Extract from the Minutes of Consultation under date the 5th November 1857.

Read the following letter from Colonel A. COTTON, Commandant of Engineers; to H. FORBES, Esq., Acting Secretary to Government, dated 24th September 1857, No. 494.

Sir,

In obedience to the orders contained in the Extract from the Minutes of Consultation No. 622 dated 1st April 1857. I have the honor to forward two plans and a memo. of the origin, early history and subsequent alterations of Fort Saint George, drawn up by the Garrison Engineer.

A MEMORANDUM OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF FORT ST. GEORGE.

In March 1639, the Rajah of Chundgherry invited Mr. Francis Day, the Chief of the English Factory at Armagon, to remove his establishment southwards; and granted him a piece of ground five miles long, and one broad, on the sea coast at the small village of Madras, whereon to build a Town and Fort.

This new Town was called Chinnapatnam, after Chinnapa the father of the then Naick or local Governor. Without waiting for orders from the Court of Directors, Mr. Day at once proceeded to erect his new Factory, surrounding it by a slight wall which was defended with four ill constructed bastions, and as many batteries. He gave the fortification the name of Fort Saint George. At this period there were not more than a few fishermen's huts at Madras, but to encourage the natives to settle in the English possession it was proclaimed, "that for the term of 20 years no custom on any thing to be eaten, drunk or worn, should be taken from any of the town dwellers." This appears to have had the desired effect of rapidly colonizing the new British settlement. Houses for the merchants and servants of the Factory soon sprang up outside the Fort, to the south and south-west, which the Natives called the "White Town," in contradistinction to their own residences in "Black Town." In 1644 the money expended on the fortifications amounted to £2,294; and it was computed that 2,000 £ more would be necessary to render them impregnable to the native powers. At this period the Fort was garrisoned by 100 European Soldiers, but in 1632 there were only 20, whilst shortly after the number was further reduced to a permanent guard of ten men. The Agent and Council of each factory were entrusted with Martial Law for the Government of the troops kept for its defence. Messrs. Greenhill and Chambers had been respectively holding the position of Chief Agent, but in 1633 Madras was raised to a Presidency; and Sir Edward Winter was appointed the first Governor. In 1662 a number of Africans were introduced into the British service, and trained to the use of arms. In 1665 a ship arrived from England with recruits, bringing out Mr. Foxcroft to supersede Sir Edward; the latter, however, imprisoned Foxcroft and retained possession of the Fort till August 1668, when he delivered it to Commissioners sent purposely from England. Mr. Foxcroft then assumed the Government and held it till 1671, when he was succeeded by Sir James Langhorne. For subsequent Governors, see Made Argham Almanac for 1857.

In 1672 the garrison was increased by the enlistment of sailors from the ships. In 1676 Africans were received of another batch of recruits having been sent out; and the Court of
