Beating the Devil Out of Them Valerie Bentz,2017-07-28 Based on his studies of over 9 000 families Murray A Straus the foremost researcher on family violence in the world discusses the extent to which parents in the United States use corporal punishment such as spanking and slapping and its effects on their chil dren The question of whether corporal punishment is an effective method of discipline is hotly debated Straus contends that this believed to be minor form of physical violence is precursor to much violence that plagues our world Children who are spanked quickly learn that love and violence can go hand in hand Since spanking is generally done by loving caring parents for the child s own good a child can learn that hitting is morally right Straus describes what he has learned through two decades of research children who are spanked are from two to six times more likely to be physically aggressive to become juvenile delinquents and later as adults to use physical violence against their spouses to have sadomasochistic tendencies and to suffer from depression Straus alerts parents to these risks and argues that spanking adversely affects not only the children who are subjected to it but society as a whole This groundbreaking book now available in paperback with a substantive new introduction and new concluding chapter is essential reading for parents as well as teachers lawyers and judges Professionals in fields such as social work child protection delin quency and criminology psychology and politics will find it of critical importance John

The Manipulative Child Ernest W. Swihart, Jr., 1998-03-02 Why do so many of our kids raised in the most affluent nation on earth fail to thrive and strive and enter adulthood lacking appropriate and effective coping skills Drs Swihart and Cotter have come up with a revolutionary theory on why our kids are having such a tough time of it today It is because we allow our children to manipulate us and the world around them rather than teaching them how to respond to life and life s tough situations The result is that manipulative behavior is directly tied to low self esteem which only heightens its negative impact on kids families and the larger communities we live in The good news is that Drs Swihart and Cotter have created a radical and clinically proven program for breaking manipulative behavior and getting our kids back on track The program teaches parents to say no without feeling guilt to resist the urge to feel responsible for their child s happiness to view their children as emotionally competent and resilient and most importantly to realize that effective parenting means allowing your child to make mistakes and develop a sense of competence which leads to enhanced self esteem and an ability to live independently and successfully in the real world Drawing on their twenty five years in private practice the authors illustrate their program with examples of successful kids as well as case studies of how parents have regained control and effectively blocked their children s manipulative behavior The positive results will enlighten and even astound you and give you the tools needed to become a better parent
