Post-Tsunami Reconstruction in Indonesia Marjaana Jauhola,2013-06-26 This book offers a critical analysis of gender mainstreaming initiatives in the post tsunami context in Indonesia Aiming to challenge the terms of the debate in gender mainstreaming and disaster reconstruction efforts Jauhola offers an important contribution for the discussion of what feminisms and disasters could be The work provides an in depth analysis of three governmental practices of gender mainstreaming the use of the concept pair sex gender the use of gender analysis and the use of project management tools and local subversion that challenges the potential normative violence of gender mainstreaming Providing feminist intersectional reading of gender mainstreaming the book aims to illustrate that this framework does not lack political alternatives but rather it offers an alternative focus for feminism and for the re conceptualisation of political and provides tools for practitioners of aid aiming to come to grips with the complexity of gender equality policy agenda and its potential violent social consequences in global politics Drawing on extensive field research in Aceh this text is one of the first book length studies and thus provides a significant addition to Indonesian literatures on intersectional analysis of gender religion heteronormativity and feminist subversive practice It is a vital resource for those interested in understanding global interconnections of localised disaster and conflict reconstruction

OECD Multi-level Governance Studies Rebuilding Ukraine by Reinforcing Regional and Municipal Governance OECD,2022-12-02 Prior to Russia s invasion of Ukraine on 24 February 2022 Ukraine had made significant progress in implementing ambitious regional development and decentralisation reforms These reforms resulted in the creation of 1 469 amalgamated municipalities the establishment of an elaborate multi level regional development planning framework as well as a significant increase in local public service delivery and public funding for regional and local development

Post-Conflict Reconstruction Neil Ferguson,2010-10-12 Violence and conflict are two of the greatest challenges the world will face in this millennium Indeed since the turn of the century it is estimated that approximately four million people have died as a result of armed conflict Ending these seemingly intractable conflicts is a priority for global stability However the signing of the peace accord or the ending of formal hostilities does not automatically bring a return to normality in these fractured societies In practice it is more likely that these fractured societies will face a period in the twilight between war and peace a time when the world turns its attention to new problems and seemingly more pressing matters leaving the country to struggle towards peace and a new social order The book s contributors deal with the challenges faced in creating the foundations for the development of a positive peace from a variety of multi disciplinary perspectives such as development studies politics psychoanalysis psychology sports studies and neuroscience This breadth of perspectives offers innovative insights into the grey space between war and peace which is home to millions of people across the globe and explores interventions which aim to create the conditions for positive post conflict reconstruction

Reconstruction of Social Work Through Personalisation Felix. U. A Ugwumadu,2011-03-15 The growing older people population and their increasing needs for care is now presenting significant difficulties to both national government and local authorities because of constriction of formal caregivers and family units. Inevitably a change of this magnitude within the complex system in which older people services operate everywhere attracts a range of responses from the very enthusiastic to the very dismissive and hostile response. Thus family directed support care system would provide the possibilities to bridge the gaps within health and social care and the delivery of personalisation for later care for older people in their own home. Older people are no longer interested to be cared in an institutional settings but wish their care to be provided by those they know well and who are familiar with their needs and standards they are used to.

Gender, Development and Disasters Sarah Bradshaw, 2013-04-01. Disaster research owes a lot to development studies and yet the debt is often not acknowledged. In this scholarly but accessible book by Sarah Bradshaw we see a very effective linking of gender disaster and development that will be of value to academics and practitioners working in and across all these domains. Maureen Fordham, University of Northumbria, UK. Bringing gender into the foreground in both development and disaster discourse the author challenges received wisdom and offers cautionary notes about reinforcing inequalities through feminized disaster interventions. The book is an outstanding platform for fundamental change in how we think about and act toward gender in disaster contexts leaving readers cautiously optimistic. This is one for the top shelf a book we have been waiting for and must put to use. Elaine Enarson, founder Gender and Disaster Resilience Alliance. Once in a while a book is published which offers an empirically and theoretically informed analysis of an under studied topic which helps to carve out a new field of enquiry. Such is the case with Dr Sarah Bradshaw's breathtakingly detailed richly first hand informed and incisive account of the frequently paradoxical co-option of women into the analysis and practice of disaster in developing economies. Bradshaw's eminently comprehensive well substantiated perceptive and sensitive treatment of the A to Z of gender and disaster in developing country contexts constitutes a 21st century volume which will be a definitive benchmark for scholars policymakers practitioners and feminist activists at a world scale. Sylvia Chant, London School of Economics, UK. The need to disaster proof development is increasingly recognised by development agencies as is the need to engender both development and disaster response. This unique book explores what these processes mean for development and disasters in practice. Sarah Bradshaw critically examines key notions such as gender vulnerability risk and humanitarianism underpinning development and disaster discourse. Case studies are used to demonstrate how disasters are experienced individually and collectively as gendered events. Through consideration of processes to engender development it problematizes women's inclusion in disaster response and reconstruction. The study highlights that while women are now central to both disaster response and development tackling gender inequality is not. By critically reflecting on gendered disaster response and the gendered impact of disasters on processes of development it exposes some important lessons for future policy. This timely book examines international development and disaster policy which will prove invaluable to gender and disaster academics.

Williams, 2016-10-04 The end of formal hostilities in any given conflict provides an opportunity to transform society in order to secure a stable peace This book builds on the existing feminist international relations literature as well as lessons of past cases that reinforce the importance of including women in the post conflict transition process and are important to our general understanding of gender relations in the conflict and post conflict periods Post conflict transformation processes including disarmament demobilization and reintegration DDR programs transitional justice mechanisms reconciliation measures and legal and political reforms which emerge after the formal hostilities end demonstrate that war and peace impact and are impacted by women and men differently By drawing on a strong theoretical framework and a number of cases this volume provides important insight into questions pertaining to the end of conflict and the challenges inherent in the post conflict transition period that are relevant to students and practitioners alike Women and Men at War Röger, Maren, Leiserowitz, Ruth, 2012-01-01 The Second World War fundamentally changed the societies of Central and Eastern Europe Social bonds and structures were destroyed by brutal occupation policies and extensive deportations These had long term consequences for the societies as a whole but also for individuals within the social fabric of their lives Not least of all gender roles and gender relations were influenced by it This everyday and gender historical dimension of the Second World War in Central and Eastern Europe has often come up short in the research whereby an integrated view of the effects in the post war period was Reconstructing Afghanistan Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: International Development Committee, 2006-03-23 Reconstructing Afghanistan Oral and written evidence Tuesday 13 December 2005
