Youth and the State in Hungary Laszlo Kurti, 2002-07-20 Youth and the State in Hungary takes as its focus the nature of Hungary's youth movements over the last seventy years In a detailed ethnographic study Laszlo Kurti examines the lives of youth workers in the Csepel district of Budapest in the context of the wider political and economic transformations witnessed during the twentieth century Kurti follows State Youth relations from the inter war capitalism that made peasants into workers through the post war state socialism Stalinism and after to the reintroduction of capitalism in 1990 This time frame allows an exploration of the transformations and dilemmas of youth class gender and ethnicity as they develop across time In the course of this study two main themes emerge the reproduction of class in youth culture across shifting socio economic conditions and the mobilisation of youth movements in resistance to the state Youth and the State in Hungary challenges the orthodox equation of youth and resistance by arguing that youth mobilisation has in fact served the interests of the state Nevertheless there remains a genuine space for resistance and contestation in the reproduction of youth culture G.A.T.T. and Global Agriculture Mary E. Lassanyi,1990 International Newsletter ,1989 Stress in Poultry Karen J. Clingerman,1990 Soft budget constraints and the fate of economic reforms in transition economies and developing countries Martin Raiser,1996 For over a decade a large number of governments have embarked on economic reforms to strengthen the competitiveness of their countries in the world market and improve the standards of living of their populations By far the most extensive reforms both in depth and scope have occurred since the late 1980s in the former communist economies of Central and Eastern Europe and East Asia Despite vast differences in initial conditions and reform design Martin Raiser argues that a central ingredient of the success of these reforms must be the hardening of the budget constraint for domestic producers To verify this hypothesis Raiser develops an analytical framework that links the concept of the soft budget constraint to issues of economic reform in developing countries and examines indicators of the degree of budget softness with particular emphasis on the institutional deficiencies that may undermine the credibility of macroeconomic stabilization and the effectiveness of price signals In his empirical analysis Raiser relates the indicators of budget softness to the inflation and growth records of thirty one developing countries The cases of Poland and China further illuminate his theory by pointing toward the institutional arrangements that may hinder the effective hardening of budget constraints in transition economies Finally Raiser analyzes enterprise level data for China to verify the link between budget softness and technical and allocative inefficiency Soft Budget Constraints will be of notable interest to those scholars and students of economics specializing in development and transition economics The transnational lawyer ,1995 Quick Bibliography Series ,1976 Comparative Economic Systems: v. 2 Richard L. Carson,2017-07-28 Comparative Economic Systems is published in three editions one for each major part This is Part II and covers Socialist Alternatives looking at the Hungarian Economy the structure and trends of the Chinese economy the Yugoslav workers self management planning agriculture and foreign trade Labour Markets in Poland and Hungary Five Years from the Start of Transition Holger Brauer,Martin Falk,Martin Raiser,1996 Privatization and the Rebirth of Capital Markets in Hungary C. Edward Fletcher,1995 The Republic of Hungary has emerged as the leader in capital market reforms among former Soviet Bloc countries Since 1982 the country has made significant strides towards the privatization of its economy and the implementation of market regulations serving as a model for other formerly socialist countries The progress and mistakes of the Hungarian movement towards capitalism are studied here as a model for reforms in other countries in Eastern Europe Particular emphasis is placed on the legal and regulatory structures that have been established to facilitate the transition Banking reforms development of the Budapest Stock Exchange stabilization of the forint and many other interrelated reforms that are an integral part of Hungary s capital market infrastructure are also examined Bibliographie Mensuelle United Nations Library (Geneva, Switzerland),1990

Economic Reforms in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe since the 1960s Jan Adam,1989-01-24 The author discusses the traditional system of management of the economy as it existed in the early 1950s in the USSR and goes on to deal with the reforms of the 1960s and of the 1980s country by country He shows that the focus of the reforms is on finding a proper combination of planning and the market mechanism and their success will be judged by their ability to solve acute economic problems
