Introducing Neuropsychology John Stirling, Rebecca Elliott, 2010-10-18 Introducing Neuropsychology investigates the functions of the brain and explores the relationships between brain systems and human behaviour in a user friendly textbook that draws on both established findings and cutting edge research Sensorimotor Integration in the Whisker System

Patrik Krieger, Alexander Groh, 2015-10-01 Sensorimotor integration the dynamic process by which the sensory and motor systems communicate with each other is crucial to humans and animals ability to explore and react to their environment This book summarizes the main aspects of our current understanding of sensorimotor integration in 10 chapters written by leading scientists in this active and ever growing field This volume focuses on the whisker system which is an exquisite model to experimentally approach sensorimotor integration in the mammalian brain In this book authors examine the whisker system on many different levels ranging from the building blocks and neuronal circuits to sensorimotor behavior Neuronal coding strategies comparative analysis as well as robotics illustrate the multiple facets of this research and its broad impact on fundamental questions about the neurobiology of the mammalian brain The Tender Carnivore and the Sacred Game

Paul Shepard, 2011-07-01 In what may be his boldest and most controversial book Paul Shepard presents an account of human behavior and ecology in light of our past In it he contends that agriculture is responsible for our ecological decline and looks to the hunting and gathering lifestyle as a model more closely in tune with our essential nature Shepard advocates affirming the profound and beautiful nature of the hunter and gatherer redefining agriculture and combining technology with hunting and gathering to recover a livable environment and peaceful society A Field Guide to the Larger Mammals of

Jones, Irving T. Diamond, 1995-01-31 Volume 11 examines the many methodologies that researchers use to investigate the barrel cortex The Barrel Cortex of Rodents Edward G. Jones, Irving T. Diamond, 2013-06-29 The barrel area is a unique specialization of the cerebral cortex shared by many species of rodents and some marsupials in which the somatotopic map of the body surface receives direct morphological expression Here the homogeneous sheet of layer IV granule cells seen in most mammals is fractured into large archipelagos each representing one of the larger subdivisions of the contra lateral half body Within these larger domains are smaller aggregates of granule cells that contain the concentrated terminations of thalamocortical fibers bearing messages emanating from constellations of receptors located in finer subdivisions of a body part These smaller aggregates are particularly well defined in the representation of the face where they form a one to one representation of the sinus hairs or vibrissae and where they have been given the name barrels The first inklings of the unique structure of the parietal cortex of rodents came in the study of Droogleevert Fortuyn 1914 who remarked on the presence in it of clouds of granule cells 0.5-1 mm in diameter which he thought were in some way associated with concentrations of nerve fibers Little attention however was paid to his observations Lorente de No 1922 later observed dense focal concentrations of afferent fiber ramifications in Golgi preparations of the mouse cortex calling them glomeruli and these can now be seen as the structures that form the hearts of the barrels and around which the granule cells concentrate
