The New Jim Crow Michelle Alexander, 2020-01-07 One of the New York Times's Best Books of the 21st Century Named one of the most important nonfiction books of the 21st century by Entertainment Weekly Slate Chronicle of Higher Education Literary Hub Book Riot and Zora A tenth anniversary edition of the iconic bestseller one of the most influential books of the past 20 years according to the Chronicle of Higher Education with a new preface by the author It is in no small part thanks to Alexander's account that civil rights organizations such as Black Lives Matter have focused so much of their energy on the criminal justice system Adam Shatz London Review of Books Seldom does a book have the impact of Michelle Alexander's The New Jim Crow Since it was first published in 2010 it has been cited in judicial decisions and has been adopted in campus wide and community wide reads it helped inspire the creation of the Marshall Project and the new 100 million Art for Justice Fund it has been the winner of numerous prizes including the prestigious NAACP Image Award and it has spent nearly 250 weeks on the New York Times bestseller list Most important of all it has spawned a whole generation of criminal justice reform activists and organizations motivated by Michelle Alexander's unforgettable argument that we have not ended racial caste in America we have merely redesigned it As the Birmingham News proclaimed it is undoubtedly the most important book published in this century about the U S Now ten years after it was first published The New Press is proud to issue a tenth anniversary edition with a new preface by Michelle Alexander that discusses the impact the book has had and the state of the criminal justice reform movement today

My Spiritual Markers Timothy Jones, 2022-02-09 While leading my squad on patrol I instinctively turned around to signal to my men that the enemy is in the area and to pass it up to our platoon leader As I turned around I hear a faint metallic click at my foot then the explosion Instantly I am traveling through the air my steel pot head gear is traveling in one direction my rucksack previously strapped to my body is traveling in another direction I can see the visions of my life moving slowly before my eyes in what seemed like an eternity I feel suspended in time There is no sound around me My body is stunned and I am going in and out of consciousness While in this suspended state of life and death I remember praying God please don't let me die if you let me live I will devote my life to saving humanity God saved my life in Vietnam Before Vietnam I lived a purposeless life caring only about fun booze and women But why did he save me What cause God to turn me around at the moment of the explosion What was he saving me for Looking back I now accept my land mine explosion encounter in Vietnam as one of many times of major transitions in my life when God interceded to guide me a spiritual marker that would lay the groundwork for all that would follow

Poor Discipline Jonathan Simon, 1993 Reveals how modern strategies of punishment and their failure relate to political and economic transformations in society at large The author uses the practice of parole in California as a window to the changing historical understanding of what a corrections system does and how it works

Color behind Bars Scott W. Bowman, 2014-08-11 A diverse critical analysis of racial and ethnic disparities within the American criminal justice system that encourages critical thinking by providing various sides to the issues Low income African Americans Latin Americans and American Indians bear the statistical brunt of policing death penalty verdicts and sentencing disparities in the United States Why does this long standing inequity exist in a country where schoolchildren are taught to expect justice for all The original essays in this two volume set not only examine the deep rooted issues and lay out theories as to why racism remains a problem in our prison system but they also provide potential solutions to the problem The work gives a broad multicultural overview of the history of overrepresentation of ethnic minorities in our prison system examining white black disparities as well as racism and issues of ethnic based discrimination concerning other ethnic minorities This up to date resource is ideally suited for undergraduate students who are enrolled in criminal justice or racial ethnic studies classes and general readers interested in the U S criminal justice system

But They All Come Back Jeremy Travis, 2005-04-12 The iron law of imprisonment is that they all come back In 2002 more than 630 000 individuals left U S federal and state prisons Thirty years ago only 150 000 did In this study Travis describes the new realities of imprisonment and explores the impact of returning prisoners on seven policy domains public safety families and children work housing public health civic identity and community capacity Travis proposes a new architecture for the criminal justice system organized around five principles of reentry to encourage change and spur innovation

Prisons and Health in the Age of Mass Incarceration Jason Schnittker, Michael Massoglia, Christopher Uggen, 2022 Prisons and Health in the Age of Mass Incarceration explores how incarceration undermines the health of people currently and formerly in prison The book uses years of empirical research to show the intricate web of pathways through which mass incarceration also weakens the health and well being of families communities and health care systems It explores the social and legal forces that have made these connections possible as well as the implications of the incarceration health relationship for understanding and reforming about the justice system

Against Prediction Bernard E. Harcourt, 2008-09-15 From random security checks at airports to the use of risk assessment in sentencing actuarial methods are being used more than ever to determine whom law enforcement officials target and punish And with the exception of racial profiling on our highways and streets most people favor these methods because they believe they re a more cost effective way to fight crime In Against Prediction Bernard E Harcourt challenges this growing reliance on actuarial methods These prediction tools he demonstrates may in fact increase the overall amount of crime in society depending on the relative responsiveness of the profiled populations to heightened security They may also aggravate the difficulties that minorities already have obtaining work education and a better quality of life thus perpetuating the pattern of criminal behavior Ultimately Harcourt shows how the perceived success of actuarial methods has begun to distort our very conception of just punishment and to obscure alternate visions of social order In place of the actuarial he proposes instead a turn to randomization in punishment and policing The presumption Harcourt concludes should be against prediction
