To meet the food demands of the exponentially increasing population, a massive food production is necessary. Agricultural production on land and aquatic systems poses negative impacts on the earth's ecosystems. Combined effects of climate change, land degradation, cropland losses, water scarcity, and species infestations are major causes for loss of agricultural yields up to 25%. Therefore, the world needs a paradigm shift in agriculture development for sustainable food production and security through green revolution and eco-friendly approaches. Hence, agriculture practices must be sustained.

Preventing Photorespiration's Damaging Effects To Sports Turf Jeff Haag, 2019-02-06 RuBP oxygenase carboxylase rubisco a key enzyme in photosynthesis is the molecular equivalent of a good friend with a bad habit In the process of carbon fixation rubisco incorporates carbon dioxide text CO_2 into an organic molecule during the first stage of the Calvin cycle Rubisco is so important to plants that it makes up 30 % or more of the soluble protein in a typical plant leaf 11 But rubisco also has a major flaw instead of always using text CO_2 as a substrate it sometimes picks up text O_2 instead This side reaction initiates a pathway called photorespiration which rather than fixing carbon actually leads to the loss of already fixed carbon as text CO_2 Photorespiration wastes energy and decreases sugar synthesis so when rubisco initiates this pathway it s committing a serious molecular faux pas Journal of Agriculture and Horticulture , 1918
