Looking At Paintings Self Portraits Looking At Paintings:

The Look of Van Dyck John Peacock, 2017-07-05 Based on a close study of Van Dyck's Self portrait with a Sunflower this book examines the picture's context in the symbolic discourses of the period and in the artist's oeuvre The portrait is interpreted as a programmatic statement made in the ambience of the Caroline court after Van Dyck's appointment as Principal Painter of his view of the art of painting This statement formulated in appropriately visual terms characterizes painting as a way of looking and seeing a mode of vision In making such a claim the artist steps aside from the familiar debate about whether painting was a manual or an intellectual discipline and moves beyond any idea of it as simply a means of representing the external world the painter's definitive faculty of vision can reach further than those realities which present themselves to the eye John Peacock analyses the motif of looking the ways in which figures regard or disregard each other throughout Van Dyck's work and the images of the sunflower and the gold chain in this particular portrait to reveal what is essentially an idealist conception of pictorial art He contradicts previous opinions that the artist was pedestrian in his thinking by showing him to be familiar with a range of ideas current in contemporary Europe about painting and the role of the painter

ART is More Jan Laurens SIESLING,2015-06-15 This book turns traditional art history inside out Not styles or forms or movements or artists or art theories are its point of departure

but the reason for being of art in civilization Since the very beginnings of society art has raised and responded to the existential questions of the human kind The history of the arts is the history of those questions and from that angle art should be presented here it is When reading this book unfolding like a novel we think yes of course no doubt why didn't we think of this before And we agree that art is not a hobby or a profession or an entertainment but the very heartbeat of the human race

Aesthetics as a Religious Factor in Eastern and Western Christianity William Peter van den Bercken, Jonathan Sutton, 2005 This volume contains selected papers of a conference in 2004 at Utrecht University on aesthetics as a religious factor in Eastern and Western Christianity They discuss the role of aesthetics in the presentation and expression of Christian faith in Catholic and Orthodox tradition During its history Christianity has produced many works of art church architecture iconography painting music and literary texts And in Orthodoxy beauty has always been the main form of religious expression more than verbal presentation of Christian teaching which is embedded in the aesthetic context of liturgy In Christian theology beauty has often been seen as a form of divine revelation related to the mystery of incarnation The relation between aesthetics and religious belief has acquired new relevance in our secularised world Today the visible products of Catholic and Orthodox aesthetics are for many people the main means through which they come into contact with Christianity and many people without affinity to religion are attracted by the beauty of Christian art inside and outside the church In modern religious studies the experience of beauty is recognised as a factor in explaining religious feelings The papers are divided in four sections 1 Comparative aspects of Orthodox and Catholic aesthetics 2 Religious aesthetics in

Russian literary culture 3 Applied aesthetics in church art 4 Art theoretical ideological and religious philosophical aspects
