The Search for Sybaris, 1960-1965 Froelich Gladstone Rainey, Carlo Maurilio Lerici, 1967 Search for Sybaris Orville H. Bullitt, 1969 Side-by-Side Survey Susan Alcock, John Cherry, 2016-10-02 Twenty years ago John Cherry looked forward to the day when archaeological survey projects working around the Mediterranean region the Frogs round the pond would begin to compare and synthesize the information they had collected He anticipated researchers tackling big questions of interregional scope in new and interesting ways working at a geographical scale considerably larger than that of the individual survey Was his optimism misplaced Despite the extraordinary growth of interest in field survey projects and regional analysis and despite the developments in survey methodology that have been discussed and implemented in the past two decades few scholars have attempted to use survey data in a comparative mode and to answer the broad scale questions confronting social historians In this volume which is the outcome of an advanced Workshop held at the University of Michigan in 2002 a number of prominent archaeologists return to the question of comparability They discuss the potential benefits of working in a comparative format with evidence from many different Mediterranean survey projects and consider the practical problems that present roadblocks to achieving that objective From mapping and manuring to human settlement and demography environment and culture each addresses different questions often with quite different approaches together they offer a range of perspectives on how to put surveys side by side Contributors include Susan E Alcock John Cherry Jack L Davis Peter Attema Martijn van Leusen James C Wright Robin Osborne David Mattingly T J Wilkinson and Richard E Blanton Remote Sensing Thomas R. Lyons, 1980 Geophysical Abstracts, 1969 Reflections of a Digger Froelich Gladstone Rainey, 1992 For some 30 years the University of Pennsylvania Museum flourished under the directorship of Froelich Rainey who revived it after WW II and made it a preeminent institution devoted to excavation and innovative technology applied to archaeology In this personal memoir Dr Rainey recounts the highlights of his archaeological career spanning more than 50 years of active field research in all parts of the world the West Indies the Arctic the Near and Middle East Europe the New World and the Far East The Archaeology of Cape Nome, Alaska John Bockstoce, 1979-01-29 Review of past and present knowledge and detailed account of excavations and archaeological findings Archaeological Method and Theory Linda Ellis, 2003-12-16 This Encyclopedia brings together the most recent scientific information on a collection of subjects that are too often and inconveniently treated in separate publications It provides a survey of archaeological method and theory as well as the application of physical and biological sciences in archaeological research Every aspect of archaeological work is represented from the discovery process to the ultimate disposition of materials Thus the reader will find entries on subject matter covering disciplinary theory legislation affecting the work of archaeologists pre excavation surveying excavation methodology on site conservation techniques post excavation analysis The rapid evolution of analytical technology is often superficially treated or not covered at all in textbooks or other commonly available sources Here the latest refinements in techniques such as radiometric dating stable isotopic analysis and the PCR technique of DNA analysis are presented clearly and authoritatively The discussion of these techniques is amplified by including results of the work of professionals conducting interdisciplinary research and by covering the methodological enhancements provided by the physical and natural sciences Cultural property legislation regardless of its country of origin has affected how archaeologists conduct their work This encyclopedia covers all major U S legislation developed for the protection of cultural property including the recent Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act and offers a substantial article on worldwide legislation concerning the reburial of human remains and its effects on the present and future practice of archaeology Without some sort of conservation program at the point of excavation valuable materials may be inadvertently contaminated or destroyed Many simple and low cost techniques to promote both sample integrity and long term preservation for major classes of materials are described in this volume Traditional treatments of method and theory usually focus on prehistoric periods and are limited in their geographic range This volume includes discussions based on various historical periods on different continents as reflected in entries such as Historical Archaeology Industrial Archaeology Medieval Archaeology and Classical Archaeology

Dealing with biases Hendrik Feiken, 2014-09-18 This book explores the bias that is introduced by erosion and sedimentation on the distribution of archaeological materials in Mediterranean landscapes It describes innovative and interdisciplinary work that led to the formulation of a broad range of geo archaeological approaches that are applied to two Italian areas studied intensively by the Groningen Institute of Archaeology the Pontine Region in South Lazio and the Raganello Basin in North Calabria The approaches deal with geological biases affecting the study of protohistoric remains in the sedimentary part of the Pontine plain the development of a detailed landscape classification approach to predict and test site location preferences and survey biases in the uplands of both study areas and the development and evaluation of an innovative computerised landscape evolution model for a test area in the Raganello Basin uplands In addition to the presented case study this book also shows how the three geo archaeological approaches can be applied in a wider context to quantitatively understand how erosion and sedimentation bias our understanding of archaeological records

Best Practices of GeoInformatic Technologies for the Mapping of Archaeolandscapes Apostolos Sarris, 2015-11-30 Twenty five papers from the Institute for Mediterranean Studies in Crete provide a best practice guide for the use of geophysical geoarchaeological geochemical and surveying techniques to study ancient landscapes

