Harris,J. Mark Eddy,2018-10-16 This book highlights the myriad factors that can impact the children of incarcerated parents It is no secret that the United States continues to be the leading nation for the incarceration of men and women and this this large prison population includes approximately 120 000 incarcerated mothers and 1 1 million incarcerated fathers Incarceration of a parent is recognized as an adverse childhood experience an acute or chronic situation that for most people is stressful and potentially traumatic Children of incarcerated parents may experience other adverse childhood experiences such as poverty homelessness parental substance abuse and other mental health problems and family violence The chapters in this book document some of the challenges as well as some promising ways that can help parents and families begin to meet these challenges It is our hope that the compendium of chapters presented in this book will be a resource for practitioners policy makers educators researchers and advocates in their work to ensure that the children of incarcerated parents their caregivers and their mothers and fathers are provided the support they need to address the challenges they face during and after parental incarceration This book was originally published as a special issue of Smith College Studies in Social Work Defending and Parenting Children Who Learn Differently Scott Teel,2007-05-30 Teel incorporates the fascinating story of Nancy Edison s love for her son Thomas who had been labeled unteachable then presents us with the wider array of and issues for children who learn differently We all know Thomas Edison was a genius of seemingly limitless imagination Yet few know he was a failure in elementary school Teel shows us how Edison s mother Nancy guided the boy deemed a dunce by officials even assumed mentally retarded by his father to become one of the greatest inventors of all time Edison s progressive and imaginative teaching methods hold lessons even today for all children who learn differently from conventional methods as well as for the parents and teachers who care about them Teel also explains how parents can negotiate the educational maze created by the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act IDEA and the No Child Left Behind Act NCLB An Individualized Education Program is explained in detail and options such as enlisting the assistance of a professional advocate are also discussed The latest research about current medication therapies and the origins plus potential benefits of ADHD are reviewed A leading professional advocate explains what every parent needs to know about the public school system Other topics addressed include the effectiveness of

It Takes a Child to Raise a Parent Janis Clark Johnston, 2013-04-04 While advice abounds from a variety of sources before parents embark on their parenting journeys the only parent preparation we actually receive comes from our family and peer stories Yet most adults do not realize that in day to day challenges of guiding our children something interesting happens As we steer our children through life we reopen our own childhood roads Just when our child most needs us we become needy ourselves as adults and parents we find that we have unresolved raising issues basic needs that were not met in our childhoods Our needs and memories echo and influence many of the parenting decisions we make even though we're unaware of those influences at times Fortunately children help parents reach their needs as much as their parents help them fulfill their own Our child ends up guiding us by connecting us to some earlier time in our life when we encountered distress We dredge up a lesson and we adapt by adhering to or changing the story that we tell ourselves about who we are

We re negotiate the five basic needs that surface from our childhood memories as our youngsters pass through each of the developmental phases The self aware parent focuses on creative problem solving by focusing on one interaction at a time It Takes a Child to Raise a Parent offers an exploration of how our own childhood memories and needs influence and shape our parenting decisions in our adult lives Offering tips stories from a variety of families and step by step exercises Janis Johnston helps parents better understand and grasp the tools necessary to face parenting challenges head on and to explore new ways of understanding ourselves our children and our family interactions Expectant parents and current parents interested in understanding their own personality development as well as the many moods of childhood and their own children will find clear guidelines for understanding their roles in their children s lives as well as concrete suggestions for how to navigate the choppy waters of raising children

Adult Supervision Required Markella B. Rutherford, 2011-08-03 Adult Supervision Required considers the contradictory ways in which contemporary American culture has imagined individual autonomy for parents and children In many ways today's parents and children have more freedom than ever before There is widespread respect for children's autonomy as distinct individuals and a broad range of parenting styles are flourishing Yet it may also be fair to say that there is an unprecedented fear of children's and parents' freedom Dread about Amber Alerts and stranger danger have put an end to the unsupervised outdoor play enjoyed by earlier generations of suburban kids Similarly fear of bad parenting has not only given rise to a cottage industry of advice books for anxious parents but has also granted state agencies greater power to police the family Using popular parenting advice literature as a springboard for a broader sociological analysis of the American family Markella B Rutherford explores how our increasingly psychological conception of the family might be jeopardizing our appreciation for parents and children's public lives and civil liberties
