Oroonoko Adapted By Biyi Bandele:

Oroonoko Susan B. Iwanisziw, 2017-11-30 With the aim of examining the postcolonial applications of Aphra Behn's re-entry into the literary canon the editor presents this edition as a collection representing the nexus of very specific articulations of literary cultural and political tropes produced by various writers and adapters from 1695 through 1999 The volume begins with a general introduction It then presents seven 18th century versions of the play and one poem ending with Biyi Bandele's late 20th century drama All texts are supplemented by original paratextual commentary if that is known and prefaced by a brief editorial commentary setting out pertinent biographical bibliographical theatrical and historical context not covered in the general introduction The tradition of stage adaptations of Oroonoko most of them keyed to Southerne's drama rather than to Behn's initial novella clearly shows the responsiveness of this series to studies of authorship gender genre and theatricality class race and especially the British response to the Atlantic slave trade and thus to the enduring relevance of these plays in modern literary and historical scholarship Troping Oroonoko from Behn to Bandele Susan B. Iwanisziw, 2018-01-18 This volume of essays invites the reader to assess literary texts from within the frame of the texts cultural history which includes issues of authorship and literary or stage convention as well as the social and political institutions that shaped and marketed that literature The collection initiates just such an in depth and focused analysis of the complex literary and social history of the royal slave Oroonoko All eight essays address elements in the evolution of Oroonoko from Behn's 1688 novella to Southerne's 1696 dramatic adaptation and thence to the adaptations by Hawkesworth 1759 Gentleman 1760 Anonymous 1760 Ferriar 1788 Bellamy 1789 and Bandele 1999 who serially expropriated the play as a platform to debate responsibility in matters of slavery and colonialism Perhaps unique among literary creations Oroonoko and his entourage with their distinctive race class and gender attributes came into popular consciousness as tropes gauging important shifts in English values during the course of the transatlantic slave trade Accordingly this study aims to provide a specific exemplum of rigorous focused research on a single complex and controversial topic but also to complicate some of our received notions about Oroonoko slavery and abolition with a view to encouraging a more rigorous analysis of the cultural history underpinning literary texts Genre and Ethics Edward Tomarken, 2002 The study addresses the following kinds of questions Why does genre need ethics Why does ethics need genre How is ethics related to and distinguished from ideology as currently used in cultural studies How does a generic ethical method come to terms with history and historical change How is a generic ethical method related to religion Does genre reinforce the concept of the ethical agent This book will therefore have a broad audience including scholars whose fields range from the Renaissance to the present theorists and philosophers whose interests include ethics cultural studies and ideologies and educationists pursuing methods for graduates and undergraduates The autobiographical introduction serves as the hook as our creative writers say for this audience Generically it is experimental being at once scholarly pedagogical and autobiographical BOOK JACKET The British Slave

Trade and Public Memory Elizabeth Kowaleski Wallace, 2006-01-11 How does a contemporary society restore to its public memory a momentous event like its own participation in transatlantic slavery What are the stakes of once more restoring the slave trade to public memory What can be learned from this history Elizabeth Kowaleski Wallace explores these questions in her study of depictions and remembrances of British involvement in the slave trade Skillfully incorporating a range of material Wallace discusses and analyzes how museum exhibits novels television shows movies and a play created and produced in Britain from 1990 to 2000 grappled with the subject of slavery Topics discussed include a walking tour in the former slave trading port of Bristol novels by Caryl Phillips and Barry Unsworth a television adaptation of Jane Austen's Mansfield Park and a revival of Aphra Behn's Oroonoko for the Royal Shakespeare Company In each case Wallace reveals how these works and performances illuminate and obscure the history of the slave trade and its legacy While Wallace focuses on Britain her work also speaks to questions of how the United States and other nations remember inglorious chapters from their past

