Rural protest groups and populist political parties Dirk Strijker, Gerrit Voerman, Ida Terluin, 2023-08-07 Some agricultural or rural protest groups in the Western world evolved into political parties often of a populist nature whereas others did not This book is the first to explore under which conditions this happens and to what extent current populist parties have agricultural or rural ties and related agendas Well known authors with a background in rural studies or in political sciences describe and analyse the situation in a number of Western countries the United Kingdom France Poland Austria the Netherlands Australia Finland The contributions in this book show that the accessibility and responsiveness of the political system and the institutionalized agrarian interest groups as well as the existing political landscape are influencing the decisions of rural protest groups to found a political party However nowadays the chances of these parties being successful are small due to the declining share of the agricultural sector within European societies Although there will always be grounds for agrarian protest it seems safe to say that the heyday of agrarian populism is over

Surprisingly most of the analyses that study these developments give little attention to the role of political parties in the decline of democracy although there is a broad consensus about the relevance of political parties for the functioning of democracy. How parties can contribute to democracy is best understood by looking at a very diverse range of cases in different parts of the world. Instead of taking a regional approach which dominates the literature on political parties this volume takes a global perspective. It brings together experts from four continents which opens up fresh comparative perspectives on the role of political parties in the democratic process. Political Parties and the Crisis of Democracy asks how parties contribute to the consolidation of democracy why they fail today why new parties emerge and displace old parties and also what parties need to do in order to survive cutthroat competition above all with a new and sometimes not so new variants of populist parties. It takes a unique global focus covering old and new democracies in different regions of the world. It covers Western and Central Europe Asia Pacific Latin America and Africa Turkey and Israel including presidential semi presidential and parliamentary democracies and also some countries where democracy is seriously threatened or eroding. This volume offers unique comparative perspectives combined with a detailed analysis of individual countries and their party systems. It shows that parties are central actors for the consolidation of democracy but that organisational reforms are necessary to cope with social change such as individualisation the decline in party membership and the impact of new media and modern communication thus counteracting the fragmentation of party systems and the decay of democracy.
