Background knowledge

Our world is made of many different types of material. Metals come from rocks. Wood comes from trees. Plastic and glass are made in factories. Ceramics are made from mud and clay. Natural fabrics are made from plants or animals, while synthetic fabrics are made in factories. We use all of these materials to build our homes and to make the things we use every day.

Science activity

Anna is blindfolded. Jim is describing four different types of material to her. Anna has to guess what type of material is being described. See how well you can do!

Material one does not feel cold. It is brown. It has a natural smell. When hit with a hammer, it makes a dull thud sound.

The matter is .....

Material two does not feel cold. It can be almost any color. It has a slight chemical smell. When hit with a hammer, it makes a dull clunk.

The matter is .....

Material three feels cold. It is shiny and silver in color. When hit with a hammer, it makes a ringing noise.

The matter is .....

Material four feels cold and is smooth. You can see through it. It has no smell. When hit by a hammer, it breaks.

The matter is .....

Science investigation

Write three "clue" descriptions for materials in your home. Hide the materials in a shoebox. Read one clue out loud at a time. The person who needs the least number of clues to guess the material wins the game.

'Grossly Material Things' Helen Smith, 2012-05-03 In A Room of One's Own Virginia Woolf described fictions as grossly material things rooted in their physical and economic contexts This book takes Woolf's brief hint as its starting point asking who made the books of the English Renaissance and what the material circumstances were in which they did so It charts a new history of making and use recovering the ways in which women shaped and altered the books of this crucial period as co-authors editors translators patrons printers booksellers and readers Drawing on evidence from a wide range of sources including court records letters diaries medical texts and the books themselves Grossly Material Things moves between the realms of manuscript and print and tells the stories of literary political and religious texts from broadside ballads to plays monstrous birth pamphlets to editions of the Bible In uncovering the neglected history of women's textual labours and the places and spaces in which women went about the business of making Helen Smith offers a new perspective on the history of books and reading Where Woolf believed that Shakespeare's sister had she existed would have had no opportunity to pursue a literary career Grossly Material Things paints a compelling picture of Judith Shakespeare's varied job prospects and promises to reshape our understanding of gendered authorship in the English Renaissance The Nature of Things Anthony M.

Quinton,2019-03-07 Originally published in 1973 In this systematic treatise Anthony Quinton examines the concept of substance a philosophical refinement of the everyday notion of a thing Four distinct but not unconnected problems about substance are identified what accounts for the individuality of a thing what confers identity on a thing what is the relation between a thing and its appearances and what kind of thing is fundamental in the sense that its existence is logically independent of that of any other kind of thing In Part 1 the first two problems are discussed while in Part 2 the third and fourth are considered Part 3 examines four kinds of thing that have been commonly held to be in some way non material abstract entities the unobservable entities of scientific theory minds and their states and finally values The author argues that theoretical entities and mental states are in fact material He gives a linguistic account of universals and necessary truths and advances a naturalistic theory of value A Biblical Theology of Material Possessions Gene A. Getz,2012-04-01

Some researchers estimate that evangelical Christians give an average of 2 percent of their income to further the kingdom of God Such a practice reveals a theology of material possessions that is clearly out of line with God's Word Gene Getz in an extensive search reveals intriguing detailed information on the subject of material possessions based on Scripture The synthesis of this and selected extrabiblical literature resulted in the formation of more than 120 biblical principles that can be applied by any person in any culture Dr Getz not only shares these principles but offers guidance for church leaders and laypeople who want to apply them in their church A Summary of Philosophy Saint Thomas Aquinas,Richard J.
