Parents' Beliefs About Children Scott A. Miller,2019-11-29 One of the most important questions in psychology is how best to nurture children s development Parents child rearing practices are a major contributor to how their children develop and parents beliefs about children are a major contributor to how they treat their children This book synthesizes a large and diverse literature on what parents believe about children in general and their own children in particular Its scope is broad encompassing beliefs directed to numerous aspects of children s development in both the cognitive and social realms that span the age periods from birth through adolescence For each topic this book seeks to ask four crucial questions What is the nature of parents beliefs What are the origins of parents beliefs How do parents beliefs relate to parents behavior And how do parents beliefs relate to children s development These questions tie into longstanding theoretical issues in psychology they are central to our understanding of both parenting practices and children s development and they speak to some of the most important pragmatic issues for which psychology can provide answers Parents Beliefs About Children brings together a vast body of scholarship in a new way which makes the material accessible to both researchers in the field of child development and a more general readership

Parenting and Child Development in Low- and Middle-Income Countries Marc H. Bornstein,W. Andrew Rothenberg,Andrea Bizzego,Robert H. Bradley,Kirby Deater-Deckard,Gianluca Esposito,Jennifer E. Lansford,Diane L. Putnick,Susannah Zietz,2022-09-09 This

compelling volume advances the understanding of what parenting and related sociodemographic demographic and environmental variables look like and how they are associated with child development in low and middle income countries around the world Specifically expert authors document how child growth caregiving practices discipline and violence and children s physical home environments along with child and primary caregiver sociodemographic characteristics and household and national development demographic characteristics are associated with central domains of early childhood development across a substantial fraction of the majority world using contemporary 21st century data from the UNICEF Multiple Indicator Cluster Surveys and the UNICEF Early Childhood Development Index The lives of nearly 160 000 girls and boys aged 3 to 5 years in nationally representative samples from 51 low and middle income countries are sampled to address 7 principal questions about children caregiving and contexts Parenting and Child Development in Low and Middle Income Countries takes an authentically international approach to parenting the environment and child development in cultural contexts that more fully characterize the world s diversity Parenting and Child Development in Low and Middle Income Countries is essential reading for researchers and students of parenting psychology human development family studies sociology and cultural studies as well as governmental and non governmental professionals working with families in low and middle income countries

Parenting and Child Development in Nontraditional Families Michael E. Lamb, 1998-10-01 The goal of this volume is to discuss in depth the ways in which various deviations from traditional family styles affect childrearing practices and child development Each of the contributors illustrates the dynamic developmental processes that characterize parenting and child development in contexts that can be deemed nontraditional because they do not reflect the demographic characteristics of the traditional families on which social scientists have largely focused The contributors deal with the dynamics and possible effects of dual career families families with unusually involved fathers families characterized by the occurrence of divorce single parenthood remarriage poverty adoption reliance on nonparental childcare ethnic membership parents with lesbian or gay sexual orientations as well as violent and or neglectful parents By doing so the authors provide thoughtful literate and up to date accounts of a diverse array of nontraditional or traditionally understudied family types All the chapters offer answers to a common question How do these patterns of childcare affect children their experiences and their developmental processes The answers to these questions are of practical importance relevant to a growing proportion of the families and children in the United States but also have significant implications for the understanding of developmental processes in general As a result the book will be of value to basic social scientists as well as those professionals concerned with guiding and advising clients and public policy

The Effect of Parenting Stress on Children's Cognitive Development Tamara Coon, 2007 Little research has focused on children s age sex and race ethnicity as variables that may moderate the relations between parenting stress and children s cognitive development Using Bronfenbrenner s 1986 bioecological systems theory as a basis this study used a sample of mothers and their children who participated in the Early Head Start Research and Evaluation Project to examine the effects of parenting stress when children were 14 months old on children's cognitive scores on five measures when children were 24 and 36 months. Hierarchical multiple regression analyses revealed that there was a significant negative association between 14 month parenting stress and 24 and 36 month child cognitive scores. Analyses on four measures indicated that this relation was not moderated by child sex. However, analyses on two measures suggested that European American and African American children showed stronger negative relations between maternal parenting stress and children's cognitive outcomes than Mexican American children.

Proceedings of the Unima International Conference on Social Sciences and Humanities (UNICSSH 2022) Recky Harold Elby Sendouw, Theodorus Pangalila, Sjamsi Pasandaran, Vivi P.

