Political Careers in Europe Michael Edinger, Stefan Jahr, 2016-10-20 European integration not only has changed career opportunities for politicians it has expanded them This book is dedicated to the study of political career patterns It focuses on parliamentary careers in select European countries but the U S is also included as a long standing system with multi level politics The chapters from an impressive range of scholars represent a systematic investigation into level hopping practices in Europe While discussing the logic of moves across political levels special attention is given to the impact of institutional reforms The results indicate that the traditional model of career mobility with the national level as the apex of a career is still of importance in most countries however a clear trend towards multi directional political careers is found

The Role of the Member of Parliament Since 1868 Michael Rush, 2001-09-20 This wide ranging study by one of the UK's leading scholars of British politics presents a fascinating picture of the role of the MP during the last 150 years The author examines the various roles of Members of Parliament since the middle of last century Backbench MPs have three major roles a partisan role a constituency role and a scrutiny role They increasingly expect and are expected to support their parties to help constituents with individual problems and look after their collective interests and they are expected to keep a check on the government and its policies These roles existed 150 years ago but the balance between them has changed The partisan role now dominates at Westminster the constituency role has expanded beyond all recognition and the scrutiny role is widely seen as the poor relation Moreover while constituency work has been virtually hived off as a non partisan role the conflict between the partisan and the scrutiny role creates a dilemma at the heart of parliamentary government The

From Party Politics to Personalized Politics? Gideon Rahat, Ofer Kenig, 2018-06-13 What do Beppe Grillo Silvio Berlusconi Emmanuel Macron and also Donald Trump have in common They are prime examples of the personalization of politics and the decline of political parties This volume systematically examines these two prominent developments in contemporary democratic politics and the relationship between them It presents a cross national comparative comparison that covers around 50 years in 26 democracies through the use of more than 20 indicators It offers the most comprehensive comparative cross national estimation of the variance in the levels and patterns of party change and political personalization among countries to date using existing works as well injecting fresh cross national comparative data In the case of party change it offers an analysis that extends beyond the dichotomous debate of party decline versus party adaptation In the matter of political personalization the emphasis on variance helps in bridging between the high theoretical expectations and disappointing empirical findings As for the theoretically sound linkage between the two phenomena not only is this the first study to comprise a comprehensive cross national examination but it also proposes a more nuanced understanding of this relationship

Crafting Parliament in Myanmar's Disciplined Democracy (2011-2021) Renaud Egreteau, 2022-03-01 In January 2011 parliament was restored in Myanmar after two decades of military rule Startlingly it began to repeal obsolete laws scrutinize government expenditures summon ministers to the floor and discuss the state s annual budget It also allowed its elected representatives to make public the grievances collected from constituents infuriated at enduring practices of land confiscation petty corruption and everyday abuses of power Yet ten years later in February 2021 parliament was shut down again by a coup d tat What has been learned in the span of a decade of post junta parliamentary resurgence How could an elected legislature resurface and function in a country that had only limited experience with parliamentary affairs and representative politics since its independence from British rule What lessons can be drawn from the Myanmar case for parliamentary institution building and legislative developments and decay in post authoritarian and praetorian contexts This book offers a compelling account of Myanmar's halting efforts to develop the institutional framework and practice of a parliament based democratic governance between 2011 and 2021. It charts the stages of such a legislative resurgence tracing its causes and exploring how various institutional and political legacies both informed and constrained the re-establishment and operations of the Union legislature or Pyidaungsu Hluttaw. Embracing both ethnographic observations and a methodical engagement with legislative proceedings and historical material, Renaud Egretreau investigates how parliamentary life re-emerged in Myanmar in the 2010s. His analysis concentrates on key legislative mechanisms, processes and tasks pertaining to government oversight, budgetary control, representation and lawmaking and interrogates how they were learned, re-appropriated and misperformed by Myanmar's new breed of legislators and parliamentary staff until the 2021 army takeover. On Legislatures Gerhard Loewenberg, 2015-11-17. On Legislatures looks at why people support their individual representatives but continue to criticise the legislative system at every opportunity. Although legislatures exist in every political system and are meant to represent the people, they are generally disparaged because they appear both unrepresentative and indecisive. Gerhard Loewenberg explains this puzzling contradiction by examining what representation means and what it takes for a large number of equally representative members to reach decisions. It also describes the methods for studying legislatures that have been developed in the social sciences in the last half century and shows their importance in democratic societies throughout the world. On Legislatures gets to the heart of the current disconnect between legislatures and the public they are supposed to represent.

Vandeleene, Lieven De Winter, Pierre Baudewyns, 2018-11-03. This book focuses on the triadic relationship between electoral candidates and the two other poles of the delegation and accountability triangle: political parties and voters. The chapters rely mostly on the Belgian Candidate Survey (CCS) project, gathering about 2000 candidates belonging to 15 parties represented in Parliament and running for the 2014 federal and regional elections, and the authors' conclusions serve at answering broad political science questions linked with elite recruitment, party and candidate electoral strategies, personalisation, party cohesion and descriptive and substantive representation. Its multilevel, semi-open electoral system, atypical federal structure, extreme party system fragmentation and volatility make Belgium an exceptionally rich but complex case that offers findings highly relevant to research on candidates in other democracies.
