Systematics and Evolution of the Sthenurine Kangaroos Gavin Prideaux, 2004-05-01 This work represents an exhaustive review of one of the most important late Cenozoic radiations of Australian marsupials the short faced or sthenurine kangaroos Sthenurines originated in the Miocene diversified in the Pliocene and radiated in the Quaternary to become one of Australia's most conspicuous mammal groups the only lineage of browsing marsupials comparable in diversity to the browsing artiodactyl guilds of other continents The culmination of 12 years research the monograph details the taxonomy of the sthenurines redescribing each of the six genera two new and 26 species four new and is amply illustrated with line drawings and more than 100 pages of plates It presents the first cladistic analysis of sthenurines and by synthesizing systematic functional morphological biochronologic and zoogeographic data considers the major directions of adaptive change within the group and the major environmental factors that drove their evolution It is one of the most comprehensive studies of an extinct marsupial lineage ever made and should be an essential reference for students of Australian late Cenozoic vertebrates marsupial evolution environmental change and Pleistocene extinctions Uses of Heritage Laurajane Smith, 2006-11-22 Examining international case studies including USA Asia Australia and New Zealand Laurajane Smith identifies and explores the use of heritage throughout the world Challenging the idea that heritage value is self evident and that things must be preserved because they have an inherent importance Smith forcefully demonstrates that heritage value is not inherent in physical objects or places but rather that these objects and places are used to give tangibility to the values that underpin different communities and to assert and affirm these values A practically grounded accessible examination of heritage as a cultural practice The Uses of Heritage is global in its benefit to students and field professionals alike American and Australasian Marsupials Nilton C. Cáceres, Christopher R. Dickman, 2023-06-30 This book focuses on the evolution biogeography systematics taxonomy and ecology of New World and Australasian marsupials greatly expanding the current knowledge base There are roughly 140 species of New World marsupials of which the opossum is the best known Thanks to recent research there is now an increasing amount of understanding about their evolution biogeography systematics ecology and conservation in the Americas especially in South America There are also some 270 marsupial species in the Australasian region many of which have been subject to research only in recent years Based on this information and the authors extensive research this book provides comprehensive insights into the world's marsupials It will appeal to academics and specialized researchers students of zoology paleontology evolutionary biology ecology physiology and conservation as well as interested non experts The Wollemi Pine James Woodford,2012-01-30 In mid 1994 a National Parks Wildlife ranger abseiling in the Wollemi Wilderness outside Sydney came upon an extraordinary sight a canyon filled with massive pines What he accidentally discovered has become one of the century s most important botanical finds The ancient pines were thought to have become extinct millions of years ago Australia's Lost World Michael Archer,Suzanne Hand,Suzanne J. Hand,Henk Godthelp,2000 In Queensland in northeast Australia lies one of the most significant fossil deposits in the world Riversleigh Here the remains of many thousands of weird and wonderful prehistoric animals have been superbly preserved in the limestone outcrops There are marsupial lions carnivorous kangaroos 23 foot long pythons primitive platypuses and early ancestors of the now extinct Tasmanian tiger So important is this site to our understanding of what has happened to Australia and its living cargo over the last 25 million years that Riversleigh has been inscribed on the World Heritage List Michael Archer Suzanne J Hand and Henk Godthelp the principal scientists on a remarkable excavation since 1976 explain the vast environmental and geographic changes that have occurred in this area since Australia broke away from the supercontinent of Gondwana and how the animals on board this continental raft evolved through the ages Photographs and evocative artwork bring to life the teeming tropical world that once existed in the now arid wastes of Riversleigh and the authors discuss some of the unusual techniques used on a dig They describe how to recognize fossils how to date them and how to reconstruct extinct animals from them Originally published as Riversleigh The Story of Animals in Ancient Rainforests of Inland Australia this award winning book is being issued for the first time in the United States Faunal and Floral Migration and Evolution in SE Asia-Australasia Ian Metcalfe,Jeremy M.B. Smith,Mike Morwood,Iain Davidson,2001-06-01 This multidisciplinary book focuses on the relationships and interactions between palaeobiogeography biogeography dispersal vicariance migrations and evolution of organisms in the SE Asia Australasian region The book investigates biogeographic links between SE Asia and Australasia which go back more than 500 million years It also focuses on the links between geological evolution and biological migrations and evolution in the region It was in the SE Asian region that Alfred Russell Wallace established his biogeographic line now known as Wallace s Line which was the beginning of biogeography Wallace also independently developed his theory of evolution based on his work in this area The book brings together for the first time geologists palaeontologists zoologists botanists entomologists evolutionary biologists and archaeologists in the one volume to relate the region s geological past to its present biological peculiarities The book is organized into six sections Section 1 Paleobiogeographic Background provides overviews of the geological and tectonic evolution of SE Asia Australasia and changing patterns of land and sea for the last 540 million years Section 2 Palaeozoic and Mesozoic Geology and Biogeography discusses Palaeozoic and Mesozoic biogeography of conodonts brachiopods plants dinosaurs and radiolarians and the recognition of ancient biogeographic boundaries or Wallace Lines in the region Section 3 Wallace s Line focuses on the biogeographic boundary established by Wallace including the history of its establishment its significance to biogeography in general and its applicability in the context of modern biogeography Section 4 Plant biogeography and evolution includes discussion on primitive angiosperms the diaspora of the southern rushes and environmental climatic and evolutionary implications of plants and palynomorphs in the region The biogeography and migration of insects butterflies birds rodents and other non primate mammals is discussed in section 5 Non Primates The final section 6 Primates focuses on the biogeographic radiation migration and evolution of primates and includes papers on the occurrence and migration of early hominids and the requirements for human colonization of Australia

