Parenting Behaviour and Children's Cognitive Development Sara Meadows, 2013-10-23 The association between parents behaviour and children's cognitive development is at the meeting place of several prominent theories of psychological development and a range of complex methodological and conceptual issues On the one hand there are theories which argue that the impetus of development is within the child and is largely unaffected by his or her experience of social interaction on the other are the commonsense experience of parents and educators and the body of neo Vygotskian theory which would see the child's development as profoundly affected by social interaction or even constituted by it The purpose of this book is to examine theories and evidence carefully in order to assess the causal links between parent behaviour and children's cognitive development There is a considerable amount of evidence that suggests an association between parents behaviour and their children's cognitive development but there are many possible explanations for this association including direct effects of parental teaching styles on the children's learning and motivation differential social class practices and opportunities genetic resemblances and methodological artifacts A close and critical look at a wide range of research and of theory is necessary if the causal questions are to be clarified This book develops the current arguments about the nature and causes of cognitive development providing a critical discussion of the available research and relating it to psychological theory It is suitable for advanced students of psychology and education

Rubin,Ock Boon Chung,2013-09-05 The purpose of this book is to present a rather simple argument Parents thoughts about childrearing and the ways in which they interact with children to achieve particular parenting or developmental goals are culturally determined Within any culture children are shaped by the physical and social settings within which they live culturally regulated customs and childrearing practices and culturally based belief systems The psychological meaning attributed to any given social behavior is in large part a function of the ecological niche within which it is produced Clearly it is the case that there are some cultural universals All parents want their children to be healthy and to feel secure However healthy and unhealthy at least in the psychological sense of the term can have different meanings from culture to culture Handbook of Parenting: Being and becoming a parent Marc H.
