Nigel McCrery, 2017-07-30 The outbreak of the Second World War came towards the closing stages of the 1939 cricket season Hitler permitted us almost to complete an exceptionally interesting season Sir Home Gordon wrote in the Cricketer magazine When shall we see the stumps pitched again As the West Indies touring team canceled their last five matches and sailed home before the U boat threat developed the treasures at Lords including the Ashes were sent to a secret location for safekeeping The Marylebone Cricket Club cancelled its tour to India England played under the MCC banner then During the ensuing conflict twelve test cricketers five English two South Africans one Australian and one New Zealander perished together with 130 first class players In this superbly researched sequel to Final Wicket covering cricketing fatalities during The Great War this book reveals each mans career details including cricketing statistics and the circumstances of death There is also a brief history of the game during the War Arguably the period between the two world wars was the golden age of cricket and this book honors those who made it so only to die serving their countries in a different way The March of the Women Martin Pugh, 2000-04-13 This book is the first comprehensive analysis of the campaign for women s suffrage to appear for over thirty years It challenges the conventional chronology of the subject by arguing that the Victorian suffragists did not undergo a decline during the 1890s but on the contrary had effectively won the argument about votes for women by 1900 This view is supported by evidence of the ineffectiveness of Anti Suffragism and especially the difficulties it encountered in trying to reconcile female Antis who were often feminists with male Antis who opposed all forms of emancipation The author adds a new dimension to the argument by discussing the beneficial impact on the British campaign of women s enfranchisement in New Zealand in 1893 and in Australia in 1902 and he shows how crucial to the shift towards suffragist support in parliament were Conservative moves in favour of suffragism in the 1890s The March of the Women also offers a fresh evaluation of the Edwardian militant campaign At grass roots level divisions over tactics mattered less than among the London leadership and suffragette groups were less rigidly divided It places the Pankhursts and the WSPU in a fresh light by examining their success in raising funds and in tapping the support of the British Establishment at the same time attacking it and its values while at the other end of the spectrum non militants were making an important contribution to the cause by capitalising on working class and Labour support for women s suffrage Pacific Star Reg Newell, 2015-10-01 The war in the South Pacific saw some of the most gruelling fighting of World War Two Conditions were unpleasant fetid heat torrential downpours and hostile flora and fauna while the Japanese enemy were ruthless and would often fight to the last man Amphibious warfare jungle warfare and the need to co operate with our American ally all meant that new demands were made on New Zealand soldiers Yet the war in the South Pacific came to be seen as an easy war generally overlooked with the exception of Guadalcanal by historians From ignorance of what the soldiers were called upon to endure the notion arose that service in the South Pacific was somehow less worthy than the real war in Europe against the Nazis This attitude continued in the post war world and today the soldiers of 3NZ Division are all but forgotten Pacific Star sets the record straight shedding new light on the sacrifices and tribulations which the soldiers of 3NZ Division had to endure in the service of the Allied cause The book covers their initial deployment in Fiji and New Caledonia and describes the major battles the division fought in the Solomons Vella Lavella the Treasury Islands and the Green Islands as well as their sometimes strained relationship with the US military Reg Newell has interviewed veterans for this book which includes new maps and previously unpublished photographs Foreign Commerce Weekly, 1944
