Petrochemical Effluents Treatment Practi:

Industrial Water Treatment in Refineries and Petrochemical Plants François Berné, Jean Cordonnier, 1995-03-21 The challenge for both effluent purification and cooling water conditioning is the search for minimum makeup water consumption and consequently optimum effluent recovery in order to ensure better environmental protection PETROCHEMICAL EFFLUENTS - TREATMENT PRACTICES - SUMMARY. United States. Environmental Protection Agency, Study on the Treatment of Petrochemical Effluents Giovanni Matarrese, University of Manchester. Pollution Research Unit, 1982

Biological Treatment of High Strength Petrochemical Wastewater William J. Humphrey, Enrique R. Witt, Joseph F. Malina, 1979 Petroleum Industry Wastewater Muftah H. El-Naas, Aditi Banerjee, 2022-03-15 Petroleum Industry Wastewater Advanced and Sustainable Treatment Methods discusses the status of different approaches and advanced processes involved in the treatment of petrochemical and petroleum industry wastewater The book focuses on advanced sustainable and environmentally friendly technologies for removing toxic pollutants from contaminated waters The book also explores the environmental aspects and impacts of the petroleum industry discharge wastewater their effect on aquatic life and possible ways to deal with these effects Keeping the global water crisis and fast depletion of natural fresh water in mind more immediate knowledge information implication and effective utilization of available resources are required than we anticipated The book brings a wide range of methodologies and perspectives under one roof in a comprehensive manner Describes advanced strategies and methods involved in petroleum industry water treatment Deals with ways to treat discharged water through cutting edge technologies Presents an overview of pollutant degradation in industrial wastewater Highlights advanced and technological know how for a variety of applications Wastewater Treatment in a Petrochemical Refinery G. Konstantopoulos, University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology. Chemical Engineering, 1996

Evaluation of Treatment Performance and Microbial Community in a Full-scale Petrochemical Wastewater Treatment Plant, 2021 Treatment of Aqueous Effluents from the Petrochemicals Industry European Chemical Industry Federation. Petrochemicals / Ecology Sector Group, 1977 Evaluation of Biological Treatment for the Degradation of Petroleum Hydrocarbons in a Wastewater Treatment Plant Pradipta Ranjan Basu, 2005 Biodegradation of petroleum hydrocarbon can be an effective treatment method applied to control oil pollution in both fresh water and marine environments Hydrocarbon degraders both indigenous and exogenous are responsible for utilizing petroleum hydrocarbon as their substrate for growth and energy thereby degrading them Biodegradation of hydrocarbons is often enhanced by bioaugmentation and biostimulation depending on the contaminated environment and the competence of the hydrocarbon degraders present An evaluation of the performance of the biological treatment of petroleum hydrocarbon by the hydrocarbon degrading microbes at the Brayton Fire School s 4 million gallon per day MGD wastewater treatment plant was the main research objective Samples were taken for two seasons winter Nov 03 Jan 03 and summer Jun 04 Aug 04 from each of the four treatment units the inlet tank equalization tank aeration tank and the outfall tank The population of aliphatic hydrocarbon degraders were enumerated and nutrient availability in the system were used to evaluate the effectiveness of on going bioaugmentation and biostimulation Monitoring of general effluent parameters was conducted to evaluate the treatment plant s removal efficiency and to determine if effluent discharge was in compliance with the TCEQ permit The aeration tank is an activated sludge system with no recycling Hydrocarbon degraders are supplied at a constant rate with additional nutrient supplement There was a significant decrease in the population of microbes that was originally fed to the system and the quantity resident in the aeration tank Nutrient levels in the aeration tank were insufficient for the concentration of hydrocarbon degraders even after the application of dog food as a biostimulant The use of dog food is not recommended as a nutrient supplement Adding dog food increases the nitrogen and phosphorus concentration in the aeration tank but the amount of carbon being added with the dog food increases the total chemical oxygen demand COD and biochemical oxygen demand BOD An increase in the concentration of total COD and BOD further increases the nitrogen and phosphorus requirement in the system The main objective of supplying adequate nutrients to the hydrocarbon degraders would never be achieved as there would be an additional demand of nutrients to degrade the added carbon source This research study was conducted to identify the drawbacks in the treatment plant which needs further investigation to improve efficiency

