The Nazi Ghost Train Drac Von Stoller, 1944. It was 1944, and it wouldn't be long before World War II was over, and the Germans would be defeated by the United States and the help of other allies. War is hell, and the haunting memory of the atrocities that went on with innocent people in the concentration camps would go unpunished for many SS Nazi soldiers. But some of that would not be the case when they boarded a train and headed back to their homes to their families. There was laughter, smoking, and plenty of beer to celebrate, even though they lost the war. These soldiers were just glad it was over and ready to put this horrid memory behind them all and lead healthy lives with their families when they got back home. As for this bloodthirsty, cold as ice SS soldier, this train ride was bound for hell. Somehow ten minutes into the trip, the engineer suffered a massive heart attack and didn't have time to slow the train down to a complete stop. So the train was running full speed ahead on a course for self-destruction. None of the soldiers had a clue that moments later they would all be dead The soldiers were too absorbed in the moment of laughter and drunkenness to notice that something went wrong If the engineer were still alive he would have slowed the train down Then quickly made the turn around the curve but since he isn't the train jumped the track and all the rail cars broke apart sending all the SS Nazi soldiers to their deaths When the train never arrived at the train station the families of the soldiers knew something was wrong and notified the police to investigate immediately

Mommy, I'm Scared Drac Von Stoller, Carol Anne would always fear the night because she knew when she laid her head down on her pillow her nightmares would suffocate her as she squeezed her doll with all her might as though it would be her last Every night just shortly after midnight she would scream out for her mommy but the screams would soon go unnoticed because when her mother would come in and check on her she would find no reason to believe her daughter's fear To make matters worse she had no bedroom door so anything she saw at her door would only ignite the situation Every morning when she sat with her mother at the kitchen table for breakfast reliving the experience of her nightmares over and over in hopes her mother would believe what she was telling her was not a dream Finally her mother said If you don't stop this nonsense you are going to get the spanking of your life Carol just looked in her mother's cold dark eyes as tears flowed down her cheeks saying Mommy don't worry when morning comes I won't be sitting at the breakfast table pleading with you to believe what I say is true Again night came and Carol Anne climbed into her bed knowing this would probably be the last time she screamed and held her dolly in her arms for comfort
