features such as pressurized cabins an electronic fire control system and remote controlled machine gun turrets Though it was designed as a high altitude daytime bomber in practice it actually flew more low altitude nighttime incendiary bombing missions It was the primary aircraft in the American firebombing campaign against Japan in the final months of World War Two Unlike many other World War Two era bombers the B 29 remained in service long after the war ended with a few even being employed as flying television transmitters The type was finally retired in the early 1960s with 3 960 aircraft in all built Without doubt there is a clear strong requirement to put the record straight using primary source documentation to record the undoubted achievements alongside and in context with the shortcomings to the type s design and operation that have otherwise received scant attention The book covers all variants and is profusely illustrated     First Strike! Robert C.
