Forestry Policies in the Caribbean Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1998-01-01 The Principles of Forest Policy ; Excerpts on Forestry Matters United States. Forest Service,1952 Forest Policy for Private Forestry Lawrence Dale Teeter,Benjamin William Cashore,Daowei Zhang,2002-12-06 Annotation There is currently great concern about the sustainability of forestry and the contribution of private forestry towards this aim The need to better understand the impact of different policy choices on private forestry has never been more important This book includes a selection of peer reviewed papers from a conference held in Atlanta in March 2001 Forestry Policies of Selected Countries in Africa Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1996-01-01 Proceedings of a Regional Expert Consultation on Forestry Policies in Africa Accra Ghana October 1995 Parallel texts in English French Report of the Chief of the Forest Service United States. Forest Service,1947 Forestry Policies in the Caribbean ,1998 Forest Policy Analysis Max Krott,2005-10-04 Although forest policy is an established course in most European university forestry curricula apart from a special predilection of the teacher its content varies from country to country according to the position of the forest sector in the domestic economy and society In some countries forestry is the backbone of a strong wood processing industry in others recreational uses and amenity values of forests dominate Despite these differences all countries have in common the fact that the diversity of interests in forests has increased Although timber production will not lose its importance in the future as timber is a renewable resource the demand for non wood products and services has increased considerably This is best reflected by the new notion of sustainable forest management which strives at the reconciliation of economic ecological social cultural and spiritual interests in forests In addition the diversity of stakeholders has increased Forestry is no longer solely the topic of forest associations and forest administration but also of a multitude of governmental and non governmental organisations dealing with activities which either affect forest management or are affected by it Finally the relationships of the various stakeholders with diverse interests and varying empowerment have become more complex because in some issues the relationships are compatible and in others not Bargaining on forest issues no longer takes place on a national level alone but also on European and international levels because many forest policy issues are transboundary Forestry Policies in Europe Frederick Cornelius Hummel,H. A. Hilmi,1989-01-01 Climate change

for forest policy-makers Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2019-02-18 The critical role of forests in climate change mitigation and adaptation is now widely recognized Forests contribute significantly to climate change mitigation through their carbon sink and carbon storage functions They play an essential role in reducing vulnerabilities and enhancing adaptation of people and ecosystems to climate change and climate variability the negative impacts of which are becoming increasingly evident in many parts of the world In many countries climate change issues have not been fully addressed in national forest policies forestry mitigation and adaptation needs at national level have not been thoroughly considered in national climate change strategies and cross sectoral dimensions of climate change impacts and response measures have not been fully appreciated This publication seeks to provide a practical approach to the process of integrating climate change into national forest programmes The aim is to assist senior officials in government administrations and the representatives of other stakeholders including civil society organizations and the private sector prepare the forest sector for the challenges and opportunities posed by climate change This document complements a set of guidelines prepared by FAO in 2013 to support forest managers incorporate climate change considerations into forest management plans and practices

Forest Policies and Social Change in England Sylvie Nail,2008-05-08 Forestry has been witness to some dramatic changes in recent years with several Western countries now moving away from the traditional model of regarding forests merely as sources of wood Rather these countries are increasingly recognizing their forests as multi purpose resources with roles which go far beyond simple economics In this innovative book Sylvie Nail uses England as a case study to explore the relationships between forests society and public perceptions raising important questions about forest policy and management both now and in the future Adopting a sociological approach to forest policy and management the book discusses the current validity of the two principles underlying forestry since the Middle Ages first that forestry should only exist when no better use of the land can be made and second that forestry itself should be profitable The author stresses how values and perceptions shape policies and conversely how policies can modify perceptions and also how policies can fail if they do not take perceptions into account She concludes that many of the issues facing English forestry in the 21st century from leisure health and amenity provision through education and rural as well as urban regeneration to biodiversity conservation go well beyond both national borders and the scope of forestry Indeed forestry in the 21st century seems to be less about planting and managing trees than about being a vector and a mirror of social change This novel synthesis provides a valuable resource for advanced students and researchers from all areas of natural resource studies including those interested in social history socio economics cultural geography and environmental psychology as well as those studying landscape ecology environmental history policy analysis and natural resource management

Report of the Chief - Forest Service United States. Forest Service,1952

Making Forest Policy Work A.I. Fraser,2013-04-17 Policy issues relating to forestry have been the subject of much debate in recent years and many countries and international agencies have recently or are currently in the process of revising their policies for forestry Much of this debate has implied that previous policies have failed or been much less successful than had been hoped There is a tendency to think of policy as a matter for governments but it is now more widely appreciated that all shareholders in the forestry sector have a legitimate interest in both the policy objectives and the means that will be used to implement it This book is mainly concerned with the process of developing policy and the subsequent implementation than in specific content though many of the important issues which policies must address are discussed It is based on a review of many case studies with which the author has been personally involved over the past 40 years Canadian Forest Policy Michael Howlett, 2001-01-01 Arguing that the complexity of policy making in the forest sector has led many analysts to focus exclusively on specific sectoral activities or jurisdictions this collection of essays offers a simplifying framework of analysis Forestry Policies of Selected Countries in Asia and the Pacific Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1993-01-01 Policies for Sustainable Forestry in Belarus, Russia and Ukraine Max Krott, Ilpo Tikkanen, Anatoly Petrov, Yuri Tunytsya, Boris Zheliba, Volker Sasse, Irina Rykounina, Taras Tunytsya, 2021-10-25 Policies for Sustainable Forestry in Belarus Russia and Ukraine provides a thorough analysis of the key factors in the transition process affecting the forest sector in the eponymous countries Moreover it designs new strategies for sustainable development in these areas The book attempts to strengthen selected trends in the forest sector in each country so that they may gradually achieve sustainability and create a market economy The key factors are identified by making use of several different sources scientific papers interviews with experts from the three countries and the personal experiences of the co authors living in the countries The strategies propose new and interesting options for improving forest management by optimizing forestry within closed production units Further strategies deal with reorientation of forest planning transition oriented labor management and acquisition of resources for forestry from state and markets Policies for Sustainable Forestry in Belarus Russia and Ukraine also gives new insights into the political factors and informal strategies within the forestry sector It serves as an important addition to existing economic market models and will draw attention to the political process driving the transition This information is helpful to both experts in economics as well as foresters in the field as it gives them an understanding of the complexity of building up a market economy by transition
