust in key institutions The book concludes by considering the future implications for media communication and exploring potential directions for further research in this Age of Suspicion
