Why A course on Structural Materials

- Mechanical Engineers work with materials
- Most products involve multiple materials
- Materials are the means of obtaining the desired properties of the product
- Manufacturing processes are the means of processing the material to the desired properties
- Manufacturing process = geometry of the process (tool geometry, configuration of workpiece relative to the tool & direction of motion of the tool relative to the workpiece), temperature, speed of performing the process
- All processing steps affect the constitution of the material and hence its properties
- The product behaviour in service is the net outcome of the material, the manufacturing process, and design of the product. The material constitution
