Parental Experience In Midlife:

The Parental Experience in Midlife Carol D. Ryff, Marsha Mailick Seltzer, 1996 Most adults experience parenthood But the longest period of the parental experience when children grow into adolescence and young adulthood and parents themselves are not yet elderly is the least understood In this groundbreaking volume distinguished scholars from anthropology demography economics psychology social work and sociology explore the uncharted years of midlife parenthood The authors employ a rich array of theory and methods to address how the parental experience affects the health well being and development of individuals Collectively they look at the time when parents watch offspring grow into adulthood and begin to establish adult to adult relationships with their children With a strong emphasis on the diversity of midlife parenting including sociodemographic variations and specific parent or child characteristics such as single parenting or raising a child with a disability this volume presents for the first time the complex factors that influence the quality of the midlife parenting experience

Paths to Successful Development Lea Pulkkinen, Avshalom Caspi, 2002-04-04 The influence of the lifespan approach has been an important feature of recent research in developmental psychology as has a growing interest in the relationship between personality and development This important new book edited by two distinguished psychologists explores the relationship between personality and development from a life course perspective

The book presents current theoretical approaches and new empirical findings from ongoing studies conducted by leading researchers in North America and Europe. It is unique in focussing on successful personality development where developmental psychology in the past seems to have focussed almost entirely on problem behaviour and risk of maladaptation. The book has a multidisciplinary appeal and will be of interest to students and researchers in the fields of developmental psychology, adult development and aging, and personality and social psychology.
