

Positive Parenting

ZERO TO THREE
Early connections last a lifetime

Positive parenting describes a set of parental behaviors that foster a child's capacity to love, trust, explore and learn. The goal of positive parenting is to help parents guide their children's healthy development in the context of the family's culture. Key elements of positive parenting include the ability to:

Understand or imagine the child's point of view, especially during challenging moments.

Respond with interest and sensitivity to the child's cues.

Recognize that parenting can be stressful and missteps are a natural part of child-rearing.

Recognize and celebrate the child's strengths, abilities, and capacity to learn and develop.

Provide consistent, age-appropriate guidelines and limits for child behavior.

Work toward a balance of meeting parental needs and child needs.

Delight in moments of connection with the child.

Recognize and regulate their own feelings and behaviors before they respond to the child.

Seek help, support or additional information on parenting when needed.

8 Keys To Old School Parenting for Modern-day Families Michael Mascolo, 2015-03-17 Raising secure and confident kids using best parenting practices from the past Does it ever seem to you like kids these days are in control of their parents Having a strong sense of yourself as a parent is key to raising a resilient independent thoughtful and solution focused child But over the last several generations parents have been immersed in the well intentioned idea that parenting should be child centered rather than adult centered Many parents have begun to follow their children's lead rather than insist that children adapt to parental prerogatives Parental authority has come to be seen as a bad thing The 8 keys presented in this book focus on valuing your own authority as a parent cultivating your child's character applying discipline instead of punishment strategies to motivate compliance fostering emotional development problem solving conflict management and effective communication They will help parents raise self directed children who are active learners feel good about themselves take initiative and have a strong moral compass

Parent-child Relations Jerry J. Bigner, 1994 Parenting Beliefs, Behaviors, and Parent-Child Relations: a Cross-Cultural Perspective Kenneth H. Rubin, Ock Boon Chung, 2006 The purpose of this book is to present a rather simple argument Parents thoughts about childrearing and the ways in which they interact with children to achieve particular parenting or developmental goals are culturally determined Within any culture children are shaped by the physical and social settings within which they live culturally regulated customs and childrearing practices and culturally based belief systems The psychological meaning attributed to any given social behavior is in large part a function of the ecological niche within which it is produced Clearly it is the case that there are some cultural universals All parents want their children to be healthy and to feel secure However healthy and unhealthy at least in the psychological sense of the term can have different meanings from culture to culture
