

"Let me tell you
of the place your mother came from,
of Atlantis, the city of King Poseidon, after whom she was also named. And, much like your mother, her city
was a thing of beauty,
but also a place that bore sacrifice in its deeds and was shaped by them."

"I tell you this story
now, for the world is so big, underneath the stars, and on land, but cold to the stranger or the mad."

"No Atlantis, once
there were magics."

"The city was made by it, shaped by it.
Great wizards and warlocks and witches and warriors devised into it magical depths, and fashioned reality from mere thought."

Magic, Science, and Empire in Postcolonial Literature

Kathleen Renk, 2012-03-29 This book examines the ways in which contemporary British and British postcolonial writers in the after empire era draw connections between magic defined here as Renaissance Hermetic philosophy and science Writers such as Tom Stoppard Zadie Smith and Margaret Atwood critique both imperial science or science used in service to empire and what Renk calls imperical science a distortion of rational science which denies that reality is holistic and claims that nature can and should be conquered In warning of the dangers of imperical science these writers restore the connection between magic and science as they examine major shifts in scientific thinking across the centuries They reflect on the Copernican Revolution and the historic split between magic and science scrutinize Darwinism consider the relationship between Victorian science and pseudo science analyze twentieth century Uncertainty theories reject bio genetic engineering call for a new approach to science that reconnects science and art and ultimately endeavor to bring an end to the imperial age Overall these writers forge a new discourse that merges science with the arts and emphasizes a holistic philosophy a view shared by both Hermetic philosophy and recent scientific theories such as chaos or complexity theory Along with recent books that focus on the relationship between contemporary literature and science this work focuses on contemporary British literature s critique of science and the ways in which postcolonial literature addresses the relationship between magic science and empire
