Modern Yucatecan Maya Pottery Making Raymond H. Thompson, 1958 Modern Yucatecan Maya Pottery Making Raymond Harris Thompson, 2011-08 Modern Yucatecan Maya Pottery Making by Raymond H. Thompson Raymond H. Thompson, The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold, 2015-02-15 In The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold continues his unique approach to ceramic ethnoarchaeology tracing the history of potters in Ticul Yucatán and their production space over a period of more than four decades. This follows up to his 2008 work Social Change and the Evolution of Ceramic Production and Distribution which uses narrative to trace the changes in production personnel and their spatial organization through the changes in production organization in Ticul. Although several kinds of production units developed, households were the most persistent units of production in spite of massive social change and the reorientation of pottery production to the tourist market. Entrepreneurial workshops, government sponsored workshops and workshops attached to tourist hotels developed more recently but were short lived whereas pottery making households extended deep into the nineteenth century. Through this continuity and change, intermittent crafting, multi-crafting and potters' increased management of economic risk also factored into the development of the production organization in Ticul. Illustrated with more than 100 images of production units, The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community is an important contribution to the understanding of ceramic production. Scholars with interests in craft specialization, craft production and demography as well as specialists in Mesoamerican archaeology, anthropology, history and economy will find this volume especially useful.

Ancient Maya Pottery James John Aimers, 2013-01-20 The ancient Maya produced a broad range of ceramics that has attracted concerted scholarly attention for over a century. Pottery sherds, the most abundant artifacts recovered from sites, reveal much about artistic expression, religious ritual, economic systems, cooking traditions and cultural exchange in Maya society. Today nearly every Maya archaeologist uses the type-variety classificatory framework for studying sherd collections. This impressive volume brings together many of the archaeologists significantly involved in the analysis and interpretation of ancient Maya ceramics and represents new findings and state of the art thinking. The result is a book that serves both as a valuable resource for archaeologists involved in pottery classification, analysis and interpretation and as an illuminating exploration of ancient Mayan culture. Handbook of Middle American Indians, Volume 4 Robert Wauchope, 2014-01-07 Archaeological Frontiers and External Connections is the fourth volume in the Handbook of Middle American Indians published in cooperation with the Middle American Research Institute of Tulane University under the general editorship of Robert Wauchope. 1909-1979 Volume editors are Gordon R. Willey (1913-2002) Bowditch Professor of Mexican and Central American Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard University and Gordon F. Ekholm (1909-1987) Associate Curator of Mexican Archaeology of the American Museum of Natural History in New York. This volume presents an intensive study of matters of significance in various areas archaeology and ethnohistory of the Northern Sierra Sonora Lower California and northeastern Mexico external relations between Mesoamerica and the southwestern United States and eastern United States archaeology and ethnohistory of El Salvador western Honduras and lower Central America external relations between Mesoamerica and the Caribbean area Ecuador and the Andes and the case for and against Old World pre Columbian contacts via the Pacific Many photographs accompany the text The Handbook of Middle American Indians was assembled and edited at the Middle American Research Institute of Tulane University with the assistance of grants from the National Science Foundation and under the sponsorship of the National Research Council Committee on Latin American Anthropology Ancient Households of the Americas John G. Douglas, Nancy Douglas, 2012-04-15 In Ancient Households of the Americas archaeologists investigate the fundamental role of household production in ancient colonial and contemporary households Several different cultures Iroquois Coosa Anasazi Hohokam San Agust n Wankarani Formative Gulf Coast Mexico and Formative Classic Colonial and contemporary Maya are analyzed through the lens of household archaeology in concrete data driven case studies The text is divided into three sections Section I examines the spatial and social organization and context of household production Section II looks at the role and results of households as primary producers and Section III investigates the role of and interplay among households in their greater political and socioeconomic communities In the past few decades household archaeology has made substantial contributions to our understanding and explanation of the past through the documentation of the household as a social unit whether small or large rural or urban commoner or elite These case studies from a broad swath of the Americas make Ancient Households of the Americas extremely valuable for continuing the comparative interdisciplinary study of households Models in Archaeology David L. Clarke, 2014-10-24 This major study reflects the increasing significance of careful model formation and testing in those academic subjects that are struggling from intuitive and aesthetic obscurantism toward a more disciplined and integrated approach to their fields of study The twenty six original contributions represent the carefully selected work of progressive archaeologists around the world covering the use of models on archaeological material of all kinds and from all periods from Palaeolithic to Medieval Their common theme is archaeological generalisation by means of explicit model building testing modification and reapplication The contributors seek to show that it is the use of certain models in particular ways that defines archaeology as the practice of one discipline with a set of general tenets that are as applicable in Peru as in Persia Australia as Alaska Sweden as Scotland on material from the second millennium B C to the second millennium A D They assert that careful model formulation within archaeology and the cautious exchange and testing of models within and beyond the discipline provides the only route to the formation of the common internationally valid body of theory which defines a vigorous and coherent discipline and distinguishes it from being a collection of merely regionally applicable special cases

