Search For And Discovery Of Self:

Shakespeare's Patterns of Self-knowledge Rolf Soellner, 1972 The Renaissance evinced a strong interest in self knowledge and the theme is a persistent one in the moral and dramatic literature of the age The ancients slogan nosce teipsum became a universal watchword of men schooled in the paramount importance of coming to know themselves Shakespeare's abiding interest in the concept of self knowledge shows itself in the dramatic patterns of his plays in images ideas themes and character portrayals The recurrence of such motifs as the search for the self and the dangers and rewards of finding oneself as well as the prominence of such ideal or nearly ideal characters as Henry V Duke Vincentio and Prospero testify to the powerful influence humanistic notions of self knowledge exerted on Shakespeare as a writer and thinker But his was a changing and developing art in a restless and dynamic age Professor Soellner suggests that as much as Shakespeare's artistic development which also affects his patterns of self knowledge is part of his natural growth into a mature and incomparable dramatist it is yet analogous to the stylistic and philosophic changes that led from the Renaissance through Mannerism toward the Baroque Mr Soellner examines twelve plays in which self knowledge as the Renaissance understood it figures prominently Mindful that concepts of self knowledge are not independent of cultural contexts and that the definitions in the moral literature of the time were notoriously imprecise and unscientific he recognizes that the meaning of the term in Shakespeare's time must be acquired as Shakespeare acquired it that is contextually Mr Soellner distinguishes three points in Shakespeare's evolution an early stage that culminates in the later histories and the romantic comedies in which the dramatist reflected sometimes almost schematically the humanistic patterns of his time a middle or interim phase that begins with Julius Caesar and includes both Hamlet and the problem comedies and in which Shakespeare experiences certain hesitations and entertains some doubts about the patterns accepted uncritically earlier and the final period of the great tragedies and tragicomic romances in which a growing awareness of the unpredictability of human nature leads to a dynamic synthesis in which what is the quintessence of humanism is fused with a full realization of the weakness of codification and a profound sympathy for the human condition In the last of his great plays the tempests Mr Soellner finds Shakespeare composed a brilliant finale in which are worked many of the patterns that he used in his earlier work The dream of The Tempest that man can control himself limit his power and even resign it voluntarily is totally humanistic and may be utopia But it is one of the happiest expectations of man and represents an irresistible affirmation of his potential greatness Rolf Soellner

Cederbom,2021-04-21 e The subject looking in the mirror is ego Opposite ego is the self whose thinking has a different rhythm and order The initial mirror encounter ego observes passively and the encounter offers an opening for ego to use its cognitive understanding to make decisions and act Ego observing the image in the mirror illustrates the expression that the ego looks into the depth of the soul Ego looks at the true self which resides in the soul in the head or in the person s personality The mirror encounter invites the passive observing ego to become active and look deeply inside e This book presents a year s long study where the researcher artist engages herself within the activity of self portrait drawing facing the products and employing them both as research instruments and theme The research takes interests in this unique activity in its significance in an individual's or an artist's life and in psychological philosophical and artistic implications associated with and deriving therefrom. The research integrates the artistic activity which is perceived as a research in itself combined with a scientific research method bearing the spirit of a well-grounded theory. This book introduced the unique research method which is described as an art-based research, further shedding a new broad light on the common phenomenon known as self-portrait drawing. Silent Messages For Soul Searching, The Infinite Artist Frederick Franklin Shannon, 1921

Self Culture, 1896 The Truth Seeker, Boston, 1898 Clinical Practice for People with Schizophrenia Kam-Shing Yip, 2007 Many clinicians know that one should embrace a humanistic, empathic and holistic view on persons with schizophrenia. Nevertheless, some may think such an orientation is not effective in clinical practice. Some may not possess enough training, confidence and practice competence in acknowledging clients' needs, feelings and subjective experiences behind pathological symptoms. They may feel insecure in facing clients' confused hallucinations and delusions. They may be over-involved in a neuro-cognitive perspective or simply apply one type of therapy modality to clients with different needs, background and cultural contexts. Based on the writer's years of clinical experience as well as supervising professional workers in rehabilitating persons with schizophrenia, he attempts to share his humanistic and empathic practice with the readers. The layout of this book coincides with different dimensions of a holistic person. It starts with a strengths perspective on a holistic person. Then it is followed by the emphases of subjective experiences, meaningfulness of life, self-consciousness, humanistic coping and cultural aspects in clinical practice with persons with schizophrenia. The second chapter of this book is a narration about the therapeutic power of the strengths perspective in helping a female Chinese person with schizophrenia. The writer helped her and her parents to recognise and know how to regain the normal and humane side behind symptomatic delusion and hallucinations. In Chapter three, the writer demonstrates the importance of understanding personal subjective experience in establishing a good rapport and building up empathic communication with a man with schizophrenia. Chapter four is a full description of how persons with schizophrenia make meaningfulness of life and spirituality in their process of recovery. Chapter five describes the importance of respect of clients' self-consciousness in the process of clinical treatment and rehabilitation. In Chapter six, the writer affirms the need of interpersonal relationship and intimacy crises for persons with schizophrenia. Chapter seven is a narration how persons with schizophrenia struggled hard in the process of recovery. Chapter eight is a critique of institutionalised clinical practice. The writer described how an institutionalised young man with schizophrenia was humanised to regain his trust and confidence in living a normal life. The writer critically evaluated that professional interventions if being done in an inappropriate orientation can be a burden rather than a help for persons with schizophrenia in the process of recovery. Chapter nine is a critique of de-culturalisation in diagnosis, assessment, treatment and rehabilitation of persons with schizophrenia. The writer asserts the importance of cultural articulation in clinical practice for persons with schizophrenia. Chapter ten is the concluding remarks of the humanistic and empathic articulation in this