From Athens to Gordion Keith DeVries, 1980-01-29 The nine papers in this volume presented by former colleagues and students of the late Rodney S Young are representative of Young's archaeological interests Athens where he received his archaeological training and Gordion where he achieved his greatest successes This book will prove valuable to students and scholars interested in the interconnections between Greece and Anatolia from the Bronze Age through classical times University Museum Papers 1

Mediterranean Urbanization 800-600 BC Robin Osborne, Barry Cunliffe, British Academy, 2005-10-27 Urban life as we know it in the Mediterranean began in the early Iron Age settlements of great size and internal diversity appear in the archaeological record This collection of essays offers for the first time a systematic discussion of the beginnings of urbanization across the Mediterranean from Cyprus through Greece and Italy to France and Spain Leading scholars in the field look critically at what is meant by urbanization and analyse the social processes that lead to the development of social complexity and the growth of towns The introduction to the volume focuses on the history of the archaeology of urbanization and argues that proper understanding of the phenomenon demands loose and flexible criteria for what is termed a town The following eight chapters examine the development of individual settlements and patterns of urban settlement in Cyprus Greece Etruria Latium southern Italy Sardinia southern France and Spain These chapters not only provide a general review of current knowledge of urban settlements of this period but also raise significant issues of urbanization and the economy urbanization and political organization and of the degree of regionalism and diversity to be found within individual towns The three analytical chapters which conclude this collection look more broadly at the town as a cultural phenomenon that has to be related to wider cultural trends as an economic phenomenon that has to be related to changes in the Mediterranean economy and as a dynamic phenomenon not merely a point on the map Wide ranging in its geographical coverage this volume will be essential reading for scholars and students of archaeology settlement studies the archaic period and geographers interested in the history of urban forms

Regional Pathways to Complexity P. A. J. Attema, G.-J. L. M.

Burgers, Martijn van Leusen, 2010 Deze bundel is een mijlpaal in het onderzoek naar de Oude Middellandse Zee Met behulp van een vergelijkende aanpak zijn drie verschillende regionale landschappen van Italië uitvoerig onderzocht door archeologen Om een zeer gedetailleerd beeld te krijgen van de ontwikkeling van menselijke activiteiten van de late Bronstijd tot de opkomst van het Romeinse Rijk is er minutieus onderzoek gedaan naar nederzettingen heiligdommen en begraafplaatsen De milieugeschiedenis van deze gebieden en de geschiedenis van het door mensen gebruikte land zijn parallel geanalyseerd door gespecialiseerde projecten Wat ontstaat is een ongeëvenaarde reeks van inzichten in hoe regionale samenlevingen zich intern ontwikkelen en reageren op externe interventies zoals het kolonialisme imperialisme en internationale handel

The Cemetery at Tell Es-Sa'idiyeh, Jordan James B. Pritchard, 1980-01-29 A portion of the Tell es Sa'idiyeh mound was used for burials during the Bronze Age A summary of the pottery types is followed by a description of the contents of each of the 45 tombs University Museum Monograph 41

Side-by-side Survey Susan E. Alcock, John F. Cherry, 2004 Twenty years ago John Cherry looked forward to the day when archaeological survey projects working around the Mediterranean region the Frogs round the pond would begin to compare and synthesize the information they had collected He anticipated researchers tackling big questions of inter regional scope in new and interesting ways working at a geographical scale considerably larger than that of the individual survey Was his optimism misplaced Despite the extraordinary growth of interest in field survey projects and regional analysis and despite the developments in survey methodology that have been discussed and implemented in the past two decades few scholars have attempted to use survey data in a comparative mode and to answer the broad scale questions confronting social historians In this volume which is the outcome of an advanced Workshop held at the University of Michigan in 2002 a number of prominent archaeologists return to the question of comparability They discuss the potential benefits of working in a comparative format with evidence from many different Mediterranean survey projects and consider the practical problems that present roadblocks to achieving that objective From mapping and manuring to human settlement and demography environment and culture each addresses different questions often with quite different approaches together they offer a range of perspectives on how to put surveys side by side Contributors include Susan E Alcock John Cherry Jack L Davis Peter Attema Martijn van Leusen James C Wright Robin Osborne David Mattingly T J Wilkinson and Richard E Blanton

Quiriguá Reports, Volume I Wendy

Ashmore, 1979-01-29 Although Quiriguá and its magnificent carved monuments have been recorded and studied by scholars over the past century little archaeological data were available until recently From 1973 through 1979 the University Museum sponsored investigations at this major lowland Maya site in eastern Guatemala The aims of the work were to document a basic chronology to determine the nature and pattern of structures and to test hypotheses concerning the origins location and demise of Quiriguá University Museum Monograph 37
