Those in the counseling profession are interacting more with people from other cultures the U S sphere of influence throughout the world is spreading increasingly we are providing services to clients who are not Caucasian or of European heritage and our educational programs have been active in training both domestic students of diverse ethnic backgrounds as well as foreign students These factors combine to contribute to the need for those who provide counseling to understand the elements involved in interacting with a wide spectrum of people This book meets that need by providing a brief synopsis on such topics as common factors values universals cross cultural competence and models approaches and psychological perspectives of human behavior theories of personality The emphasis is on material that relies more on the use of the scientific method and data instead of anecdotal and experiential literature For the reader who is interested in obtaining information from which statements are derived there are references to investigate the material further Unlike other book that stress the barriers between counselor and client this book adds the perspective that there are factors that facilitate interactions between the two There are also frequent cross cultural examples in the book To facilitate awareness of similarities and differences in views of human behavior samples of African Arab Chinese and European American perspectives are represented There is also a relatively large section on applications This consists of such subjects as cross cultural aspects of psychological theories ethics research tests Euro American approaches and experiences client characteristics client and counselor interactions and therapeutic techniques Many other topics are covered as well Students and professionals in the fields of counseling and psychology will find this book to be an invaluable addition to their library

Holistic Education and Embodied Learning John P. Miller, Kelli Nigh, 2017-03-01 Learning often begins with an experience in the body Our body can tighten or feel expansive depending on different learning contexts This experience of learning in the body is crucial to holistic education This book explores embodied learning from several perspectives This first section explores how psychology can inform us about embodied learning for example the work of Carl Jung and Wilhelm Reich devoted much of their thinking to how energy manifests itself in the body Meditation and movement are also examined as ways of embodied learning for example Dalcroze a form of movement education is presented within the context of whole person education The book also presents schools where embodied learning is nurtured Waldorf education is discussed as well as a public school in Toronto where the body is central to holistic education The book also presents visions of embodied learning John Miller presents a holistic vision of teacher education and Tobin Hart who has written extensively in this field writes about the embodied mind Embodied learning is an emerging area of inquiry in holistic education and this book presents a variety of perspectives and practices that should be helpful to both scholars and practitioners