Ceramics, Lithics, and Ornaments of Chaco Canyon: Ceramics Frances Joan Mathien, 1997

Scholars have long debated the nature of Maya political organization during the Classic period AD 250 950 Complex questions regarding political centralization economic change and the role of politics and economics in the rise and collapse of the civilization have been examined and reexamined from a variety of perspectives Antonia Foias and Kitty Emery have assembled a broad collection of essays all focused on a single polity that of Motul de San Jos By presenting a coherent interdisciplinary body of archaeological and environmental data the volume offers an intensely deep focused investigation of the various models of the ancient Maya political and economic systems Research conducted over six seasons of fieldwork reveals a more centralized political system than expected and uncovers the workings of the ancient economic structure The contributors offer new details concerning how involved royals and nonroyal elites were in the politics of nearby states as well as an extensive tribute system

Sourcing Prehistoric Ceramics at Chodistaas Pueblo, Arizona Mar'a Nieves Zede-o, 1994

For decades archaeologists have used pottery to reconstruct the lifeways of ancient populations It has become increasingly evident however that to make inferences about prehistoric economic social and political activities through the patterning of ceramic variation it is necessary to determine the location where the vessels were made Through detailed analysis of manufacturing technology and design styles as well as the use of modern analytical techniques such as neutron activation analysis Zede o here demonstrates a broadly applicable methodology for identifying local and nonlocal ceramics

Cerro Palenque Rosemary A. Joyce, 2015-01-16 Excavations at Cerro Palenque a hilltop site in the Ulua Valley of northwest Honduras revolutionized scholars ideas about the Terminal Classic period roughly ad 850 1050 of Maya history and about the way in which cultures of the southeast Maya periphery related to the Lowland Maya In this pathfinding study Rosemary Joyce combines archaeological data gleaned from site research in 1980 1983 with anthropological theory about the evolution of social power to reconstruct something of the culture and lifeways of the prehispanic inhabitants of Cerro Palenque Joyce organizes her study in a novel way Rather than presenting each category of excavated material ceramics lithics etc in a separate chapter she integrates this data in discussions of what people did and where they did it resulting in a reconstruction of social activity more than in a description of material culture Joyce s findings indicate that the precolumbian elites of the Ulua Valley had very strong and diversified contacts with Lowland Maya culture primarily through the Bay of Honduras with far less contact with Cop n in the Highlands The elites used their contacts with these distant powerful cultures to reinforce their difference from the people they ruled and the legitimacy of their privileged status Indeed their dependence on foreign contacts ultimately led to their downfall when their foreign partners reorganized their economic and social order during the Terminal Classic period Although archaeological research in the region has been undertaken since the 1890s Cerro Palenque is the first full length study of an Ulua Valley site ever published Joyce s pioneering approach archaeological ethnography will be of interest to scholars dealing with any prehistoric people whose material remains provide the only clues to their culture

Archaeology Barry W. Cunliffe,Wendy Davies,Colin Renfrew,2002 Twenty six leading scholars from around the world have come together to celebrate the strengths the energies and the sheer intellectual excitement of their discipline They unashamedly proclaim that over the last hundred years archaeology has transformed itself from a genteel antiquarianpursuit deeply rooted in the classical tradition to a rigorous and demanding discipline spanning the humanities and the sciences yet at the same time one widely accessible to the public at large The contributors show how our understanding of the past has changed reveal the exciting ideas under current debate and offer their visions of the future The result is a remarkable overview of world archaeology focusing on new and unexpected themes at the cutting edge of the discipline Resources for the Teaching of Anthropology David G. Mandelbaum,Gabriel W. Lasker,Ethel M.