Rantung, 2023-01-24. This is an open access book. The Unima International Conference on Social Sciences and Humanity UNICSSH 2022 was conducted on October 11th-13th 2022 at The Grand Kawanua International City Manado North Sulawesi Indonesia. In 2022 Universitas Negeri Manado will host the Indonesian National Education Convention KONASPI X. Konaspi is a routine activity of the PPTKN which is held once every four years. The fourth industrial revolution 4.0 is marked by technological advances and supported by artificial intelligence that creates opportunities and challenges for the education system. University and vocational school graduates are facing a world transformed by technology which in turn is transforming the workplace from task based to human centered characteristics. Certain skills such as critical thinking, emotional intelligence, problem solving, cognitive flexibility, and knowledge production are required. To answer this demand, the education system must put revolutionary innovation on its agenda. Scholars, researchers, and practitioners are invited to share ideas, research results, and best practices about education science and technology now and in the future at an international conference held by Universitas Negeri Manado as part of the Indonesian National Education Convention KONASPI. As part of KONASPI X activities, Universitas Negeri Manado is holding the 2022 International Conference on Education, Social Science, and Humanities (ICESSSHum). The topics in this international conference are Education, Law, Politics, and Social Sciences, Economics, Public Administration, and Humanities. Through these themes, it is expected to involve many professionals who have indirect roles in related fields. To enrich this event, the committee invites all national and international participants, including academics, researchers, professionals, and other relevant stakeholders, to send research papers or review papers to be presented at the conference.

Cognitive Development Among Young Children in Ecuador

Christina H. Paxson, Norbert Rüdiger Schady, 2005. Paxson and Schady examine the relationship between early cognitive development, socioeconomic status, child health, and parenting quality in a developing country. They use a sample of over 3,000 predominantly poor pre-school age children from Ecuador and analyze determinants of their scores on the Spanish version of the Peabody Picture Vocabulary Test (TVIP), a widely used test of language ability. The authors show that median age normed test scores on the TVIP are much lower for older than younger children and there is greater dispersion in scores.

among older children They find that household socioeconomic characteristics in particular wealth and parental education are protective children from wealthier households with more educated parents have higher scores The associations of test scores with wealth and maternal education are larger for older children suggesting that these factors have cumulative effects on cognitive ability Last the authors show that child health and measures of parenting quality are associated with performance on the TVIP Children with lower hemoglobin levels perform worse on tests Measures of parenting quality in particular the degree to which parents are responsive and harsh toward children and whether children are read to account for a portion although not the majority of the association between socioeconomic status and cognitive development

The Future of Children: Spring 2005 Cecilia Rouse, Jeanne Brooks-Gunn, Sara S. McLanahan, 2010-12-01 The Future of Children is a new semiannual publication that provides research and analysis to promote effective policies and programs for children This first issue focuses on School Readiness Closing Racial and Ethnic Gaps For more than 30 years researchers have seen white children outperform black and other minority children in tests of reading and math skills Though there is evidence that the gap has narrowed somewhat the very persistence of this racial and ethnic gap remains a source considerable concern for academics policy professionals and parents The ethnic and racial gaps appear to reach back to the preschool years When children reach the school door minority children exhibit lower school readiness skills at least those measured by standardized tests than their white counterparts From that point forward the achievement gap only widens If policy professionals are to address this disparity in academic achievement and the consequent disparity in later opportunity the racial and ethnic gap must be examined in the very earliest years before students begin school with embedded inequalities This volume critically summarizes the research on the origin and trajectory of the racial and ethnic gap in the early years from several theoretical perspectives In particular research is analyzed to determine when these differences start to emerge in what areas they appear what factors contribute to their development by the time children enter grade school and what are the long term effects Contents Introducing the Issue of Test Score Ethnic and Racial Disparities Jeanne Brooks Gunn Sara McLanahan and Cecilia Elena Rouse Identifying Racial and Ethnic Differences in School Readiness Donald Rock and Jack Stenner Test Score Gaps The Contribution of Family and Neighborhood Characteristics Greg Duncan and Katherine Magnuson Genetic Differences and School Readiness William T Dickens Neuroscience Perspectives on Disparities in School Readiness Kim Noble B J Casey and Nim Tottenham Low Birth Weight and School Readiness Nancy Reichman The Impact of Health on School Readiness Janet Currie Parenting Jeanne Brooks Gunn and Lisa Markman Childcare and Early Education Katherine Magnuson and Jane Waldfogel
