Allan Kaprow, Robert Smithson, and the Limits to Art Philip Ursprung, Fiona Elliott, 2013-05-10 This innovative study of two of the most important artists of the twentieth century links the art practices of Allan Kaprow and Robert Smithson in their attempts to test the limits of art both what it is and where it is Ursprung provides a sophisticated yet accessible analysis placing the two artists firmly in the art world of the 1960s as well as in the art historical discourse of the following decades Although their practices were quite different they both extended the studio and gallery into desert landscapes abandoned warehouses industrial sites train stations and other spaces Ursprung bolsters his argument with substantial archival research and sociological and economic models of expansion and limits Artbibliographies Modern, 2005 Acts of Engagement Michael Brenson, 2004-08-13 Addresses the fundamental humanity and necessity of the visual arts what they are about why artists are indispensable and why art and artists matter Critical Landscapes Emily Eliza Scott, Kirsten J Swenson, 2015-06-05 From Francis Al s and Ursula Biemann to Vivan Sundaram Allora Calzadilla and the Center for Urban Pedagogy some of the most compelling artists today are engaging with the politics of land use including the growth of the global economy climate change sustainability Occupy movements and the privatization of public space Their work pivots around a set of evolving questions In what ways is land formed over the course of geological time also contemporary and formed by the conditions of the present How might art contribute to the expansion of spatial and environmental justice Editors Emily Eliza Scott and Kirsten Swenson bring together a range of international voices and artworks to illuminate this critical mass of practices One of the first comprehensive treatments of land use in contemporary art Critical Landscapes skillfully surveys the stakes and concerns of recent land based practices outlining the art historical contexts methodological strategies and geopolitical phenomena This cross disciplinary collection is destined to be an essential reference not only within the fields of art and art history but also across those of cultural geography architecture and urban planning environmental history and landscape studies Framed Spaces Monica E. McTighe, 2012 While earlier theorists held up experience as the defining character of installation art few people have had the opportunity to walk through celebrated installation pieces from the past Instead installation art of the past is known through archival photographs that limit define and frame the experience of the viewer Monica E McTighe argues that the rise of photographic based theories of perception and experience coupled with the inherent closeness of installation art to the field of photography had a profound impact on the very nature of installation art leading to a flood of photography and film based installations With its close readings of specific works Framed Spaces will appeal to art historians and theorists across a broad spectrum of the visual arts
