Road Safety Impact Of New Technologies

Jürgen Valldorf, Wolfgang Gessner

Road Safety Impact Of New Technologies:

Road Safety Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development. Working Group on Safety and Technology, 2003 Every day it is estimated that about 350 people are killed on the roads of OECD countries and thousands of others are injured New technologies including intelligent speed adaptation and collision avoidance systems are being developed which could significantly improve road safety levels and reduce these casualties However significant investment is also going into technological research which may have a negative impact on road safety unless action is taken to ensure their compatibility with current road systems This OECD report evaluates the global impact of new technologies on road safety and provides recommendations to governments and industry to ensure that fatalities and injuries in road traffic are reduced Road Safety by Design H. M. Jagtman, 2004 Road Safety

Performance National Peer Review: Russian Federation European Conference of Ministers of Transport, 2006-04-21 This review examines why the Russian Federation has the highest road death rate of all ECMT member countries and what can be done about it OECD Annual Report 2004 OECD, 2004-05-11 A comprehensive report on OECD activities in 2003 2004

Driver Behaviour and Training: Volume 2 Dr. Lisa Dorn, 2017-07-05 Research on driver behaviour over the past two decades has clearly demonstrated that the goals and motivations a driver brings to the driving task are important determinants for driver behaviour The importance of this work is underlined by statistics WHO figures show that road accidents are predicted to be the number three cause of death and injury by 2020 currently more than 20 million deaths and injuries p a The objective of this second edition and of the conference on which it is based is to describe and discuss recent advances in the study of driving behaviour and driver training It bridges the gap between practitioners in road safety and theoreticians investigating driving behaviour from a number of different perspectives and related disciplines A major focus is to consider how driver training needs to be adapted to take into account driver characteristics goals and motivations in order to raise awareness of how these may contribute to unsafe driving behaviour and to go on to promote the development of driver training courses that considers all the skills that are essential for road safety As well as setting out new approaches to driver training methodology based on many years of empirical research on driver behaviour the contributing road safety researchers and professionals consider the impact of human factors in the design of driver training as well as the traditional skills based approach Readership includes road safety researchers from a variety of different academic backgrounds senior practitioners in the field of driver training from regulatory authorities and professional driver training organizations such as the police service and private and public sector personnel who are concerned with improving road safety Road Policing and Technology Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee, 2006-10-31 In 2005 traffic collisions killed 3 201 people with almost 29 000 seriously injured on British roads Although the level of road crash fatalities and injuries has fallen over successive decades and Britain has one of the safest road environments in the world the numbers still remain far too high and many of these casualties might have been avoided if there was a higher level of compliance with traffic law. The Committee's report examines the road casualty problem focusing on the role of roads policing and the contribution which enforcement can make to casualty reduction. It considers how technology is influencing the policing and enforcement of particular offences relating to speeding, drink and drug driving, driving whilst using a mobile phone and driving while impaired by fatigue. The report finds that despite progress made by the Department for Transport against its 2010 casualty reduction targets, the Home Office has continued to deny traffic law enforcement issues the priority it requires and must explicitly adopt the targets as a key part of its future national policing plans. Investment and research into new technological equipment such as roadside breath testing equipment and time distance cameras and a higher profile and more visible traffic enforcement effort would bring important casualty reductions. However, the efficiencies which technology can bring should not be seen as an opportunity to cut the number of roads police officers as technology alone cannot carry out the multitude of functions undertaken by roads police officers.

Cars of the Future, Seventeenth Report of Session Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Transport Committee, 2004. The Committee's report examines a range of safety and environmental issues regarding technological developments in the design of motor vehicles under the following headings: industrial advantage and vehicle technology; the environment and the car of the future; carbon emissions and European standards; future fuels and technologies; incentives for low carbon and alternative fuel cars; vehicle safety technology; telematics for intelligent transport systems and law enforcement including satellite location technology; and in-vehicle technology for crime prevention; consumer awareness; safety and environmental information; and the car maintenance sector.

Research and the Future of Telematics Jerzy Mikulski, 2020-10-13. This book constitutes selected papers from the 20th International Conference on Transport Systems Telematics TST 2020 held in Kraków, Poland, in October 2020. The 34 full papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 97 submissions. They were organized in topical sections named: telematics in road transport; general view; telematics in road transport details in applications; telematics in rail and marine transport; general about telematics.

Smart Solutions in Today's Transport Jerzy Mikulski, 2017-09-08. This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed proceedings of the 17th International Conference on Transport Systems Telematics TST 2017 held in Katowice, Ustronie, Poland, in April 2017. The 40 full papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 128 submissions. They present and organize the knowledge from within the field of intelligent transportation systems, the specific solutions applied in it, and their influence on improving efficiency of transport systems.

Speed Management European Conference of Ministers of Transport, 2006-10-13. Speeding is the number one road safety problem in a large number of OECD/ECMT countries. It is responsible for around one third of the current unacceptably high levels of road fatalities. Speeding has an impact not only on accidents but also on the Driver Acceptance of New Technology Tim Horberry, Michael A. Regan, Alan Stevens, 2018-09-03 Acceptance of new technology and systems by drivers is an important area of concern to governments automotive manufacturers and equipment suppliers especially technology that has significant potential to enhance safety To be acceptable new technology must be useful and satisfying to use If not drivers will not want to have it in which case it will never achieve the intended safety benefit Even if they have the technology drivers may not use it if it is deemed unacceptable or may not use it in the manner intended by the designer At worst they may seek to disable it This book brings into a single edited volume the accumulating body of thinking and research on driver and operator acceptance of new technology Bringing together contributions from international experts from around the world the editors have shaped a book that covers the theory behind acceptance how it can be measured and how it can be improved Case studies are presented that provide data on driver acceptance of a wide range of new and emerging vehicle technology Although driver acceptance is the central focus of this book acceptance of new technology by operators in other domains and across cultures is also investigated Similarly perspectives are derived from domains such as human computer interaction where user acceptance has long been regarded as a key driver of product success This book comes at a critical time in the history of the modern motor vehicle as the number of new technologies entering the modern vehicle cockpit rapidly escalates The goal of this book is to inspire further research and development of new vehicle technology to optimise user acceptance of it and in doing so to maximise its potential to be useful satisfying to use and able to save human life

Intelligent Vehicles Felipe Jiménez, 2017-09-08 Intelligent Road Vehicles examines specific aspects of intelligent vehicles such as enabling technologies human factors and an analysis of social and economic impacts The book is an invaluable resource for those pursuing deeper knowledge in the intelligent vehicles field providing readers with an idea of current and future technologies current projects and developments and the future of intelligent vehicles Intelligent road vehicles are becoming a challenging area of research worldwide Apart from the final applications and systems in vehicles there are many enabling technologies that should be introduced Communications and automation are two key areas for future automobiles This book benefits from collaboration on the Thematic Network on Intelligent Vehicles led by Felipe Jimenez Provides a general overview of different aspects related to intelligent road vehicles sensors applications communications automation human factors etc Addresses the different components and building blocks of intelligent vehicles in a single comprehensive reference Explains how sensors are interpreted including how different sensor readings are fused Addresses issues involved with avoiding collisions and other factors such as pot holes unclear road lines or markings and unexpected weather conditions
