Home: Place and Care in an Ageing Society Christine Milligan, 2016-02-17 Against a background of debate around global ageing and what this means in terms of the future care need of older people this book addresses key concerns about the nature and site of care and care giving Following a critical review of research into who cares where and how it uses geographical perspectives to present a comprehensive analysis of how the intersection of informal care giving within domestic community and residential care homes can create complex landscapes and organizational spatialities of care Drawing on contemporary case studies largely but not exclusively from the UK the book reviews and develops a theoretical basis for a geographical analysis of the issue of care By relating these theoretical concepts to empirical data and case studies it illustrates how formal and informal care giver responses to the changing landscape of care can act to facilitate or constrain the development of inclusionary models of care Legal Aspects of Pain Management 2nd Edition Bridgit

Dimond, 2016-06-01 This revised and updated edition explores the law relating to pain management in recent years It considers the legal issues which have arisen in recent high profile cases and discusses the implications of legislation extending prescribing powers The text is written in a user friendly readable form for the non lawyer It aims to provide a succinct useful basis from which practitioner and others can extend their knowledge of the law for the protection of their patients their colleagues and themselves Scope and contents Human rights law Criminal law and procedure Negligence Professional registration Consent in relation to adults children and mentally disabled adults Oxford Textbook of Geriatric Medicine

Jean-Pierre Michel, B. Lynn Beattie, Finbarr C. Martin, Jeremy D. Walston, 2018 The third edition of the definitive international reference book on all aspects of the medical care of older persons will provide every physician involved in the care of older patients with a comprehensive resource on all the clinical problems they are likely to encounter as well as on related psychological philosophical and social issues World Report on Ageing and Health World Health Organization, 2015-10-22

The WHO World report on ageing and health is not for the book shelf it is a living breathing testament to all older people who have fought for their voice to be heard at all levels of government across disciplines and sectors Mr Bjarne Hastrup President International Federation on Ageing and CEO DaneAge This report outlines a framework for action to foster Healthy Ageing built around the new concept of functional ability This will require a transformation of health systems away from disease based curative models and towards the provision of older person centred and integrated care It will require the development sometimes from nothing of comprehensive systems of long term care It will require a coordinated response from many other sectors and multiple levels of government And it will need to draw on better ways of measuring and monitoring the health and functioning of older populations These actions are likely to be a sound investment in society s future A future that gives older people the freedom to live lives that previous generations might never have imagined The World report on ageing and health responds to these challenges by recommending equally profound changes in the way health policies for ageing populations are formulated and services are provided As the foundation for its recommendations the report looks at what the latest evidence has to say about the ageing process noting that many common perceptions and assumptions about older people are based on outdated stereotypes The report s recommendations are anchored in the evidence comprehensive and forward looking yet eminently practical Throughout examples of experiences from different countries are used to illustrate how specific problems can be addressed through innovation solutions Topics explored range from strategies to deliver comprehensive and person centred services to older populations to policies that enable older people to live in comfort and safety to ways to correct the problems and injustices inherent in current systems for long term care

Housing and Disabled Children Mark Bevan,2002 The report highlights services that address the housing needs of disabled children and their families in a positive way and that have been commended by families themselves It also highlights the key features of services that families and children find most helpful and provides a handy checklist against which service providers can assess the effectiveness of their services Housing and disabled children is an invaluable resource for the diverse range of practitioners who work with disabled children and their families as well as an opportunity for potential and current service users to find out more about different types of service provision across the UK
