The Red Man's Continent a Chronicle of Aboriginal America Ellsworth Huntington, 2018-08-14 The Red Man s Continent a chronicle of aboriginal America by Ellsworth Huntington Across the twilight lawn at Hampton Institute straggles a group of sturdy young men with copper hued complexions Their day has been devoted to farming carpentry blacksmithing or some other trade Their evening will be given to study Those silent dignified Indians with straight black hair and broad strong features are training their hands and minds in the hope that some day they may stand beside the white man as equals Behind them laughing gayly and chattering as if without a care in the world comes a larger group of kinky haired thick lipped youths with black skins and African features They too have been working with the hands to train the mind Those two diverse races red and black sit down together in a classroom and to them comes another race The faces that were expressionless or merely mirthful a minute ago light up with serious interest as the teacher comes into the room She stands there a slender golden haired blue eyed Anglo Saxon girl just out of college a mere child compared with the score of swarthy stalwart men as old as herself who sit before her Her mobile features seem to mirror a hundred thoughts while their impassive faces are moved by only one Her quick speech almost trips in its eagerness not to waste the short precious hour Only a strong effort holds her back while she waits for the slow answers of the young men whom she drills over and over again in simple problems of arithmetic The class and the teacher are an epitome of American history They are more than that They are an epitome of all history We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience

The Red Man's Continent: A Chronicle of Aboriginal America (1919) Ellsworth Huntington, 2009-08 This scarce antiquarian book is a facsimile reprint of the original Due to its age it may contain imperfections such as marks notations marginalia and flawed pages Because we believe this work is culturally important we have made it available as part of our commitment for protecting preserving and promoting the world's literature in affordable high quality modern editions that are true to the original work The New Continent, 1919 The Red Man's Continent Ellsworth Huntington, 1919 The Red Man's Continent Ellsworth Huntington, 2009-02-01 Many of the earliest books particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive Hesperides Press are republishing these classic works in affordable high quality modern editions using the original text and artwork

Chronicles of America Ellsworth Huntington, 2013-06-03 In writing this book the author has aimed first to present in readable form the main facts about the geographical environment of American history Many important facts have been omitted or have been touched upon only lightly because they are generally familiar On the other hand special stress has been laid on certain broad phases of geography which are comparatively unfamiliar One of these is the similarity of form between the Old World and the New and between North and South America another is the distribution of indigenous types of vegetation in North America and a third is the relation of climate to health and energy In addition to these subjects the influence of geographical conditions upon the life of the primitive Indians has been emphasized This factor is especially important because people without iron tools and beasts of burden and without any cereal crops except corn must respond to their environment very differently from civilized people of today Limits of space and the desire to make this book readable have led to the omission of the detailed proof of some of the conclusions here set forth The special student will recognize such cases and will not judge them until he has read the author's fuller statements elsewhere The general reader for whom this book is designed will be thankful for the omission of such purely technical details

The Red Man's Continent Ellsworth Huntington, 2008-06-01 Many of the earliest books particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive Hesperides Press are republishing these classic works in affordable high quality modern editions using the original text and artwork

The Red Man's Continent ELLSWORTH. HUNTINGTON, 2025-07-23 In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt addressed the American Historical Association to call for American history to be written as compelling stories of literary quality Editor Allen Johnson of Yale University responded by publishing the Chronicles of America series 50 succinct volumes on regional and thematic American history These books intended for secondary schools and college students are expository works of American history composed by competent historians in the 1920s well before the special pleading and upending of social norms typical of histories after 1970 This series is focused on the mainstream of American political life and leadership from its initial volumes on Native Americans and European colonists to its final volumes on Woodrow Wilson Canada and the Hispanic Republics to our South The Red Man's Continent Volume 1 of the Chronicles of America Series is an introduction to the geography and anthropology of North America Ellsworth Huntington 1876 1947 was a professor of Geography at Yale and a scholar of anthropology He was an authority on the effects of environment and climate changes on human civilizations and emphasized the correspondence of racial development with resources climates and regions This overview of the geology soil flora fauna and pre-Columbian demography is a succinct scientific introduction to the setting of the history of America