The Edge of Memory Patrick Nunn, 2018-08-23 How much of the folk tales of our ancestors is rooted in fact and what can they tell us about the future In today s society it is the written word that holds the authority We are more likely to trust the words found in a history textbook over the version of history retold by a friend after all human memory is unreliable and how can you be sure your friend hasn t embellished the facts But before humans were writing down their knowledge they were passing it on in the form of stories The Edge of Memory celebrates the predecessor of written information the spoken word tales from our ancestors that have been passed down transmitting knowledge from one generation to the next Among the most extensive and best analysed of these stories are from native Australian cultures These stories conveyed both practical information and recorded history describing a lost landscape often featuring tales of flooding and submergence Folk traditions such as these are increasingly supported by hard science Geologists are starting to corroborate the tales through study of climatic data sediments and land forms the evidence was there in the stories but until recently nobody was listening In this book Patrick Nunn unravels the importance of these tales exploring the science behind folk history from around the world including northwest Europe and India and what it can tell us about environmental phenomena from coastal drowning to volcanic eruptions These stories of real events were handed down the generations over thousands of years and they have broad implications for our understanding of how human societies have developed through the millennia and ultimately how we respond collectively to changes in climate our surroundings and the environment we live in Earth and Life John A. Talent,2012-06-28 This volume focuses on the broad pattern of increasing biodiversity through time and recurrent events of minor and major ecosphere reorganization Intense scrutiny is devoted to the pattern of physical including isotopic sedimentary and biotic circumstances through the time intervals during which life crises occurred These events affected terrestrial lacustrine and estuarine ecosystems locally and globally but have affected continental shelf ecosystems and even deep ocean ecosystems The pattern of these events is the backdrop against which modelling the pattern of future environmental change needs to be evaluated

Cultural Heritage and Human Rights Helaine Silverman,D. Fairchild Ruggles,2008-10-14 Is there a universal right to the free expression and preservation of cultural heritage and if so where is that right articulated and how can it be protected No corner of today s world has escaped the effects of globalization for better or worse This volume addresses a deeply political aspect of heritage preservation and management as it relates to human rights

Invasion Biology and Ecological Theory Herbert H. T. Prins,Iain J. Gordon,2014-01-23 Many conservationists argue that invasive species form one of the most important threats to ecosystems the world over often spreading quickly through their new environments and jeopardising the conservation of native species As such it is important that reliable predictions can be made regarding the effects of new species on particular habitats This book provides a critical appraisal of ecosystem theory using case studies of biological invasions in Australasia Each chapter is built around a set of eleven central hypotheses from community ecology which were mainly developed in North American or European contexts The authors examine the hypotheses in the light of evidence from their particular species testing their power in explaining the success or failure of invasion and accepting or rejecting each hypothesis as appropriate The conclusions have far reaching consequences for the utility of community ecology suggesting a rejection of its predictive powers and a positive reappraisal of natural history
