Participation of the Poor in Development Initiatives Carolyn Long, 2001 Water Governance: Retheorizing Politics Nicole J. Wilson, Joanne Nelson, Sameer H. Shah, Leila M. Harris, 2019-10-11 This republished Special Issue highlights recent and emergent concepts and approaches to water governance that re centers the political in relation to water related decision making use and management To do so at once is to focus on diverse ontologies meanings and values of water and related contestations regarding its use or its importance for livelihoods identity or place making Building on insights from science and technology studies feminist and postcolonial approaches we engage broadly with the ways that water related decision making is often depoliticized and evacuated of political content or meaning and to what effect Key themes that emerged from the contributions include the politics of water infrastructure and insecurity participatory politics and multi scalar governance dynamics politics related to emergent technologies of water bottled or packaged water and water desalination and Indigenous water governance Resilient Urban Regeneration in Informal Settlements in the Tropics Oscar Carracedo García-Villalba, 2020-09-15 This book focuses on the implementation of slum upgrading projects and the last generation of citywide programmes that define the future urban configuration of informal settlements from a citywide perspective in the Earth s tropical region The book presents a study on regeneration experiences in Asia and Latin America and it identifies important points of connection and similarities between the two cases while also determining that compared to Asia informality in Latin America is in its second generation The Politics of Development in Morocco Sylvia I. Bergh, 2017-01-30 Since the mid 1990s Morocco has sought to present itself as a model of genuine and gradual reform with decentralisation as a key tenet of this Here Sylvia Bergh investigates the dynamics of popular participation and local governance testing the extent to which the current structure builds local capacity or whether it is in fact a tool for soft state control She narrates the realities of local administration and civil society to shed critical light on questions of democratic transition in North Africa Her assessment of decentralisation and participatory development projects in rural Morocco and the legal and policy frameworks in which they operate leads to the conclusion that they have generally not yet led to an expansion of a civil society able to build local capacity or enhance bottom up empowerment Grounded in an approach of the anthropology of policy this book makes an important contribution to literature on the democratisation development and governance in North Africa Public Sector Reform in Developing and Transitional Countries Christopher Rees, Farhad Hossain, 2013-09-13 Over recent decades decentralization has emerged as a key Public Sector

Reform strategy in a wide variety of international contexts Yet despite its emergence as a ubiquitous activity that cuts across disciplinary lines in international development decentralization is understood and applied in many different ways by parties acting from contrary perspectives This book offers a fascinating insight into theory and practice surrounding decentralization activities in the Public Sectors of developing and transitional countries In drawing on the expertise of established scholars the book explores the contexts achievements progress and challenges of decentralization and local governance Notably the contributions contained in this book are genuinely international in nature the chapters explore aspects of decentralization and local governance in contexts as diverse as Ghana Hong Kong India Indonesia Kazakhstan Morocco Tanzania Uganda and Viet Nam In summary by examining the subject of decentralization with reference to specific developing and transitional Public Sector contexts in which it has been practiced this book offers an excellent contribution towards a better understanding of the theory and practice of decentralization and local governance in international settings This book was published as a special double issue of the International Journal of Public Administration

Politics, Power and Community Development Rosie Meade, Mae Shaw, Sarah Banks, 2016-01-13 Presenting unique and critical reflections on international policy and practice this book addresses the global dominance of neoliberalism It examines the extent to which community development practitioners activists and programmes can challenge critique engage with or resist its influence

Poverty Reduction Strategy in Bangladesh Palash Kamruzzaman, 2014-01-20 This book aimed at postgraduate level students analyzes government relationships with international financial institutions to evaluate the role of citizen participation in formulating national poverty reduction policies Palash Kamruzzaman first explores the rhetoric of participation in development policies and goes on to examine how such citizen participation efforts were outlined in the Poverty Reduction Strategy Paper of Bangladesh where local development brokers play an important economic role Ultimately he argues that participatory policies are not enough we need an entire overhaul of poverty reduction thinking and enough political will from citizens and politicians alike to implement it

Feminist Economics and the World Bank Edith Kuiper, Drucilla Barker, 2006-05-02 The past decade has witnessed a paradigm shift at the World Bank from a focus on structural adjustment to a focus on poverty reduction As evidenced by the Bank's 2001 report Engendering Development Through Rights Resource and Voice an increased attention to gender issues has been an important part of this process This book brings together a range of responses from feminist economists and other social researchers on the issues raised in this report With contributions from highly esteemed scholars such as Eudine Barriteau Diane Elson Gale Summerfield and Zafiris Tzannatos this anthology critically examines the relationships between gender growth development and the World Bank by developing a history of the World Bank's perspectives on gender empirically evaluating the impacts of the Bank's policies on three different regions of the world exploring the ideological and methodological commitments of the report from a variety of feminist and interdisciplinary social science perspectives enquiring into future directions for feminist economics research

