Schultz, 2016-02-16 As societies become more complex and interconnected the global risk for catastrophic disasters is increasing Demand for expertise to mitigate the human suffering and damage these events cause is also high A new field of disaster medicine is emerging offering innovative approaches to optimize disaster management Much of the information needed to create the foundation for this growing specialty is not objectively described or is scattered among multiple different sources This definitive work brings together a coherent and comprehensive collection of scientific observations and evidence based recommendations with expert contributors from around the globe This book identifies essential subject matter clarifies nomenclature and outlines necessary areas of proficiency for healthcare professionals handling mass casualty crises It also describes in depth strategies for the rapid diagnosis and treatment of victims suffering from blast injuries or exposure to chemical biological and radiological agents      The Public Health Response to 2009 H1N1 Michael A. Stoto, Melissa A. Higdon, 2015 This book draws lessons from the public health system's response to the influenza pandemic offering a collection of chapters that are highly relevant to all public health emergencies Not simply a historical case study this analysis employs a systems perspective that encompasses both government health agencies and community based entities such as care providers schools and media      Pandemic Influenza Preparedness and Response Guidance for Healthcare Workers and Healthcare Employers, 2007      The Threat of Pandemic Influenza Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Forum on Microbial Threats, 2005-04-09 Public health officials and organizations around the world remain on high alert because of increasing concerns about the prospect of an influenza pandemic which many experts believe to be inevitable Moreover recent problems with the availability and strain specificity of vaccine for annual flu epidemics in some countries and the rise of pandemic strains of avian flu in disparate geographic regions have alarmed experts about the world's ability to prevent or contain a human pandemic The workshop summary The Threat of Pandemic Influenza Are We Ready addresses these urgent concerns The report describes what steps the United States and other countries have taken thus far to prepare for the next outbreak of killer flu It also looks at gaps in readiness including hospitals inability to absorb a surge of patients and many nations incapacity to monitor and detect flu outbreaks The report points to the need for international agreements to share flu vaccine and antiviral stockpiles to ensure that the 88 percent of nations that cannot manufacture or stockpile these products have access to them It chronicles the toll of the H5N1 strain of avian flu currently circulating among poultry in many parts of Asia which now accounts for the culling of millions of birds and the death of at least 50 persons And it compares the costs of preparations with the costs of illness and death that could arise during an outbreak      Novel insights in rehabilitation of neglect Tanja Nijboer, Stefan Van der Stigchel, 2014-09-03 Hemispatial neglect is the failure to report respond to or orient to novel or meaningful stimuli presented in the contralesional

Global Spread of the Avian Flu Marilyn R. Bethe, 2006 Avian influenza or bird flu is a contagious disease of animals caused by viruses that normally infect only birds and less commonly pigs Avian influenza viruses are highly species specific but have on rare occasions crossed the species barrier to infect humans In domestic poultry infection with avian influenza viruses causes two main forms of disease distinguished by low and high extremes of virulence The so called low pathogenic form commonly causes only mild symptoms ruffled feathers a drop in egg production and may easily go undetected The highly pathogenic form is far more dramatic It spreads very rapidly through poultry flocks causes disease affecting multiple internal organs and has a mortality that can approach 100% often within 48 hours A pandemic can start when three conditions have been met a new influenza virus subtype emerges it infects humans causing serious illness and it spreads easily and sustainably among humans The H5N1 virus amply meets the first two conditions it is a new virus for humans H5N1 viruses have never circulated widely among people and it has infected more than 100 humans killing over half of them No one will have immunity should an H5N1 like pandemic virus emerge All prerequisites for the start of a pandemic have therefore been met save one the establishment of efficient and sustained human to human transmission of the virus The risk that the H5N1 virus will acquire this ability will persist as long as opportunities for human infections occur These opportunities in turn will persist as long as the virus continues to circulate in birds and this situation could endure for some years to come Avian Influenza David E.
