Emei, 2024-06-11 Is it too much to ask for an ordinary boring life? Bai Jian is a typical Chinese boy growing up in a big city. But his life is far from typical: his mother abandoned him when he was a baby, and his father, Hei Jian, is always out of work, always fighting with his long parade of girlfriends, always getting the two of them involved in some harebrained scheme. The latest idea involves spending every last dime they have putting Bai Jian up in a posh boarding school so that Hei Jian can leave and pursue his dream of becoming a big-time movie director. All Bai Jian has ever wanted is a warm bed to sleep in, a safe place to return to at the end of the day, enough food to fill his belly, and a family who's not just going to abandon him on a whim. He soon realizes while he may not have been born into this sort of family, maybe he can find one out there in the world himself. From author Yao Emei and translator Kelly Zhang comes a heart-rending, emotional middle-grade novel about a contemporary boy in China searching for a home, and whose resourcefulness and generous heart carry him through. Readers who fell in love with Because of Winn-Dixie and Ghost will discover an inimitable voice in Bai Jian that will stay with them forever. P R A I S E: Intimate and introspective. Kirkus Readers attracted to international novels in translation or stories about resilient precocious teens who don't get into too much trouble will find lots to like here. Thorold, Arthur Hornblow, Arthur Hornblow (Jr.), Perriton Maxwell, Stewart Beach, 1926 The End of East Jen Sookfong Lee, 2008-04-29 In the tradition of Amy Tan and Jhumpa Lahiri, a moving portrait of three generations of family living in Vancouver's Chinatown. From Knopf Canada's New Face of Fiction program, launching grounds for Yann Martel's Life of Pi and Ann Marie MacDonald's Fall on Your Knees, comes this powerfully evocative novel. At age eighteen, Seid Quan is the first in the Chan family to emigrate from China to Vancouver in 1913. Paving the way for a wife and son, he is profoundly lonely even as he joins the Chinatown community. Weaving in and out of the past and the present, The End of East pieces together the spellbinding tale of Seid Quan's family, his wife Shew Lin, whose hope for her family are threatened by her own misguided actions, his son Pon Man, who struggles with obligation and desire, his daughter-in-law Siu Sang, who tries to be the caregiver everyone expects, even as she feels herself unraveling, and his granddaughter Sammy, who finds herself embroiled in a volatile mixture of seduction, grief, and duty. An exquisite debut of isolation, immigration, romance, and insanity, The End of East sets family conflicts against the backdrop of Vancouver's Chinatown, a city within a city where dreams are shattered as quickly as they're built, and where history repeats itself through the generations It is a bold and accomplished debut from one of Canada s brightest new literary stars

A Time of Ghosts Hok-Pang Tang, David Coomler, 2010 Without warning there was a tremendous explosion that shattered the windows and so shook the house that the soup sloshed out of our bowls spreading in puddles and rivulets on the table I ran out into the street Looking south I saw a great mass of black smoke rising into the sky My father came and stood beside me I could see that he was very upset His face was grim as he turned to me and said Now we must face an unpredictable future So began the turmoil that turned China upside down and set an intelligent young man born to wealth and power off on an amazing journey through this world and the otherworldly in search of meaning and freedom A Time of Ghosts is his remarkable true story HOK PANG TANG was a physician and surgeon trained in both Western and traditional Chinese medicine He practiced as a medical doctor in China and later as an acupuncturist in the United States This book is the result of his collaboration with David Coomler an Oregon author and long time friend of Dr Tang
