Machine Translation:

Statistical Machine Translation Philipp Koehn, 2009-12-17 The dream of automatic language translation is now closer thanks to recent advances in the techniques that underpin statistical machine translation This class tested textbook from an active researcher in the field provides a clear and careful introduction to the latest methods and explains how to build machine translation systems for any two languages It introduces the subject's building blocks from linguistics and probability then covers the major models for machine translation word based phrase based and tree based as well as machine translation evaluation language modeling discriminative training and advanced methods to integrate linguistic annotation The book also reports the latest research presents the major outstanding challenges and enables novices as well as experienced researchers to make novel contributions to this exciting area Ideal for students at undergraduate and graduate level or for anyone interested in the latest developments in machine translation

Machine Translation Bozena Henisz-Dostert, R. R. Macdonald, Michael Zarechnak, 2011-06-01 TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by building bridges to neighbouring fields such as neuroscience and cognitive science TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing

Machine Translation of Languages William Nash Locke, Andrew Donald Booth, 1955 Machine Translation and Global Research Lynne Bowker, Jairo Buitrago Ciro, 2019-05-01 Lynne Bowker and Jairo Buitrago Ciro introduce the concept of machine translation literacy a new kind of literacy for scholars and librarians in the digital age This book is a must read for researchers and information professionals eager to maximize the global reach and impact of any form of scholarly work

Neural Machine Translation Philipp Koehn, 2020-06-18 Deep learning is revolutionizing how machine translation systems are built today This book introduces the challenge of machine translation and evaluation including historical linguistic and applied context then develops the core deep learning methods used for natural language applications Code examples in Python give readers a hands on blueprint for understanding and implementing their own machine translation systems The book also provides extensive coverage of machine learning tricks issues involved in handling various forms of data model enhancements and current challenges and methods for analysis and visualization Summaries of the current research in the field make this a state of the art textbook for undergraduate and graduate classes as well as an essential reference for researchers and developers interested in other applications of neural methods in the broader field of human language processing

Machine Translation: From Real Users to Research Robert E. Frederking, Kathryn B. Taylor, 2004-09-21 The previous conference in this series AMTA 2002 took up the theme From Research to Real Users and sought to explore why recent research on data driven machine translation didn't seem to be moving to the marketplace As it turned out the first commercial products of the data driven research movement were just over the horizon and in the intervening two years they have begun to appear in the marketplace At the same time rule based machine translation systems are introducing data driven techniques into the mix in their products Machine translation as a software application has a 50 year history There are an increasing number of exciting deployments of MT many of which will be exhibited and discussed at the conference But the scale of commercial use has never approached the estimates of the latent demand In light of this we reversed the question from AMTA 2002 to look at the next step in the path to commercial success for MT We took user needs as our theme and explored how or whether market requirements are feeding into research programs The transition of research discoveries to practical use involves technical questions that are not as sexy as those that have driven the research community and research funding Important product issues such as system customizability computing resource requirements and usability and fitness for particular tasks need to engage the creative energies of all parts of our community especially research as we move machine translation from a niche application to a more pervasive language conversion process These topics were addressed at the conference through the papers contained in these proceedings and even more specifically through several invited presentations and panels

Post-editing of Machine Translation Laura Winther Balling, Michael Carl, Sharon O'Brian, 2014-03-17 Post editing is possibly the oldest form of human machine cooperation for translation It has been a common practice for just about as long as operational machine translation systems have existed Recently however there has been a surge of interest in post editing among the wider user community partly due to the increasing quality of machine translation output but also to the availability of free reliable software for both machine translation and post editing As a result the practices and processes of the translation industry are changing in fundamental ways This volume is a compilation of work by researchers developers and practitioners of post editing presented at two recent events on post editing The first Workshop on Post editing Technology and Practice held in conjunction with the 10th Conference of the Association for Machine Translation in the Americas held in San Diego in 2012 and the International Workshop on Expertise in Translation and Post editing Research and Application held at the Copenhagen Business School in 2012

Machine translation for everyone: Empowering users in the age of artificial intelligence Dorothy Kenny , 2022-07-06 Language learning and translation have always been complementary pillars of multilingualism in the European Union Both have been affected by the increasing availability of machine translation MT language learners now make use of free online MT to help them both understand and produce texts in a second language but there are fears that uninformed use of the technology could undermine effective language learning At the same time MT is promoted as a technology that will change the face of professional translation but the technical opacity of contemporary approaches and the legal and ethical issues they raise can make the participation of human translators in contemporary MT workflows particularly complicated Against this background this book attempts to promote teaching and learning about MT among a broad range of readers including language learners language teachers trainee translators translation teachers and professional translators It presents a rationale for learning about MT and provides both a basic introduction to contemporary machine learning based MT and a more advanced discussion of neural MT It explores the ethical issues that increased use of MT raises and provides advice on its application in language learning It also shows how users can make the most of MT through pre editing post editing and customization of the technology

Repairing Texts Hans P. Krings, 2001 This study challenges the idea that given the effectiveness of machine translation major costs could be reduced by using monolingual staff to post edit translations It presents studies of machine translation systems and current research into translation process

Introduction to Google Translate Gilad James, PhD, Google Translate is a multilingual translation service provided by Google It allows users to translate words phrases and entire documents between multiple languages The service was launched in April 2006 and has since been constantly updated to provide more accurate translations Initially offering translations in only two languages Google Translate now supports over 100 languages The translation process works by analyzing the text or document input by the user breaking it up into smaller segments and then using statistical algorithms to match these segments with translations from its database Google Translate has been a helpful tool for people to communicate across different languages whether it be for business or personal use However it must be noted that automated translations often carry a high risk of inaccuracies due to the complexities inherent in language and the nuances of different cultures and contexts It is always recommended to use translations as a starting point and then have a native speaker review and refine the language to ensure accuracy

The Human Factor in Machine Translation Sin-wai Chan, 2018-05-08 Machine translation has become increasingly popular especially with the introduction of neural machine translation in major online translation systems However despite the rapid advances in machine translation the role of a human translator remains crucial As illustrated by the chapters in this book man machine interaction is essential in machine translation localisation terminology management and crowdsourcing translation In fact the importance of a human translator before during and after machine processing cannot be overemphasised as human intervention is the best way to ensure the translation quality of machine translation This volume explores the role of a human translator in machine translation from various perspectives affording a comprehensive look at this topical research area This book is essential reading for anyone involved in translation studies machine translation or interested in translation technology

Joint Training for Neural Machine Translation Yong Cheng, 2019-08-26 This book presents four approaches to jointly training bidirectional neural machine translation NMT models First in order to improve the accuracy of the attention mechanism it proposes an agreement based joint training approach to help the two complementary models agree on word alignment matrices for the same training data Second it presents a semi supervised approach that uses an autoencoder to reconstruct monolingual corpora so as to incorporate these corpora into neural machine translation It then introduces a joint training algorithm for pivot based neural machine translation which can be used to mitigate the data scarcity problem Lastly it describes an end to end bidirectional NMT model to connect the source to target and target to source translation models allowing the interaction of parameters between these two directional models

Towards Responsible Machine Translation Helena Moniz,Carla Parra

Escartín,2023-03-01 This book is a contribution to the research community towards thinking and reflecting on what Responsible Machine Translation really means It was conceived as an open dialogue across disciplines from philosophy to law with the ultimate goal of providing a wide spectrum of topics to reflect on It covers aspects related to the development of Machine translation systems as well as its use in different scenarios and the societal impact that it may have This text appeals to students and researchers in linguistics translation natural language processing philosophy and law as well as professionals working in these fields