Dido's Daughters Margaret W. Ferguson, 2007-11-01 Winner of the 2004 Book Award from the Society for the Study of Early Modern Women and the 2003 Roland H Bainton Prize for Literature from the Sixteenth Century Society and Conference Our common definition of literacy is the ability to read and write in one language But as Margaret Ferguson reveals in Dido's Daughters this description is inadequate because it fails to help us understand heated conflicts over literacy during the emergence of print culture The fifteenth through seventeenth centuries she shows were a contentious era of transition from Latin and other clerical modes of literacy toward more vernacular forms of speech and writing Ferguson's aim in this long awaited work is twofold to show that what counted as more valuable among these competing literacies had much to do with notions of gender and to demonstrate how debates about female literacy were critical to the emergence of imperial nations Looking at writers whom she dubs the figurative daughters of the mythological figure Dido builder of an empire that threatened to rival Rome Ferguson traces debates about literacy and empire in the works of Marguerite de Navarre Christine de Pizan Elizabeth Cary and Aphra Behn as well as male writers such as

Shakespeare Rabelais and Wyatt The result is a study that sheds new light on the crucial roles that gender and women played in the modernization of England and France

Sway of the Ottoman Empire on English Identity in the Long Eighteenth Century Emily Kugler, 2012-02-17 This book challenges concepts of an ahistorically powerful England and shows both that the intermingling of Islamic and English

Protestant identity was a recurring theme of the eighteenth century and that this cultural mixing was a topic of debate and anxiety in the English cultural imagination. It charts the way representation of England and the Ottomans changed as England grew into an imperial power. By focusing on texts dealing with the Ottomans, the author argues that we can observe the turning point in public perceptions, the moments when English subjects began to believe British imperial power was a reality rather than an aspiration.

British Black and Asian Shakespeareans Jami Rogers, 2022-03-24 Shakespeare is at the heart of the British theatrical tradition, but the contribution of Ira Aldridge and the Shakespearean performers of African, African Caribbean, South Asian, and East Asian heritage who came after him is not widely known. Telling the story for the first time of how Shakespearean theatre in Britain was integrated from the 1960s to the 21st century, this is a timely and important account of that contribution. Drawing extensively on empirical evidence from the British Black and Asian Shakespeare Performance Database and featuring interviews with nearly forty performers and directors, the book chronicles important productions that led to ground-breaking castings of Black and Asian actors in substantial Shakespearean roles, including Zakes Mokae as one of three black witches in William Gaskill's 1966 production of Macbeth at the Royal Court Theatre, Norman Beaton as Angelo in Michael Rudman's 1981 production of Measure for Measure at the National Theatre, the first majority Black Shakespearean cast at the theatre, Josette Simon as Isabella in Measure for Measure at the Royal Shakespeare Company in 1987, Adrian Lester in the title role of Nicholas Hytner's 2003 production of Henry V, Iqbal Khan on his 2012 production of Much Ado About Nothing, the first production with an all South Asian cast at the Royal Shakespeare Company, Alfred Enoch and Rakie Ayola as Edgar and Goneril in Talawa Theatre Company's 2016 production of King Lear, Paapa Essiedu as Hamlet in Simon Godwin's 2016 production for the Royal Shakespeare Company. With first-hand accounts from key performers, including Joseph Marcell, Adrian Lester, Josette Simon, Lolita Chakrabarti, Noma Dumezweni, Rakie Ayola, David Yip, Ray Fearon, Paterson Joseph, Alfred Enoch, Rudolph Walker, and many more, this book is an invaluable history of Black and Asian Shakespeareans that highlights the gains these actors have made and the challenges still faced in pursuing a career in classical theatre.

Black and Asian Theatre In Britain Colin Chambers, 2020-12-17 Black and Asian Theatre in Britain is an unprecedented study tracing the history of the Other through the ages in British theatre. The diverse and often contradictory aspects of this history are expertly drawn together to provide a detailed background to the work of African, Asian, and Caribbean diasporic companies and practitioners. Colin Chambers examines early forms of blackface and other representations in the sixteenth century through to the emergence of black and Asian actors, companies, and theatre groups in their own right. Thorough analysis uncovers how they led to a flourishing of black and Asian voices in theatre at the turn of the twenty-first century. Figures and companies studied include Ira Aldridge, Henry Francis Downing, Paul Robeson, Errol John Mustapha, Matura Dark, and Light Theatre. The Keskidee Centre, Indian Art and Dramatic Society, Temba Edric, and Pearl Connor Tara Arts. Yvonne Brewster, Tamasha, Talawa, Black and Asian Theatre in Britain is an enlightening and
