Toward Insect Resistant Maize for the Third World International Maize and Wheat Improvement Center,1989 Theory and Practice of Integrated Pest Management Ramesh Arora,Balwinder Singh,A.K. Dhawan,2017-01-01 The dominance of insects in the world fauna has made them the humanity s greatest rival for the world s food resources both directly by eating the plants cultivated for food and indirectly as vectors of pathogens attacking these plants Agricultural scientists and especially entomologists have strived hard to develop a diversity of cultural mechanical biological and chemical weapons during the last more than two centuries to gain dominance over insects However there is evidence that insect pest problems have escalated with an increasing cropping intensity and with the use of agrochemicals inherent in modern agriculture Consequently Indian plant protection scientists have intensified research on the development of pest management tactics and effective pest management systems have been designed for all the important crops in the country This book consisting of 29 chapters draws together the diverse literature on the subject of insect pest management in agriculture and contains contributions written by scientists having extensive experience with insect pest problems in Indian agriculture The first half of the book is devoted to the principles and components of pest management including factors affecting pest populations construction of life tables coevolution of insects and plants pest forecasting pesticides IGRs botanicals entomopathogenic nematodes and molecular approaches etc The different tactics for the management of major insect pests of principal agricultural crops of India viz rice maize wheat forage crops cotton sugarcane vegetables fruits oilseeds pulse crops jute mesta and tobacco have been discussed in the second half of the book The book contains a wealth of information on all aspects of insect pest management in agriculture under Indian conditions and would prove indispensable for students teachers and researchers in agricultural entomology in India and other Asian countries The Cambridge World History of Food Kenneth F. Jenks,Paul M. Hasegawa,Shri Mohan Jain,2007-09-14 Plant stress caused by drought and salinity are among the major constraints on crop production and food security worldwide Breeding programs to improve crop yield in dry and saline environments have progressed slowly due to our limited understanding of the underlying physiological biochemical developmental and genetic

mechanisms that determine plant responses to these forms of stress as well as to technical difficulties in combining favourable alleles to create the improved high yielding genotypes needed for these environments Advances in Molecular Breeding toward Drought and Salt Tolerant Crops seeks to integrate the most recent findings about key biological determinants of plant stress tolerance with modern crop improvement strategies This volume is unique because it provides exceptionally wide coverage of current knowledge and expertise being applied in drought and salt tolerance research spanning the scientific hierarchy from physiology biochemistry development and genetics to the newest technologies being used to manipulate drought and salinity associated traits for germplasm improvement This book will be an invaluable reference for educators and researchers in agronomy and horticulture crop breeding molecular genetics and biotechnology
