Partition And Genocide Manifestation Of Violence In Punjab 1937-1947:

Partition and Genocide Anders Bjørn Hansen, 2002      Violence, Martyrdom and Partition Nonica Datta, 2009-02-18

This book presents the oral testimony of Subhashini 1914-2003 the woman head of a well known Arya Samaj institution devoted to women's education in rural north India. Subhashini's narrative unfolds a story within a sea of stories which has remained silent in the dominant historical discourse. Her memory evokes contrasting images of violence, martyrdom and Partition. Not 1947 but 1942 the year of her father's martyrdom is recalled as a violent rupture in her memory. Partition is a moment of celebration, revenge, divine retribution, empathy, remorse, tragedy and fear. Translating Subhashini's oral testimony, Nonica Datta recreates the memory of a colonial subject living in postcolonial times as a historical narrative. Moving beyond a historical event and well-established historical facts, Violence, Martyrdom and Partition is a parallel history of events and non-events, memory and history, testimony and experience. Breaking the silence of an oral testimony and presenting memory as history, this work opens up the historians' territory. This testimony defies the opposition between subject and agent, victim and victimizer, witness and survivor, aggressor and spectator, perpetrator and bystander. Subhashini's candid, repetitive narrative suggests a remarkable interplay of individual and collective remembrance and reveals the shifts, ambiguities, silences and contradictions in an individual memory.      Partitions and Their Afterlives Radhika Mohanram, Anindya Raychaudhuri, 2019-06-28. How can we theorise partitions differently? How are new identities, moralities, politics and life constructed post-partition? How are gender and sexuality recalibrated after partition? How can violence be theorised? What is the relationship between identity in the diaspora and identity after partition? What is the relationship between the movement of capital and national borders that is the mark of partition? Partitions and their Afterlives engages with political partitions and how their aftermath affects the contemporary life of nations and their citizens. Using a comparative perspective, the essays seek to stretch our understanding of these conflicts and to show how elements of our day-to-day lives have been shaped by them. In juxtaposing the various partitions in a single volume, the book contributes to debates on citizenship, collective memory, nation building and borders and boundaries. Such a focus also reveals how local communities as well as nations use their knowledge of the past and history. This ground-breaking, multi-disciplinary and multi-region volume will analyse the various convergences and departures between the different partitions and draw out lessons for the present. In so doing, this work will also examine methodological challenges and the imperatives for scholars working on individual countries.

Remembering Genocide Nigel Eltringham, Pam Maclean, 2014-06-27 In Remembering Genocide an international group of scholars draw on current research from a range of disciplines to explore how communities throughout the world remember genocide Whether coming to terms with atrocities committed in Namibia and Rwanda Australia Canada the Punjab Armenia Cambodia and during the Holocaust those seeking to remember genocide are confronted with numerous challenges Survivors grapple with the possibility or even the desirability of recalling painful memories Societies where genocide has been perpetrated find it difficult to engage with an uncomfortable historical legacy Still to forget genocide as this volume edited by Nigel Eltringham and Pam Maclean shows is not an option To do so reinforces the vulnerability of groups whose very existence remains in jeopardy and denies them the possibility of bringing perpetrators to justice Contributors discuss how genocide is represented in media including literature memorial books film and audiovisual testimony Debates surrounding the role museums and monuments play in constructing and transmitting memory are highlighted Finally authors engage with controversies arising from attempts to mobilise and manipulate memory in the service of reconciliation compensation and transitional justice

Refugees and the Politics of the Everyday State in Pakistan Elisabetta Iob, 2017-09-13 The Partition of India in 1947 involved the division of two provinces Bengal and the Punjab based on district wise Hindu or

Muslim majorities The Partition displaced between 10 and 12 million people along religious lines This book provides a comprehensive and in depth analysis of the resettlement and rehabilitation of Partition refugees in Pakistani Punjab between 1947 and 1962 It weaves a chronological and thematic plot into a single narrative and focuses on the Punjabi refugee middle and upper middle class Emphasising the everyday experience of the state the author challenges standard interpretations of the resettlement of Partition refugees in the region and calls for a more nuanced understanding of their rehabilitation The book argues the universality of the so called exercise in human misery and the heterogeneity of the rehabilitation policies Refugees stories and interactions with local institutions reveal the inability of the local bureaucracy to establish its own polity and the viable workability of Pakistan as a state The use of Pakistani documents US and British records and a careful survey of both the judicial records and the Urdu and English language dailies of the time provides an invaluable window onto the everyday life of a state its institutions and its citizens A carefully researched study of both the state and the everyday lives of refugees as they negotiated resettlement through both personal and official channels the book offers an important reinterpretation of the first years of Pakistani history It will be of interest to academics working in the field of refugee resettlement and South Asian History and Politics From the Ashes of 1947 Pippa Virdee, 2018-02-01 This book revisits the partition of the British Indian province of Punjab its attendant violence and as a consequence the divided and dislocated Punjabi lives Navigating nostalgia and trauma dreams and laments identity s and homeland s it explores the partition of the very idea of Punjabin It was Punjab along with Bengal that was divided to create the new nations of India and Pakistan In subsequent years religious and linguistic sub divisions followed arguably no other region of the sub continent has had its linguistic and ethnic history submerged within respective national and religious identity s None paid the price of partition like the pluralistic pre partition Punjab This work analyses the dissonance distortion and dilution witnessed by Punjab and presents a detailed narrative of its past Sharing the Sacred Anna Bigelow, 2010-02-04 The author looks at a place where the conditions for religious conflict are present but active conflict is absent focusing on a Muslim majority Punjab town Malkerkotla where both during the Partition and subsequently there has been no inter religious violence Sikh Nationalism and Identity in a Global Age Giorgio Shani, 2007-12-06 Sikh Nationalism and Identity in a Global Age examines the construction of a Sikh national identity in post colonial India and the diaspora and explores the reasons for the failure of the movement for an independent Sikh state Khalistan Based on a decade of research it is argued that the failure of the movement to bring about a sovereign Sikh state should not be interpreted as resulting from the weakness of the communal ties which bind members of the Sikh nation together but points to the transformation of national identity under conditions of globalization Globalization is perceived to have severed the link between nation and state and through the proliferation and development of Information and Communications Technologies ICTs has facilitated the articulation of a transnational diasporic Sikh identity It is argued that this diasporic identity potentially challenges the conventional narratives of international relations and makes the imagination of a post Westphalian community possible Theoretically innovative and interdisciplinary in approach it will be primarily of interest to students of South Asian studies political science and international relations as well as to many others trying to come to terms with the continued importance of religious and cultural identities in times of rapid political economic social and cultural change     Advances in Medical Imaging, Detection, and Diagnosis Raj Bawa,Gerald F.