Diesel contaminated wastewater was treated in the hybrid CWs spiked with three different nutrient concentrations Numerical experiments were performed to investigate the biodegradation of the diesel compounds in the synthetic contaminated wastewater by the duplex CWs using constructed wetland 2D The VF CWs had a higher removal efficiency than the HFF CWs and the hybrid CW showed higher removal efficiencies in the days with nutrient application than the days without nutrient application Chapter 8

Petrochemicals Vivek Patel,2012-03-28

The petrochemical industry is an important constituent in our pursuit of economic growth employment generation and basic needs It is a huge field that encompasses many commercial chemicals and polymers This book is designed to help the reader particularly students and researchers of petroleum science and engineering understand the mechanics and techniques The selection of topics addressed and the examples tables and graphs used to illustrate them are governed to a large extent by the fact that this book is aimed primarily at the petroleum science and engineering technologist This book is must read material for students engineers and researchers working in the petrochemical and petroleum area It gives a valuable and cost effective insight into the relevant mechanisms and chemical reactions The book aims to be concise self explanatory and informative

Pollutants Removal and Connections Among Sludge Properties, Metabolism Potential and Microbial Characteristics in Aerobic Granular Sequencing Batch Reactor for Petrochemical Wastewater Treatment Jiang Yu,Zhaozhi Hou,Chaoyu Li,Xueqing Shi,Xiangling Zhang,Yaohuan Gao,Shihai Deng,2023 Petrochemical wastewater contains inhibitory compounds such as aromatics that are toxic to microorganisms during biological treatment The compact and layered structure and the high amount of extracellular polymeric substances EPS in aerobic granular sludge AGS can contribute to protecting microorganisms from the harsh environment This study evaluated the changes in the granule properties pollutants removal microbial metabolic potential and molecular microbial characteristics of the AGS process for petrochemical wastewater treatment Granules treating petrochemical wastewater had a higher SVI30 SVI5 value 0.94 than that treating synthetic wastewater An increase in bioactivity and EPS secretion with higher bio polymer composition specifically the functional groups such as hydroxyl alkoxy and amino in protein was observed which promoted biomass aggregation Granules treating petrochemical wastewater had a higher SVI30 SVI5 value 0.94 than those treating synthetic wastewater The granules also had more than 2 fold higher specific oxygen utilization rate and secreted 1.8 times more protein The AGS SBR process obtained an average COD removal of 93% during petrochemical wastewater treatment and an effluent bCOD of below 1 mg L⁻¹ of No obvious inhibition of nitrification and denitrification activity was observed in the processes attributed to the layered structure of AGS The average effluent NH₄-N of 5.0 mg L⁻¹ was obtained and TN removal efficiencies of over 80.0% was achieved Molecular microbial analysis showed that abundant functional genera Stenotrophomonas and Pseudoxanthomonas contributed the degradation of aromatics and other petroleum organic pollutants They were enriched with the variation of group behavior while metabolisms of amino acids and carboxylic acids by the relevant functional genera e.g. Cytophagia were significantly inhibited The enrichment of Flavobacterium and Thermomonas promoted nitrification and denitrification respectively This research revealed the rapid start up enhanced granule structural strength high inhibition resistance and considerable performance of AGS SBR for petrochemical wastewater treatment

Optimization and Control of Petroleum Refinery Wastewater Treatment Systems with a Focus on Toxic Contaminants, 1989 Papers presented at a workshop held to discuss innovative and economic methods of improving the performance of petroleum refinery wastewater treatment systems through process optimization The papers covered petroleum refinery wastewater treatment plant design and operation treatment process optimization and toxics removal and legislation in Canada and the United States
