Promising Practices for Family Involvement in Schools Diana Hiatt-Michael, 2001-11-01 This volume will address major frameworks for understanding family involvement and government support of family involvement projects in the initial chapters. The following six chapters present a theoretical base for understanding school family and community partnerships and research supporting promising practices. Included within each chapter are examples of research in action focusing on specific interactive activities or programs designed to bring families and schools together. Such promising practices are organized into chapters dealing with two way home school communication, family literacy projects, school site parent centers, parent school collaborative governance, and family school education programs spanning infancy through young adulthood. The monograph concludes with a chapter on teacher preparation for work with family school and community partnership issues. Besides their research expertise, each author brings a unique background as classroom teacher, parent, and community social advocate to their writing. Individually, most of us have spent our early professional years within the classroom, acquiring the value of connecting home with school for the benefit of the children. As parents and grandparents, we have advocated for parental interests within the school. As community advocates, we strive for collaborative communication across groups who serve children and their families. We invite you to share our passion for working with families and community groups within our schools.

Organizing for Educational Justice Michael Fabricant, 2010 Since the 1980s, strategies for improving public education in America have focused on either competition through voucher programs and charter schools or standardization as enacted into federal law through No Child Left Behind. These reforms, however, have failed to narrow the performance gap between poor urban students and other children. In response, parents have begun to organize local campaigns to strengthen the public schools in their communities. One of the most original, successful, and influential of these parent-led campaigns has been the Community Collaborative to Improve District 9 (CC9), a consortium of six neighborhood-based groups in the Bronx. In Organizing for Educational Justice, Michael B. Fabricant tells the story of CC9 from its origins in 1995 as a small group of concerned parents to the citywide application of its reform agenda, concentrating on targeted investment in the development of teacher capacity. Ten years later, drawing on in-depth interviews with participants, analysis of qualitative data, and access to meetings and archives, Fabricant evaluates CC9's innovative approach to organizing and collaboration with other stakeholders, including the United Federation of Teachers, the NYC Department of Education, neighborhood nonprofits, and city colleges and universities. Situating this case within a wider exploration of parent participation in educational reform, Fabricant explains why CC9 succeeded and other parent-led movements did not. He also examines the ways in which the movement effectively empowered parents by rigorously ensuring a democratic process in making decisions and more broadly, an inclusive organizational culture. As urban parents across America search for ways to hold public schools accountable for their failures this book shows how the success of the CC9 experience can be replicated elsewhere around the country

Critical Readings on Latinos and Education Enrique G Murillo Jr, 2019-01-14 This critical anthology showcases an interdisciplinary forum of scholars sharing a common interest in the analysis discussion critique and dissemination of educational issues impacting Latinos Drawing on the best of the past 20 years of the Journal of Latinos and Education the collection highlights work that has been seminal in addressing complex educational issues affecting and influencing the growing Latina and Latino population Chapters discuss the production and application of wisdom and knowledge to real world problems while engaging and collaborating with the interests of key stakeholders in other sectors outside the traditional academy Organized thematically around issues related to policy research practice and creative and literary works the collection is sure to extend and encourage novel ways of thinking about the ongoing and emerging questions around the unifying thread of Latinos and education

The Activist's Handbook Randy Shaw, 2001-03-01 The Activist's Handbook is a hard hitting guide to making social change happen Shaw a longtime activist for urban issues shows how positive change can still be accomplished despite an increasingly grim political order if activists employ the strategies set forth in this desperately needed primer In a new preface Shaw describes how the power of grassroots activism has won newfound respect Mass protests against globalization and in favor of stricter gun controls have led once invulnerable targets like the World Bank and the National Rifle Association to take citizen action more seriously Inspiring fear and loathing in politicians building diverse coalitions and harnessing the media the courts and the electoral process to one's cause are only some of the key tactics Shaw advocates and explains Central to all social change activism Shaw shows is being proactive rather than simply reacting to right wing proposals activists must develop an agenda and focus their resources on achieving it The Activist's Handbook details the impact of specific strategies on campaigns across the country battles over homelessness the environment AIDS policies neighborhood preservation and school reform among others Though activist groups can have widely different aims similar tactics are shown to produce success Further the book offers a sophisticated analysis of the American power structure by someone on the front lines In showing how people can and must make a difference at both local and national levels this is an indispensable guide not only for activists but for everyone interested in the future of progressive politics in America

Community Action for School Reform Howell S. Baum, 2012-02-01 Community Action for School Reform tells the story of a partnership between Baltimore community activists and a university as they created an organization to improve neighborhood schools The book examines the challenges they faced such as persuading community members that they had the necessary knowledge to do something about the schools starting and sustaining an organization conducting and using research engaging the school system and funding their work

