Mediterranean Color:

House Colors Susan Herschman, 2009-09 House Colors is the most comprehensive resource ever compiled on choosing exterior house colors Sorted by architectural style this format will allow the reader to pinpoint the colors that will best suit their style of home It is the ultimate resource for those looking to achieve exceptional color combinations from subtle to bold that are so difficult to achieve without professional design assistance

Seeing Color in Classical Art Jennifer M. S. Stager, 2022-12-15 The remains of ancient Mediterranean art and architecture that have survived over the centuries present the modern viewer with images of white the color of the stone often used for sculpture Antiquarian debates and recent scholarship however have challenged this aspect of ancient sculpture There is now a consensus that sculpture produced in the ancient Mediterranean world as well as art objects in other media were in fact polychromatic Color has consequently become one of the most important issues in the study of classical art Jennifer Stager's landmark book makes a vital contribution to this discussion Analyzing the dyes pigments stones earth and metals found in ancient art works along with the language that writers in antiquity used to describe color she examines the traces of color in a variety of media Stager also discusses the significance of a reception history that has emphasized whiteness revealing how ancient artistic practice and ancient philosophies of color significantly influenced one another

Color of the Skin Mitiku Ashebir, 2017-10-25 Color of the Skin talks about the color of human skin which ironically does not exist However rather than rejecting the premises of traditional awareness about skin color the book uses existing perceptions as departure points in examining the inherent characteristics and social trappings surrounding skin color The book defines the subject namely color of the skin with considerable precision elaborating on its various aspects by dialing forward accounts of ponderings that occurred far back in time and place but that are still fresh and substantive It successfully distills a few fundamental concepts that widely contrast in some instances clash with existing popularly known and commonly understood notions concerning skin color The book provides comparative descriptions in settings representing two countries Ethiopia where color of the skin is straightforward literal and simple where it is used primarily for identifying people and the United States where color of the skin is heavily loaded complex formal institutionalized and often political The parameters in each abode provide adequate details indicating the scope and implications of the consequences of the resultant attitudes actions and practices thereof especially in the latter The author proposes that color is a continuum by hosting a virtual tour through reading trips from the equator out in four directions north east west and south narrating all the way describing and interpreting the topography of human color which cascades in all directions Further the writer suggests that no two persons will have the same color tone spread and texture This is equivalent to saying that there is an individual color but there is no group color It is close to saying that color of the skin is like fingerprints each person's being different from the next So the gross color division of black and white may be salvaged only when used for convenience and only for immediate references Any effort to institutionalize and formalize color

betrays its natural constitution and thereby compounds the social economic and political problems that it has caused Progressively the book postulates credible concepts that demonstrate grouping people into black and white is arbitrary is subjective and worse in very significant ways is often prodded with intentional and exploitive motives The book invites readers to imagine the reverse of the current world order surrounding the color of skin putting everyone in good view to appreciate what the world might look like if fortunes tagged to color lines were overturned around the world The scenario presented under the section Imagining the Reverse is one of the light parts of the book but at its core the discourse here is indeed about a very serious matter The author observes that the various configurations used to differentiate countries by slicing them into developed and developing and second and third world countries follow skin color contours The issue of skin color is elevated to international levels drawing plausible conclusions that unfortunately the disadvantages of such perspectives outweigh the advantages The perceptions derived from such consensus affect world outlook on a number of issues immigration bilateral and multilateral economic relations and individual country s aspirations to mention a few perhaps rendering faulty designs on a national and international scale The writer takes futuristic perspective touching on global warming never mind the causes for now flagging it as a colossal development that can have an impact on the color of the skin big time In this vein the author surmises that global warming is likely to relentlessly rub against the human skin turning lighter skin to dull Brown may be the universal color of the future The principal motivation of going the distance the book has stretched to pursuing the issue of skin color is to ameliorate the stark differences biases and prejudices that old positions have unabatedly generated for a long time both in specific countries and worldwide Accordingly a few indicators that are considered to be harbingers of a friendlier cohesive fair peaceful and prosperous world have been identified The layout of the preferences to achieve a new positive and more functional world order leans on cooperation understanding collaboration and peace all demands of global realities of today and tomorrow The discussions that close the book in addition to heralding where the author is going with the stretch of ideas on color of skin demonstrate that integration the impetus for the book is a two way traffic and cannot happen without all parties involved being intentional and prepared to change Often life is about overcoming differences and savoring similarities Where there are differences changes and adaptations are required The section on integration demonstrates this phenomenon Tangentially the book also offers unassuming proposition for peace between Israel and Palestine and a point of view for restructuring the US refugee program

Anthropology of Color Robert E. MacLaury, Galina V. Paramei, Don Dedrick, 2007 The field of color categorization has always been intrinsically multi and inter disciplinary since its beginnings in the nineteenth century The main contribution of this book is to foster a new level of integration among different approaches to the anthropological study of color The editors have put great effort into bringing together research from anthropology linguistics psychology semiotics and a variety of other fields by promoting the exploration of the different but interacting and complementary ways in which these various perspectives model the domain of color experience By so doing they significantly promote the emergence of a coherent field of the anthropology of color

Folk-taxonomies in Early English Earl R. Anderson, 2003 A folk taxonomy is a semantic field that represents the particular way in which a language imposes structure and order upon the myriad impressions of human experience and perception Thus for example the experience of color in modern English is structured around an inventory of twelve basic color terms but languages vary in the number of basic color terms used from thirteen or fourteen terms to as few as two or three Anthropological linguists have been interested in the comparative study of folk taxonomies across contemporary languages and in their studies they have sometimes proposed evolutionary models for the development and elaboration of these taxonomies The evolutionary models have implications for historical linguistics but there have been very few studies of the historical development of a folk taxonomy within a language or within a language family Folk Taxonomies in Early English undertakes this task for English and to some extent for the Germanic and Indo-European language families The semantic fields studied are basic color terms seasons of the year geometric shapes the five senses the folk psychology of mind and soul and basic plant and animal life forms Anderson s emphasis is on folk taxonomies in Old and Middle English and also on the implications of semantic analysis for our reading of early English literary texts Notices of Mariners. ...