Highlighting the importance and challenge of taking gender into account in development theory and policy this book's complex and nuanced analyses of the social relations of gender in a global context make it an important resource for policymakers activists and scholars alike

Rethinking Development Geographies Marcus Power,2004-08-02

Development as a concept is notoriously imprecise vague and presumptuous Struggles over the meaning of this fiercely contested term have had profound implications on the destinies of people and places across the globe Rethinking Development Geographies offers a stimulating and critical introduction to the study of geography and development In doing so it sets out to explore the spatiality of development thinking and practices The book highlights the geopolitical nature of development and its origins in Empire and the Cold War It also reflects critically on the historical engagement of geographers with the Tropics the Third World and the South The dominant economic and political philosophies that shape the policies and perspectives of major institutions are discussed The interconnections between globalization and development are highlighted through an examination of local national and transnational resistance to various forms of development The text provides an accessible introduction to the complex and confusing world of contemporary global development Informative diagrams cartoons and case studies are used throughout While exploring global geographies of economic and political change Rethinking Development Geographies is also grounded in a concern with people and places the view from below the views of women and the view from the South

Good Governance and Development Brian Smith,2007-08-20

An exploration of the implications of the good governance agendas for developing and newly democratized countries The book assesses the good governance agenda and examines the view of the international development agencies Finally it considers the contribution political science can make to an understanding of each dimension of governance

Water Governance in Bolivia Nasya Sara Razavi,2022-04-28 This book examines water remunicipalization in Cochabamba since the Water War offering innovative methodological and theoretical conceptualizations of what it means to be public helping to move debates on water services beyond the paralyzing binary of public versus private with a focus on the contested terrain of community engagement around water services The Cochabamba Water War of 2000 brought together city residents of all stripes to mobilize against water privatization and gain back public control of the city's water utility This event catapulted anti privatization movements around the world but two decades later the water movement's vision of democratic water provision remains largely unfulfilled and the city suffers from a protracted water crisis Building a typology of participation this book explores the difficulty in rebuilding a strong public water service in Cochabamba by analyzing the different and often incompatible understandings and interpretations of social control and public participation Applying this framework to the Bolivian context and more specifically to the water and sanitation sector in Cochabamba the book uncovers whose interests are served and which groups are included or excluded from decision making and access to water This exercise illustrates how in their implementation participatory practices are not linear and can be distorted or appropriated towards different ends This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of water governance natural resource management public policy social movements and Latin American studies Reintegration of Ex-Combatants After Conflict W.

Kilroy,2015-04-28 Reintegration programmes for ex combatants are supposed to support the wider peace process This study based on detailed fieldwork looks at the way they were carried out in Sierra Leone and Liberia and assesses the degree to which they were conducted in a participatory way Victim Organisations and the Politics of Reparation Heidy

Rombouts,2004 Reparation for victims of gross and systematic human rights violations is a contemporary issue gaining increased attention in both national and international politics Post conflict societies have to face the legacies of the dark past and dealing with a large group of victims is one of them Transitional justice mechanisms trying to cope with the past should not overlook the issue of reparation This research demonstrates how reparation for victims of gross and systematic human rights violations differs from reparation for isolated violations The Rwandan case study unveils the role of victim organisations in and the competition and politicisation of the reparation debate Although reparation for victims is a crucial element in transitional justice it becomes clear that the way in which the reparation debate unfolds does not necessarily contribute to the peaceful future of a post conflict society This study argues that remedying the process and debate of the search for reparation will lead to an improved and more constructive reparation policy Heidy Rombouts is a legal and social scientist 1997 Master of Laws 1999 Master in Social and Political Sciences Catholic University of Leuven In 2004 she obtained a PhD degree in Social and Political Sciences at the University of Antwerp for her research on victim organisations and the politics of reparation For several years she has been conducting research on transitional justice human rights and post conflict situations including extensive field research in South Africa and Rwanda Indigenous People and Economic Development Katia Iankova,Azizul Hassan,Rachel L'Abbe,2016-03-22 Indigenous peoples are an intrinsic part of countries like Australia New Zealand Canada Finland USA India Russia and almost all parts of South America and Africa A considerable amount of research has been done during the twentieth century mainly by anthropologists sociologists and linguists in order to describe and document their traditional life style for the protection and safeguarding of their established knowledge skills languages and beliefs These communities are engaging and adapting rapidly to the changing circumstances partly caused by post modernisation and the process of globalization These have led them to aspire to better living standards as well as preserving their uniqueness approaches to environment close proximity to social structures and communities For at least the last two decades patterns of increased economic activity by indigenous peoples in many countries have been viewed to be significantly on the rise Indigenous People and Economic Development reveals some of the characteristics of this economic activity coloured by the unique regard and philosophy of life that indigenous people around the world have The successes difficulties and obstacles to economic development their solutions and innovative practices in business all of these elements based on research findings are discussed in this book and offer an inside view of the dynamics of the indigenous
