

Reflective Essay on Recovery Groups Essay

Introduction

The people who attend the meetings in the recovery groups usually find a deep sense of relief as they connect with people who share the same issues. The people support each other in the group and help one another reach recovery point. Meetings have a similar format to the most recovery groups. The members take chances in sharing their stories, how they got to the program and what the stay in the program has been. The recovery groups not only provide an avenue to discuss challenges but also a friendly and safe place to help maintain sobriety (DePue & Hagedorn, 2015). The connection created between the group members offer solace as they subdue isolation, hopelessness, and fear. With others around, it is easier to maintain a positive outlook and stay motivated.

Members of these recovery groups are of different races, religions and social diversities. In this regard, it is easy to notice that drug and substance addiction is a global and a common problem that needs to be addressed (Aldridge, Measham, & Williams, 2013). The meetings are free, with the only requirements being the desire to recover from the issues that the individual is undergoing. The groups may be closed, such that a limited number of people suffering from a specific problem can attend (Livingston, Riddick, Evans, & Parker, 2017). The groups can also be open to anyone to attend. Research has shown that actively involving oneself in recovery groups improves the chances that a person will recover from their problems (Aldridge, Measham, & Williams, 2013). Pragmatically, all towns and villages in America have recovery groups which are fully functional.

The Meeting Summary

I attended an Ivaag meeting for one hour and did numerous observations about what happened during the meeting. I arrived a bit earlier than the other members to observe the preparations. The members came one after another and were welcomed by the therapist. The group consisted of nine members, who were struggling to recover from alcohol addiction. The meeting began, and everyone introduced themselves. I too introduced myself as a student, who was there to observe what was happening. There was one new member, and she was introduced to the rest of us by the therapist. The new member explained why she had come in the group and what her expectations were in the end.

At the commencement of the group discussion, members were allowed to make specific requests to be executed during the meeting. One member also asked a question that she claimed had bothered her for long. She sought advice from the therapist on how to go about her issue. The new member was then allowed to share her experience on her alcohol addiction with the rest of us. The other members were allowed to discuss the aspects of recovery that they had found important with the group. The therapist then gave feedback on the issues that were raised.

At the end of the one-hour meeting, the therapist encouraged the group members on the need to communicate when the desire to relapse occurred. The therapist thanked everyone for turning up

The Recovery of Meaning Charles Douglas McGee,1966 What Does It Mean to Grow Old? Thomas R. Cole,1987-08 In What Does It Mean to Grow Old essayists come to grips as best they can with the phenomenon of an America that is about to become the Old Country They have been drawn from every relevant discipline gerontology social medicine politics health anthropology ethics law and asked to speak their mind Most of them write extremely well and their sharply individual voices are heard Writing Theology Well Lucretia B. Yaghjian,2006-11-24 In its creative integration of the disciplines of writing rhetoric and theology Writing Theology Well provides a standard text for theological educators engaged in the teaching and mentoring of writing across the theological curriculum As a theological rhetoric it will also encourage excellence in theological writing in the public domain by helping to equip students for their wider vocations as writers preachers and communicators in a variety of ministerial and professional contexts Writing Theology Well 2nd Edition Lucretia B. Yaghjian,2015-09-24 A working guide for students conducting theological writing and research on theology and biblical studies courses this book integrates the disciplines of writing rhetoric and theology to provide a standard text for the teaching and mentoring of writing across the theological curriculum As a theological rhetoric it also encourages excellence in theological writing in the public domain by helping to equip students for their wider vocations as writers preachers and communicators in a variety of ministerial and professional contexts This 2nd Edition includes new chapters on Writing Theology in a New Language which explores the linguistic and cultural challenges of writing theology well in a non native language and Writing and Learning Theology in an Electronic Age addressed to distance learning students learning to write theology well from online courses and dealing with the technologies necessary to do so The Philosopher's Index ,1978

Selected Essays, Volume II Andrew Louth,2023 These two volumes contain selected essays written over forty years by Andrew Louth a major scholar in the fields of Theology and Patristics early Christian thought Many of the essays in volume II concern the nature of theology drawing from a famous group of twentieth century Russian thinkers exiled after the 1917 Communist revolution Selected Works of D.T. Suzuki, Volume III Daisetsu Teitaro Suzuki,2016-08-02 Daisetsu Teitaro Suzuki was a key figure in the introduction of Buddhism to the non Asian world Many outside Japan encountered Buddhism for the first time through his writings and teaching and for nearly a century his work and legacy have contributed to the ongoing religious and cultural interchange between Japan and the rest of the world particularly the United States and Europe This third volume of Selected Works of D T Suzuki brings together a diverse collection of Suzuki s letters essays and lectures about non Buddhist religions and his thoughts on their relation to Buddhism as well as his reflections on the nature of religion itself Some of these writings have been translated into English for the first time in this volume As a long term resident of the United States a world traveler and a voracious consumer of information about all forms of religion Suzuki was one of the foremost Japanese mediators of Eastern and Western religious cultures for nearly seven decades An introduction by Jeff Wilson and Tomoe Moriya analyzes Suzuki's frequent encounters with texts and practitioners of many religions considers how events in Suzuki's lifetime affected his interpretations of Christianity Shinto and other traditions and demonstrates that his legacy as a scholar extends well beyond Buddhism

