Hinde, 1976-10-07 First published in 1976 this volume is a collection of essays by some of the most prominent and active ethologists It is organized into four sections motivation and perception function and evolution development and human social relationships The first three sections reflect the four questions which are basic to ethology what were the immediate causes of a behaviour pattern what is its biological function how did it evolve and how did it develop in the individual The last section involves questions of all four types The sections are introduced and linked by editorials and the book concludes with an important statement on asking the right questions The essays are forward looking and identify areas of importance for the study of behaviour The volume is a source of formative ideas for students their teachers and research workers in a wide variety of disciplines in the biological psychological and social sciences Wildlife Abstracts U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1954 Wildlife Review, 1970 Searching Image in Carrion Crows Beat Tschanz, Hans Hinrich Sambraus, Harvey Croze, O. Curio, 2012-12-06 Predation is an ecological factor of almost universal importance for the biologist who aims at an understanding of the habits and structures of animals Despite its pervasive nature opinions differ as to what predation really is So far it has been defined only in negative terms it is thought not to be parasitism the other great process by which one organism harms another nor filter feeding carrion eating or browsing Accordingly one could define predation as a process by which an animal spends some effort to locate a live prey and in addition spends another effort to mutilate or kill it According to this usage of the word a nudibranch for example that feeds on hydroids would be a predator inasmuch as it needs some time to locate colonies of its prey which after being located scarcely demand more than eating which differs little from browsing From the definition just proposed consumption of the prey following its capture has been intentionally omitted Indeed an animal may be disposed of without being eaten Hence the biological significance of predation may be more than to maintain nutritional homeostasis In fact predation may have something in common with the more direct forms of competition a facet that will be only cursorily touched upon in this book
