

Loose Participation

Loose participation

Physical attraction is different thing

What does it bring?

When needed for entertainment

Or for that matter some change in movement

Mind ventures if in open field

The eyes are held

Constantly on scene

That has been rare and never seen

So any intelligent man may need some change

And he or she wills manage

Mix with people of less inferior quality

And talk of politics that has no quality

Energy will never come into clash

And flash

With another energy as an outcome

There shall be new emergence and shall stand welcome

Despite being intelligent

Or brilliant in approach

You may need someone for solace

And that shall be got from simple face

Here intelligence doesn't work

The sharpness is lost with words

So it will enter into an agreement

There shall be loose participation and attachment

Participation In The Poem:

Rethinking Classroom Participation Katherine Schultz, 2009-10-30 Katherine Schultz examines the complex role student silence can play in teaching and learning Urging teachers to listen to student silence in new ways this book offers real life examples and proven strategies for rethinking classroom participation to include all students those eager to raise their hands to speak and those who may pause or answer in different ways from publisher description Joyce's Finnegans Wake John P. Anderson, 2010 This third in a series continues this non academic author's ground breaking work by word analysis of James Joyce's Finnegans Wake Joyce's last blessing on mankind This volume covers chapters 1 5 and 1 6 with the intent to explore them as art objects to examine how they work as art By contrast with previous reduction based chapters Chapter 1 5 features expansion One becoming Many The spirit of the female principle registered in ALP's letter or mamafesta hatches the expansion This chapter honors creativity in literature along with the human female instinct for giving birth to new human potential An academically oriented Professor explores but misses the meaning of the letter Aristotle's concept of the infinite and the legend of Krishna injecting independence in Gopi milk women frame the chapter Chapter 1 6 brings back the forces of reduction Many becoming One Instead of the female hatching the new here the male spirit smothers new possibilities in favor of control Shaun hijacks questions put by Shem to others and reduces their potentially different answers to his answer The charming fable of Mookse and Grips modeled on Aesop's sour grapes explores the schism between the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches while arguing both fail to notice the potential presence of the Holy Spirit These two chapters feature two very different processes the maternal process and the excremental process the mother's womb in chapter 1 5 and the colon in chapter 1 6 The mother releases the new child and the colon the same old waste Distorted spirit in the colon inspired chapter sponsors Shaun sodomizing his sister Joyce's masterful synergism of style and content continues For example Chapter 1 6 includes a second fable about Burrus and Caseous the name suggesting butter The language used by Joyce takes on the characteristics of butter like dependent humans the words change shape and spread easily Poetry, Practical Theology and Reflective Practice Mark Pryce, 2019-03-13 This groundbreaking study offers an innovative critical analysis of poetry as a resource for reflective practice in the context of continuing professional development In the contemporary drive in all professions for greater rigour in education training and development little attention is paid to the inner shape of learning and meaning making for individuals and groups especially ways in which individuals are formed for the task of their work Building on empirical research into the author's professional practice the book takes the use of poetry in clergy continuing ministerial development as a case study to examine the value of poetry in professional learning Setting out the advantages and limitations of poetry as a stimulant for imaginative critical reflexivity and formation within professional reflective practice the study develops a practical model for group reflection around poetry distilling pedagogical approaches for working effectively with poetry in continuing professional development Drawing together a number of strands of thinking about poetry Practical Theology and reflective practice into a tightly argued study the book is an important methodological resource It makes available a range of primary and secondary sources offering researchers into professional practice a model of ethnographic research in Practical Theology which embraces innovative methods for reflexivity and theological reflection including the value of auto ethnographic poetry

The Effects of Personal Involvement in Narrative Discourse Max Louwerse,Don Kuiken,2014-05-22 Over the last several decades the study of discourse processes has moved from the complementary efforts characteristic of multidisciplinary research to the explicitly integrative focus of interdisciplinary research. Some organizations have supported the methodological and conceptual merger of areas like literary studies, psychology, linguistics, and education. As evident in this special issue, research concerning personal involvement in narrative discourse has benefited from these developments. The five studies supported in this issue examine a range of potential determinants of personal involvement in narrative discourse. These include overt verbalization of thoughts and feelings, foregrounding preference for genre, and protagonists' relevance of the content of a text to the reader and identifying with a character. These studies also examine different aspects of what is absorbed by the reader, including sophisticated forms of questioning, lasting appreciation of story points, involvement with story characters, commitment to story, consistent beliefs, and changes in the sense of self. Collectively, these studies challenge the conception of what it means to understand media presentations of fictional narratives as well as the conception of the strategies through which such understanding is attained.

Applied Health Humanities for the Aging Trini Stickle, Lorna E. Segall, 2024-12-18. This book provides a collection of interventions from researchers and clinicians' health humanities experiences and makes their methods available to home and institutional caregivers to aid interactions with the elderly, particularly persons diagnosed with dementia. As a revolutionary perspective connecting medical training and treatment with lessons from the humanities, medical humanities emphasizes the treatment and care of disease, the science of the human, and offers an integrated approach to health professional education that includes lessons from comparative religion, history, literature, philosophy, the visual and performing arts. Highlighting the needs of persons with dementia and their caregivers, this compilation shows how the arts can play a primary role in empowering families and communities to offer creative and meaningful care within their own homes and communities. Each chapter provides an overview of a specific creative application: reading and commonplacing, storytelling, intergenerational musical activities, Bingocize haiku making, and animatronic pet activities. The evidence-based support for its benefits and clear and accessible instructions for the reader. These methods offer insightful approaches to care in which skills such as active listening can provide inroads to patient experiences as well as an array of creative approaches to ameliorate the physical and mental consequences of isolation and loneliness that too often accompany aging and disease. This text will be of interest to healthcare workers and allied health professionals, healthcare administrators, and family members.
