Parents Speak Out Then And Now:

Family-Centred Assessment and Intervention in Pediatric Rehabilitation Mary Law, 2014-10-29 Family Centred Assessment and Intervention in Pediatric Rehabilitation analyzes the effectiveness of Family Centred Services FCS for children with disabilities or chronic illnesses This text provides you with the exact definition of FCS and offers proof that parent involvement in children s treatment greatly enhances therapy You can use the suggestions and methods to integrate parents into therapy maximizing the family s intervention experiences and making your work more successful and effective Many clinicians agree that families play a crucial part in deciding what intervention strategies are best for their children From this text you will learn that listening to parents and valuing parental input will give you insight into the goals needs and ambitions families have for their children This enables you to choose with the parent the interventions that best suit your patients needs and the needs of their families In addition to information on how to integrate parents and families into intervention Family Centred Assessment and Intervention in Pediatric Rehabilitation offers suggestions that will improve your existing FCS or help you implement a family centred approach including performing therapy in natural settings such as school or home to make changes in the children s social and physical environments acknowledging the grieving and adaptation process of families while being compassionate and understanding letting parents describe what they would like their child to be able to do and accomplish in the future putting the parents concerns and requests first enabling parents to deal with caring for their child supporting parents and reinforcing them when they have innovative and helpful ideas informing parents on the progress of their children and educating parents on methodologies and strategies used in FCS Many of the suggestions derived from the analysis of current data and original research in Family Centred Assessment and Intervention in Pediatric Rehabilitation have immediate clinical applicability allowing you to quickly adapt methods into your intervention processes This text also provides you with information on types of evaluative methods such as Measure of Processes of Care MPOC and Family Centred Program Rating Scale Fam PRS that will help you determine if your FCS program is working efficiently Emphasizing the goal of parent interaction in FCS services Family Centred Assessment and Intervention in Pediatric Rehabilitation offers methods that will improve your work with families and patients making services more beneficial and relevant to the child and to their families

Meeting Families Where They Are Beth Harry, Lydia Ocasio-Stoutenburg, 2020 This book presents an in depth discussion of how human disability and parental advocacy have been constructed in American society including recommendations for a more authentically inclusive vision of parental advocacy The authors provide a cultural historical view of the conflation of racism classism and ableism that have left a deeply entrenched stigma one that positions children with disabilities and children of color as less valuable than others To redress these inequities the authors offer a working model of co constructed advocacy designed to benefit all families Because advocacy is not a one size fits all endeavor the authors propose meeting families where they are and learning their strengths and needs while preparing and repositioning families to empower themselves The authors intend to challenge us and they do They engage us in a secular liberation ethic That is why this book is important Rud Turnbull distinguished professor emeritus University of Kansas Of value to educators doctors parents and parent advocates this text purposefully centers the experiences of parents of color who have children with disabilities David J Connor professor emeritus City University of New York An enlightening and stimulating read for those committed to better understanding the complexity of the plight of parents of color as they attempt to advocate for the educational needs of their child with a disability Wanda J Blanchett dean Rutgers University Graduate School of Education Families and People with Mental Retardation and Quality of Life Ann P. Turnbull,Ivan Brown,H. Rutherford Turnbull,2004 Revision of papers presented at the Eloisa de Lorenzo Symposium on Family Quality of Life held July 30 Aug 1 2000 in Seattle Wash Partnering with Parents Barry Trute,Diane Hiebert-Murphy,2013-02-07 Internationally recognized as the gold standard in providing services to children with special needs and their family members family centred practice has developed substantially over the past two decades However there has not been until now a basic practice text for guiding professional education and skill building across diverse areas Filling this significant gap Partnering with Parents is a primer on family centred practice for professionals working in children s health and developmental services The material in this textbook spans interdisciplinary training across key child service sectors particularly child development child mental health and children s health The authors identify and discuss the key principles of the model as it is practiced in Canada with a focus on working alliances empowerment methods and the development of social support resources Providing examples of the application of family centred practice in a wide range of service settings Partnering with Parents will be useful for the social workers nurses psychologists and allied health professionals who work together in complex service situations Parents Speak Out for America's Children ,1992

School-Parent Collaborations in Indigenous Communities Iris Manor-Binyamini,2013-10-31 Poverty Lack of social support Limited access to education High risk for health problems Indigenous communities face an inordinate number of hardships But when children have special needs these problems multiply exponentially making existing difficulties considerably worse School Parent Collaborations in Indigenous Communities Providing Services for Children with Disabilities begins with an in depth overview of indigenous experience and psychology and situates disabilities within the contexts of indigenous communities and education services The pilot study at the core of the book conducted among the Bedouins of southern Israel shows this knowledge in action as special education personnel engage parents in interventions for their children Going beyond facile concepts of cultural sensitivity the model recasts professionals as cultural mediators between school and family This practice oriented information has the potential to improve not only the well being of children and families but of the greater community as well Featured in the coverage Unique characteristics of indigenous communities and children with disabilities Psychological models of reactions to disability Benefits of multidisciplinary teams Factors affecting collaboration between indigenous parents of children with disabilities and school professionals Core principles of indigenously attuned collaboration An extended case study on collaboration between parents of children with disabilities and school professionals in a Bedouin community School Parent Collaborations in Indigenous Communities is a breakthrough resource for researchers graduate students and professionals working with special needs children in child and school psychology international and comparative education social work cross cultural psychology public health and educational psychology
