Longitudinal Research F. Schulsinger, Sarnoff A. Mednick, J. Knop, 2012-12-06 This volume is the product of a course on longitudinal prospective research arranged by the three editors in Arhus Denmark in 1978 The course was supported by the Nordisk Kulturfond for young researchers from the Nordic countries who had planned or had simply involved themselves in longitudinal prospective research projects of various kinds The twenty six participants represented a wide range of professions statisticians psychologists psychiatrists nutritionists and public health researchers The teachers came from many countries and represented many disciplines The course was very successful especially from the point of view of the quality and investment of the teachers We felt also that the course met a strong need in this relatively new field of research Therefore we asked the teachers to prepare written versions of their lectures so that they could have wider dissemination they agreed to do so The present book is composed of these contributions The first chapter after outlining some of the problems with traditional strategies in mental health research goes on to suggest some of the possible preventive applications of longitudinal research methods Included in Parts II and III are papers on design problems and on the tools of long term research such as genetics and classification biological measurements epidemiological guidelines statistical models disease registers and developmental psychology
