Bosch,2010-11-01 Using patronage as a filter Bosch relates the style content and function of these lavish manuscripts to the many sided ritual life of the Cathedral and beyond that to its social and political role in efforts to forge Spanish identity in the midst of the Reconquista This book will appeal to art historians Hispanists and all those interested in Renaissance history and culture BOOK JACKET Ice secret MARIN Ludovic,2021-01-16 Yann Prigent a former soldier meets the strange Doctor Kidji who is hunting down a mysterious secret in North America The two accompanied by several adventurers united in the extraordinary league set out in search of an ancient city Crystal lost in the depths of the arctic desert of the Far North in Quebec The city attracts all the more covetousness as the diamonds which abound its basement are reputed to have unusual powers However many dangers await these men on their journey The secret society that runs Crystal isn't ready to share the ice secret How will Prigent and Kidji overcome this challenge Will they come back from their expedition With this novel we find all the magic and the exoticism of the Arctic a territory both superb and disturbing which serves as the backdrop to a story mixing adventure fantasy science fiction and romance Ludovic MARIN is a researcher an investor and an entrepreneur

Immanent Frames John Caruana, Mark Cauchi, 2018-05-31 Explores a growing number of films and filmmakers that challenge the strict boundaries between belief and unbelief For some time now thinkers across the humanities and social sciences have increasingly called into question the once dominant view of the relationship between modernity and secularism prompting some to speak of a postsecular turn Until now film studies has largely been silent about this development even though cinema itself has been a major vehicle for such reflection This fact became inescapable in 2011 when Terrence Malick's The Tree of Life and Lars von Trier's Melancholia were released within days of each other While these two audacious and controversial films present seemingly opposite perspectives the former a thoughtful meditation on faith the latter a portrayal of nontriumphalist atheism together they raise critical questions about transcendence and immanence in modern life These films are however only the most conspicuous of a growing body of works that call forth similar and related questions what this collection aptly calls postsecular cinema Taking the nearly simultaneous release of The Tree of Life and Melancholia as its starting point and framing device this pioneering collection sets out to establish the idea of postsecular cinema as a distinct body of films and a viable critical category Adopting a film philosophy approach one group of essays examines Malick's and von Trier's films while another looks at works by Chantal Akerman Denys Arcand the Dardenne brothers and John Michael McDonagh among others The volume closes with two important interviews with Luc Dardenne and Jean Luc Nancy that invite us to reflect more deeply on some of the central concerns of postsecular cinema

LOST in Media Benjamin Beil, Lorenz Engell, Jens Schröter, Herbert Schwaab, Daniela Wentz, 2018-02-21 The television series LOST initiated a wide ranging academic debate which centered on its narrative and temporal complexity while also addressing the massive expansion into other media and consequently crossing established genre categories This expansion poses the essential question about the status of the original medium television within recent multiple media configurations Can LOST be regarded as a symptom of television in the process of media change What is the relation between LOST's temporality and that of television in general And how can LOST be understood as a phenomenon of mediatized worlds The contributions in this book examine these questions The book's editors are members of the project TV Series as Reflection and Projection of Change which is part of the DFG Priority Program 1505 Mediatized Worlds Series Medien welten Braunschweiger Schriften zur Medienkultur Vol 19