The Recovery of Philosophy in America Thomas P. Kasulis, Robert C. Neville, John Edwin Smith, 1997-01-01 This collection of essays by leading American philosophers honors John E. Smith, a major figure in the struggle for the American profession of philosophy to redefine itself and return to its grander traditions

Recovering the U.S. Hispanic Literary Heritage, Volume II Erlinda Gonzales-Berry, Charles M. Tatum, 1996-01-01 This second volume in the series contains articles by the leading scholars on Hispanic literary history of the United States given at the annual convention on Recovering the U.S. Hispanic Literary Heritage. The articles in this volume are in five sections: The Recovery Project Comes of Age, Assimilation, Accommodation, or Resistance, History in Literature, Literature in History, Writing the Revolution, and Recovering the Creation of Community

Recovering 9/11 in New York Robert Fanuzzi, Michael Wolfe, 2014-04-23 This collection of essays offers a rich variety of approaches to how people and institutions in greater New York have sought to find meaning in the 9/11 attacks on the World Trade Center, now a decade on. The views and practices documented here join memory recovery and rebuilding together to form a vital new chapter in New York's metropolitan history. Contributors contest the dominant nationalist narrative about 9/11 to generate a more local and socially engaged form of scholarship that connects directly with the experiences of people who lived or came to work in New York that fateful day and the years that followed. In doing so, these essays give academics and clinical professionals an opportunity to reflect upon and work with the people of a community in this case, metropolitan New York, as essential partners and even the main protagonists in creating new paradigms to capture the significance of these events and their aftermath. The collection is comprised of sixteen essays by experts drawn from a wide range of scholarly and professional fields. They investigate how people across the New York metropolitan region initially responded to and have since remembered the events of September 11th as they rippled out into the city, the surrounding metropolitan region, and the nation at large. They engage directly with the emotional and psychological aftermath of the attacks, approaching the questions of healing and teaching from a variety of institutional, professional, and non-professional perspectives. The volume concludes with a selection of essays that grapple with the challenge of representing 9/11. Contributors to this section evaluate contemporary novels and films that have risked engagement with deep narrative traditions to translate the recent memory of public events into resonant stories and imaginative language. Readers are invited to consider how all these responses in literature, memorials, media representations, and the words and actions of diverse individuals still contribute to the complex yet inescapable challenge of making meaning of 9/11

The Good Is One, Its Manifestations Many Robert Cummings Neville, 2016-09-30 Presents a twenty first century progressive liberal Confucianism Building on his long standing work in metaphysics and Asian philosophy Robert Cummings Neville presents a series of essays that cumulatively articulate a contemporary progressive Confucian position as a global philosophy Through analysis of the metaphysical and moral traditions of Confucianism Neville brings these traditions into the twenty first century According to Confucianism rituals define most of our relations with other individuals social institutions and nature and while rituals make possible the positive institutions of high human civilization they may also lead to harmful behaviors including racism xenophobia and sexism Neville argues that the amendment of rituals that institutionalize oppression is a positive task which should be undertaken from within a skillfully ritualized life rather than in the form of external criticism Confucianism in Neville's hands is a left wing progressive liberal political philosophy one that can address institutionalized oppression and suggest a path for moving forward

The Routledge Handbook of Progressive Rock, Metal, and the Literary Imagination Chris Anderton, Lori Burns, 2025-02-26 This Handbook illustrates the many ways that progressive rock and metal music forge striking engagements with literary texts and themes The authors and their objects of analytic inquiry offer global and diverse perspectives on these genres and their literary connections from ancient times to the modern world from children's literature to epic poetry from mythology to science fiction and from esoteric fantasy to harsh political criticism The musical treatments of these literary materials span the continents from South and North America through Europe and Asia The collection presents critical perspectives on the enduring and complex relationships between words and music as these are expressed in progressive rock and metal The book is aimed primarily at an academic market valuable for second through final year students on undergraduate courses devoted to both popular music and to literary studies and to postgraduate programs and researchers in a range of fields including popular music studies musicology

Essays on Art and Language Charles Harrison, 2003-09-12 Critical and theoretical essays by a long time participant in the Art Language movement These essays by art historian and critic Charles Harrison are based on the premise that making art and talking about art are related enterprises They are written from the point of view of Art Language the artistic movement based in England and briefly in the United States with which Harrison has been associated for thirty years Harrison uses the work of Art Language as a central case study to discuss developments in art from the 1950s through the 1980s According to Harrison the strongest motivation for writing about art is that it brings us closer to that which is other than ourselves In seeing how a work is done we learn about its achieved identity we see for example that a drip on a Pollock is integral to its technical character whereas a drip on a Mondrian would not be Throughout the book Harrison uses specific examples to address a range of questions about the history theory and making of modern art questions about the conditions of its making and the nature of its public about the problems and priorities of criticism and about the relations between interpretation and judgment