The Praeger Handbook of Urban Education Philip M. Anderson, Kecia Hayes, Joe Kincheloe, Karel Rose, 2006-03-30 Maintaining that urban teaching and learning is characterized by many contradictions this work proposes that there is a wide range of social cultural psychological and pedagogical knowledge urban educators must possess in order to engage in effective and transformative practice It is necessary for those teaching in urban schools to be scholar practitioners rather than bureaucrats who can only follow rather than analyze understand and create Ten major sections cover the myriad issues of urban education as it exists today Schools and Society: A Sociological Approach to Education Jeanne H. Ballantine, Joan Z. Spade, 2014-02-21 Undergraduate students of the sociology of education education and society and education studies Fresh start for New Orleans' children : improving education after Katrina : hearing , Including Families and Communities in Urban Education Catherine Hands, Lea Hubbard, 2011-04-01 The work of school family and community partnerships is complex and messy and demands a thoughtful and deep investigation Currently parent and community involvement does not draw on school reform and educational change literature and conversely the school change literature often ignores the crucial role that communities play in educational reform This edited volume focuses on structural considerations regarding education and the school communities school level and family culture and the interrelationships between the agency and actions of school personnel family members community citizens and students This book extends the dialogue on school reform by looking at parent and community engagement initiatives as part of the school reform literature The contributors illustrate the negative impact on students and their education when assumptions made by school personnel regarding the organization of education the nature of families and the contributions they should make to their children s education are not challenged Congressional Record United States. Congress, 2001 Handbook of Education Policy Research Janelle Scott, 2025-07-17 The second edition of the Handbook of Education Policy Research the largest volume published in AERA s history addresses a variety of policy and contextual issues in early childhood K 12 and postsecondary education that have received extensive empirical attention during the past 15 years With the pandemic and social turmoil as a backdrop the editors build on the breadth and depth of the first edition while expanding the scope of the project to include subjects methods theories and analyses that have contributed powerfully to the study of education policy and politics in the 2010s and 2020s The field has become more comprehensive and inclusive and the authors represent a diversity of racial ethnic and gender identities and intellectual and disciplinary orientations Most chapters come from multiple authors reflecting the multi sourced development of research in education policy since the first volume was published This compilation consists of 70 chapters and nine commentaries that map past present and future directions of the field and richly attend to critical issues of interest to students researchers policy makers and practitioners The SAGE Encyclopedia of Contemporary Early Childhood Education Donna Couchenour, J. Kent Chrisman, 2016-08-16 The general public often views early childhood education as either simply babysitting or as preparation for later learning Of course both viewpoints are simplistic Deep understanding of child development best educational practices based on development emergent curriculum cultural competence and applications of family systems are necessary for high quality early education Highly effective early childhood education is rare in that it requires collaboration and transitions among a variety of systems for children from birth through eight years of age The SAGE Encyclopedia of Contemporary Early Childhood Education presents in three comprehensive volumes advanced research accurate practical applications of research historical foundations and key facts from the field of contemporary early childhood education Through approximately 425 entries this work includes all areas of child development physical cognitive language social emotional aesthetic as well as comprehensive review of best educational practices with young children effective preparation for early childhood professionals and policy making practices and addresses such questions as How is the field of early childhood education defined What are the roots of this field of study How is the history of early childhood education similar to yet different from the study of public education What are the major influences on understandings of best practices in early childhood education

Statistics of Land-grant Colleges and Universities United States. Office of Education, 1918      Organizing Locally Bruce Fuller, 2015-04-14 We love the local From the cherries we buy to the grocer who sells them to the school where our child unpacks them for lunch we express resurgent faith in decentralizing the institutions and businesses that arrange our daily lives But the fact is that huge bureaucratic organizations often still shape the character of our jobs schools the groceries where we shop and even the hospitals we entrust with our lives So how exactly can we work small when everything around us is so big so global and standardized In Organizing Locally Bruce Fuller shows us taking stock of America's rekindled commitment to localism across an illuminating range of sectors unearthing the crucial values and practices of decentralized firms that work Fuller first untangles the economic and cultural currents that have eroded the efficacy of and our trust in large institutions over the past half century From there we meet intrepid leaders who have been doing things differently Traveling from a charter school in San Francisco to a veterans service network in Iowa from a Pennsylvania health care firm to the Manhattan branch of a Swedish bank he explores how creative managers have turned local staff loose to craft inventive practices untethered from central rules and plain vanilla routines By holding their successes and failures up to the same analytical light he vividly reveals the key cornerstones of social organization on which motivating and effective decentralization depends Ultimately he brings order and evidence to the often strident debates about who has the power and on what scale to structure how we work and live locally Written for managers policy makers and reform activists Organizing Locally details the profound decentering of work and life inside firms unfolding across postindustrial societies Its fresh theoretical framework explains resurging faith in decentralized organizations and the ingredients that deliver vibrant meaning and efficacy for residents inside Ultimately it is a synthesizing study a courageous and radical new way of conceiving of American vitality creativity and ambition      School, Family, and Community Partnerships, Student Economy Edition Joyce Epstein, 2018-10-03 This book encourages more professors of education sociology psychology and related fields to prepare the next generation of education professionals to understand and implement programs and practices of family and community involvement to increase student success in school      Parents' Participation in School Improvement Processes
